NEW FLEXIBLE PLAN TRIUMPH FOR PRESIDENT

Revamped Tariff Clause Presented to Senate by Smoot.

DEMOCRATS DEALT BLOW BY REVISION

60-Day Deadline Against Hoover Eliminated by Conferees.

G. O. P. COUP IN WAKE OF BARKLEY ACTION

White House Powers Remain Intact Through Change in Moot Provision.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The tariff conferees, faced yesterday with the task of redrafting the flexible provision because the Democrats had objected to their earlier handiwork, made short shrift of giving the President pretty much what he wants.

The new flexible plan agreed upon and subsequently reported to the Senate by Senator Smoot in a fit of anger, although he had intended to wait until Monday, not only eliminates the clause by which the Tariff Commission's rates would have become effective if the President did not act in 60 days, but also the provision by which he would have been given only 60 days in which to act.

Indeed, there is only one more request that the President would have made, and that was the elimination of the change over the present law by which he is required to take or leave the specific rate recommended by the commission. With this exception, the developments of the past few days have been most fruitful for him.

Commission Powers Broadened.

As the matter now stands and as it will probably stand on the final vote because the tariff opposition seems to be fairly well spent, the President retains all of the power he has under the present law with the exception that he must take the specific rate recommended by the commission, an exception that is believed to be more than offset by the broadening of the base upon which the commission may act to boost or lower rates.

At present the base is the difference in the cost of production of foreign and American made goods. The original House bill extended this base to provide that "competitive conditions" could also be taken into consideration. This was hailed as a monstrosity by the coalition in the heyday of their tariff power. So now the all inclusive term "all other obvious factors" has been inserted. In other words, the commission investigating any commodity to determine whether the rate should be lowered or increased will start at the original base, "the difference in production costs," but as it moves along may take into consideration "all other obvious factors."

Boomerang by Democrats.

It would seem that the commission will be about as free-handed as Mr. Hoover had ever hoped it would be and in addition to that he is authorized to reorganize the entire commission which it is understood he fully expects to do.

The way things worked out on this flexible provision was right bad for the Democrats. Mr. Hoover would have been fairly hamstrung had the original plan prevailed. But Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, made a point of order and the plan went back to conference.

The original plan had been the Democrats' idea.

Barkley Sticks to Guns.

Of course, the plan is the Republicans' but Senator Watson, the Republican leader, was never so gay as he bantered with Harrison yesterday, pointing out that regardless of who was "responsible" for the plan the Democrats had brought it about.

Senator Barkley said he accepted full responsibility, that he had made the point of order against the original plan on his own initiative and without consultation with any of his colleagues.

At any rate, the Republicans got one of the best breaks they have gotten for some time. It is understood that they went into the conference yesterday with their new plan all written out and would have no traffic with the Democrats.

Hoover's Horizon Brightened.

"Here it is; take it or leave it," they are understood to have said.

The importance of this outcome to Mr. Hoover can not be minimized.

In all of these long months of debate on the tariff bill he has been

Police Link Murder To Huge Gem Thefts

Two Held in New York Suspects in Slaying in Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 29 (A.P.).—Robert Ellis, police fingerprint expert of Houston, Tex., who was active in investigation of the slaying of Preston R. Austin, in a hotel here several months ago, is going to New York to investigate the possible connection of two men in custody there with the Austin case, police here announced today.

Hot Springs police requested that the two men, George Cole and James Watson, arrested in a round-up of alleged jewel thieves be detained until Ellis reaches New York. Ellis assisted in the Austin slaying investigation at the request of the Texas Cattlemen's Association, of which Austin was a member.

Police explained that the wealthy cattleman was not shot and killed, but chloroformed and tied across the bed in his hotel room. He died of strangulation while attempting to free himself, police said.

They also said no blood was shed and expressed doubt that a pair of blood-stained white pants found in possession of one of the men in New York could figure in the affair.

Preston was robbed of a large diamond ring, authorities said.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The big jewel round-up which began early this week went on today, with developments popping out on all sides and further sensational angles in the offing.

The status of the case tonight was this: Five men and a woman are

JOHNSON DEFENDS TREATY ATTACKERS

PRAISE HELD DUE THEM

(Associated Press.)

The Navy admiralty which testified against provisions of the London naval treaty before Senate committees was defended from attacks in the press yesterday by Senator Johnson (Republican), California.

In a prepared statement Senator Johnson took the responsibility for calling the Navy leaders and asserted: "They have been true to the highest traditions of the American Navy and deserve from all Americans only commendation and praise." He said they "dared to tell the truth about a political treaty behind which is such tremendous political power."

Senator Johnson's declaration came after the conclusion of the committee hearings. With the pact laid over for a special session, leaders indicated that no effort would be made to get it before the Senate for a week or ten days.

Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, superintendent of the Annapolis Naval Academy, was the last witness before the naval committee yesterday with a reiteration of the assault on the treaty he made Wednesday before the foreign relations committee in its closing hearing.

Senator Oddie (Republican), Nevada, one of the naval committee, announced at the conclusion that he was ready to propose some reservations to the pact, but he did not disclose their nature.

Senator Johnson said:

"Some newspapers have brutally assaulted officers of the United States Navy because their testimony before the foreign relations committee has militated against the London treaty. These assaults are unjustified and outrageous. The foreign relations committee itself called the general board of the Navy before it and asked for the views of these officers.

"The others who have testified came because I summoned them and all have testified just as witnesses testify in court, not as volunteers, but as witnesses duly called. The responsibility for calling most of those who have appeared rests entirely with me

HOTEL ROBBER GETS $4,000 IN GEM LOOT

Jewels Taken From Room of Prominent New York Society Woman.

THIEF LEAVES NO CLEW

Hard on the heels of the exposure of a gigantic jewelry theft ring in New York City, Washington experienced its own "big time" jewel robbery last night when Mrs. Charles Deming, wealthy and socially prominent New Yorker, stopping at the Carlton Hotel, reported the theft of three costly items valued at $4,000.

Immediate investigation of the circumstances surrounding the robbery by Headquarters Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea led police to the conclusion that the perpetrator was no amateur. A painstaking examination of the room from which the jewels were reported stolen failed to reveal a single clew.

Bertillon measurement experts were unable to get any fingerprints on the trunk in which the jewels were hidden, nor were they successful in finding any telltale marks in the apartment.

Mrs. Deming left her room around 7 o'clock and went into the dining room for supper. She returned approximately an hour later and found her door had been tampered with. She went at once to the place where she had left the jewels and found everything of value taken.

A slender steel stay, such as is found in corsets, had been used to pry the door tumbler back. It is one of the old tricks of the game, police explained, and is a highly useful article in the hands of an expert burglar.

The most valuable piece taken was a diamond and pearl necklace with an emerald clasp, valued at $2,500. Another necklace valued at $1,000 and a diamond bracelet valued at $500 completed the loss.

Police believe that some one saw Mrs. Deming with the jewelry and watched her until a chance arrived to enter the room. Mrs. Deming lives at the Plaza Hotel in New York City.

Mrs. Deming is prominent in New York society and is the widow of a New York lawyer. She was Miss Mabel F. Wilson before her marriage. She spent most of last winter in Washington and had returned here Wednesday.

Police Raiders Crack Safe To Capture Liquor Supply

Treasury Department Expert Called in and Peels Off Combination With Acetylene Torch; Three Other Places Are Hit.

An expert "cracksman" of the Terasury Department, was called in by police raiders late yesterday to drill open a strong box suspected of containing liquor in an alleged speakeasy on F street near Sixth street northwest.

The raid was one of a series of four conducted by Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman's vice squad in the Northwest section, and it was the first time in the history of the squad that an expert safeman was necessary to uncover liquor.

When the raiding party descended on the place they say they found an elaborate bar, but no liquor was in sight. Stepping into a room, they say, they found a safe 6 feet square, which refused to open under their inexperienced hands.

A call to the Treasury Department resulted in the quick dispatch of a safe expert with an acteylene torch. However, the expert decided to drill off the combination. After two hours of work, the doors were finally released. Police say they were rewarded by finding twenty quarts of liquor.

Police arrested Joseph Koch, 48 years old, whom they charged with sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

Police next stopped at what they termed an "old-fashioned saloon" on U street near Sixteenth street northwest. They say the place was outfitted with an 80-foot bar and other furnishings necessary in the prepohibition days in dispensing liquor. They arrested Thomas McCarthy, 58 years old, who was charged with sale and possession of liquor and main-

PAY INCREASE TO POLICE AND FIREMEN SURE

Capper-Zihlman Measure Deadlock Severed by Committee.

BILL WILL BE PASSED IN HOUSE ON MONDAY

New Draft Agreeable to Phipps; Approval of Senate Certain.

PROPOSED BOOSTS TO OFFICIALS PARED

Schedule Calls for Range of Pay of Privates From $1,900 to $2,400.

The deadlock over the Capper-Zihlman bill to raise the pay of policeman and firemen was completely broken yesterday. Hence there is now no doubt that the bill will pass the House Monday.

Nor is there any doubt that it will then be finally approved by the Senate, for the compromise reached yesterday is entirely satisfactory to Senator Phipps (Republican), of Colorado.

The wrangle over the bill came to a definite end yesterday at a conference held in the office of the House appropriations committee. Present were Representatives Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska; Representative Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland; Representative McLeod (Republican), of Michigan, nd Representative Lampert (Republican), of Wisconsin.

Schedule of Salaries.

Only one provision was in dispute when the four men met—that affecting pay raises for privates. The provision, as finally agreed to, calls for a salary schedule as follows:

For men with less than one year of service, $1,900 a year; from one to two years' service, $2,000; from two to three years, $2,100; from three to six, $2,200; from six to seven, $2,300, and from seven on up, $2,400.

The base pay of a private now is $1,800 and the maximum $2,100.

The Capper-Zihlman bill, as originally drafted, boosted the base pay to $1,900 and the maximum pay to $2,400.

Automatic Clause Hit.

Senator Phipps and Representative Simmons did not object to this new salary range; what they did object to was language in the bill which automatically would have raised the pay of all privates with three years' service to $2,400.

Under the provision agreed to yesterday, they will get this maximum only if they have served seven years.

A bitter fight on the bill was assured by the manner in which the Senate passed the measure. Senator Phipps had offered a number of amendments. The day the bill came up he was out of the city and all but three of his amendments were scrapped. Then the bill went to the House.

In the House, the Phipps amendments were sponsored by Representative Simmons, and it was his insistence that they be accepted that has held up the bill until now.

New Private Pay Scale.

CITY HONORS DEAD TODAY, LED BY MAN WHO SELECTED NATION'S UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Sergt. Younger Arrives in Capital as Guest of Washington Post.

EAGER TO GO AT ONCE TO TOMB OF "BUDDY"

Puzzled by Sudden Leap From Obscurity to Center of Stage.

WIFE, SON TO HEAR HIM IN RADIO TALK

Holds All-Day Reception on Train, Relating His War Experiences.

By DUNCAN HASELL.

Happy in the gratification of a 9-year-old wish, Sergt. Edward S. Younger, the man who picked America's Unknown Soldier, arrived in the city last night to be The Washington Post's guest at memorial rites in Arlington Cemetery today.

Breaking away from a welcoming crowd attracted by photographers' powder flashes, the sergeant hastened to a taxi and was all set for an immediate visit to the tomb of his "buddy," whom he selected from four unidentified corpses in a little chapel at Chalons-sur-Marne, France, back in October, 1921.

He feels a personal interest in the Unknown, and despite the fatigue incident to a journey from his home in Chicago, was eager to go at once to the tomb so he "could think things over before the crowd gathered." He was finally persuaded to go to his hotel to rest for the important functions that he will perform today.

President's Aid Sends Note.

Among numerous letters and telegrams that the sergeant found awaiting him was a note from the President's secretary, George Akerson, informing him of Mr. Hoover's desire to meet him, and regretting the fact that the Chief Executive would be out of the city today and tomorrow.

A wire from Thomas F. Flaherty, president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, congratulated Mr. Younger—himself a postal clerk—and invited him to call at the organization's office.

Mr. Akerson's note to Sergt. Younger, written on behalf of the President, read: "I am indeed sorry that the President will not be in Washington on Memorial Day, nor the Saturday following, to greet you. The President is speaking at the Gettysburg Battlefield on Friday.

"I trust that your stay in Washington may be a most pleasant one. I congratulate you upon your participation in the ceremonies incident to the honoring of the memory of the Unknown Soldier."

Flaherty Extends Invitation.

Mr. Flaherty's telegram read: "Would like opportunity to see you and extend courtesies of National Federation of Postoffice Clerks during your Washington visit. Am leaving city tonight until Monday. Office will be closed Friday, but try to visit headquarters Saturday morning. Best wishes and congratulations."

Mr. Flaherty yesterday made arrangements for Sergt. Younger to re-

ZEPPELIN MAY OMIT FLIGHT OVER HAVANA

(Associated Press.)

The Graf, Zeppelin wirelessed the Navy radio station at Balboa last night that it was passing Barbados at 9 p. m. (Eastern standard time), heading northwest.

The Navy Department earlier had announced receipt of a message from the Graf Zeppelin, giving the airship's position at 5 p. m. (Eastern standard time), as latitude 10.55 north; longitude 56.21, or about 350 miles east of Trinidad.

Havana, May 29 (A. P.).—Wireless messages from the Graf Zeppelin tonight indicated that the big airship might cancel her scheduled flight over Cuba and skip the stop at Havana. They said the Zeppelin was encountering heavy storms and has been delayed many hours. The messages were received by Louis Classing, general manager of the Hamburg-America Line here.

They added that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the airship, would decide definitely tomorrow whether the Graf should head directly for Lakehurst and New York instead of stopping at Havana. The Cuban visit was referred to as a "detour" on the trip from Pernambuco, Brazil, to Lakehurst.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The New York American publishes a copyrighted dispatch from Karl von Wiegand, its special correspondent aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, en route to Lakehurst, N. J. The dispatch says:

The Graf was again out of touch with the world today, as it had been during the flight over Russia last summer, but late tonight we finally got into radio communication with the American stations.

The great airliner sped up the Atlantic today, heading toward the In-

RETIREMENT BILL SIGNED BY HOOVER

1929 PLEDGE RECALLED

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

In the little border town of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., last September, representatives of Uncle Sam's great army of workers were told that in President Herbert Hoover they had a true and sympathetic friend.

They were told further that they could now look forward to getting a real retirement law. Coming as it did just a few months after Calvin Coolidge had vetoed a retirement bill, this prediction brought tumultuous cheering.

Yesterday the prediction bore fruit; President Hoover signed the new Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill. In doing so, he made that measure the law of the land, and liberalized a retirement system that affects more than 400,000 Federal workers.

The President had lived up to what had been said about him at the Sault Ste. Marie convention of the Federation of Federal Employes last September. The speaker on that occasion was Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, chairman of the House civil service committee.

As reported at the time by a staff correspondent of The Post, Mr. Lehlbach told the assembled delegates that President Hoover would "give sympathetic and intelligent consideration to measures in your behalf."

Luther C. Steward, president of the Federation of Federal Employes, yesterday hailed the new retirement law as the keystone of a new personnel policy for those who toil for Uncle Sam.

Now, he said, the federation will press for other reforms that are essential to this policy. Among these are the following:

A Saturday half-holiday the year round. A bill to grant this already

Business in Washington

By A. J. VOORHEES

Manager, Washington Branch Office, Aetna Life Insurance Co. and Affiliated Companies; President, Insurance Club of Washington.

Business in Washington is on the upgrade. The general lines of insurance usually reflect business conditions rather accurately. I am sure it is as true of other offices writing all lines as it is of ours that each succeeding month this year has shown increased production, with May the best, and the future looking brighter all the time.

To overcome conditions created by last October's stock crash, insurance offices generally went to work as they never have before. The agent has put in longer hours; has seen more people; has counseled with them more intelligently. And in his efforts he has been heartily backed by his companies, for the companies know that their success is measured by that of their agents.

Although the aggregate amount of insurance premiums is large, in all too many cases inadequate amounts of insurance protection are carried, and in many, many instances vital needs are left wholly unprotected. It is the job of the insurance agent to fill these needs. He is trying harder this year than ever before and finding his job easier each month.

I am sure that business in Washington is on the upgrade. Also, I am certain that the lesson of hard work learned so far this year promises well for the future.

CITY HONORS DEAD TODAY, LED BY MAN WHO SELECTED NATION'S UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Sergeant Again to Drop Flowers on Tomb of Nameless Hero.

ARLINGTON PROGRAM SET FOR 1 O'CLOCK

President to Be Absent; Will Make Address in Gettysburg.

VETERANS' PARADE FIRST EVENT OF DAY

Other Exercises Planned at Various Shrines of Country's Slain.

Stepping from behind a curtain of obscurity which for nine years has shielded him from the public eye, a former soldier today will occupy the center of the stage, usually held by the President of the United States, as the National Capital marks Memorial Day.

The soldier is Sergt. Edward S. Younger, now a Chicago mail clerk. He is the man who dropped a wreath of roses on a coffin in France nine years ago, thus selecting the Unknown Soldier, whose tomb in Arlington National Cemetery hundreds of thousands have traveled the length and breadth of the land to pay homage. He comes to the Capital as a guest of The Washington Post.

Although there will be speakers, singing, prayers and other services at the great amphitheater in Arlington today, all eyes will center on Sergt. Younger when he steps forward to place another bouquet of roses on the tomb of a "buddy" who has risen from the ranks to become a symbol of American manhood to all the Nation.

Hoover to Be at Gettysburg.

Sergt. Younger's act today during his first visit to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier will supplant in public interest the activities of the President, Mr. Hoover having agreed to deliver his Memorial Day address at Gettysburg instead of in Arlington.

Every patriotic and veterans' organization in the city will participate in one or more of the many services scheduled today in the cemeteries of the Capital and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

An overcast sky, with a hint of rain in the air, possibly reminiscent of the dark days of the World War, is the prediction for the day, but all programs honoring the dead of all wars are expected to be carried out unless there is a heavy downpour.

A parade of veterans in the downtown section will open the day's activities at 9 o'clock. The line will include the Marine Band, the Grand Army of the Republic, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, National Indian War Veterans, Indian War Veterans, the American Veterans of Hellenic Descent and the Army and Navy Bands.

To Parade Around Treasury.

The line of march will be from Pennsylvania avenue south of the Treasury, north on the west side of the Treasury to H street, east to Thirteenth street, and south to B street, where veterans will board special cars to go to Arlington Cemetery.

Special services at which wreaths will be placed on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier will be held shortly after noon by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans.

The public program at Arlington National Cemetery is scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock with an overture by the Marine Band. Frank J. Young, department commander of the G. A. R., will call the assemblage to order, after which the colors will be pre-

Dorothy Sherman Pierson will sing "The Star-Spangled Banner," after which James G. Yaden will read Gen. Logan's order establishing Memorial Day. Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, will then deliver his address. He will be followed by Mrs. Elsie Jorss Reilley singing "Sleep, Soldier Boy," official song of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Lincoln Address to Be Read.

Harlan Wood will read Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address," and then Col. Ernst W. Gibson, representative from Vermont, will speak. Miss Jeannette E. McCaffrey will sing "There Is No Death." The third address of the afternoon will be delivered by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d. "The Recessional" will be sung by Mrs. Ruby Smith Stahl, accompanied by the Marine Band, and the audience will then sing "America." Benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney.

Representative Frank Crowther, of New York, will be the principal speaker at services in the National Cemetery at the U. S. Soldiers' Home at 9 o'clock. Another representative, Albert R. Hall, of Indiana, will be the speaker at the services held in Congressional Cemetery at 10 o'clock. Rossa F. Downing, George F. Williams and Chester Holmes are scheduled to speak at services in Holy Rood, Oak Hill and Glenwood Cemeteries, respectively.

Afternoon ceremonies will be held at 3:15 o'clock in the National Battle Ground Cemetery, where Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, will deliver the principal oration.

Dewey, Wilson to Be Honored.

The Washington Cathedral will be the scene of several services during the morning. First of these will be the laying of a wreath on the tomb of Admiral George Dewey by the Admiral George Dewey Naval Camp No. 7, United Spanish War Veterans. This is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock. At 9:15 Maj. Raymond E. McQuillan, of the White House staff, will place a wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Hoover on the tomb of President Woodrow Wilson. The Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War also will hold services at the tomb of Admiral Dewey.

Bishop James E. Freeman will preach a special Memorial Day sermon at 10 o'clock over the Columbia Broadcasting System. At 11:30 o'clock members of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation committee will place another wreath on the tomb of the World War President.

Nurses in the various wars of the country will not be neglected in the day's program of homage to hero dead, for a special service in their section of Arlington Cemetery is listed at 11 o'clock. Jane A. Delano Post No. 6, American Legion, will conduct the ceremonies. Lieut. Col. C. A. Neyman, chaplain in the Navy, will preach and Arthur Witcomb, second leader of the Marine Band, will play a cornet solo.

Architects Are Remembered.

Graves of four architects, prominent in the early history of the Nation, and particularly of the Capital, will be decorated by the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects during the morning. The men to be honored are Maj. Pierre L'Enfant, who planned the City of Washington; Dr. William Thornton, George Hadfield and James Hoban. Maj. L'Enfant is interred at Arlington, Thornton and Hadfield at Congressional Cemetery and Hoban in Mount Olivet Cemetery. Horace W. Peaslee, president of the Washington Chapter; William Partridge, Harry F. Cunningham and Francis P. Sullivan will deliver addresses at the graves.

Memorial Day exercises will be held at the Georgetown Law School at 10 o'clock this morning for the 50 or more students and alumni who died in service during the World War. Brig. Gen. Michael J. Lenihan and George E. Hamilton, dean of the law school, will be the principal speakers.

The two senior classes will have charge of the program, which will be conducted in the library, where hangs a bronze tablet bearing the names of Georgetown's roll of honor. These names will be read by William I. O'Neill, president of the afternoon senior class, and afterward a wreath will be placed.

Two Seniors Will Speak.

Two seniors, Donald R. Heggy and John J. Jerome, will speak on behalf of their classmates. The Rev Thomas E. Chetwood, S. J., regent of the school, will give the invocation.

President Hoover will motor to the scene of his Memorial Day speech at Gettysburg, on a battlefield where many of his predecessors have spoken since Abraham Lincoln first dedicated the ground. En route he will stop for lunch at the camp of Lawrence Richey, one of his secretaries, at Catoctin Furnace, Md., 30 miles from Gettysburg.

Accompanying the Chief Executive will be Secretary of War Hurley, Mr. Richey, George Akerson, another secretary; Col. Campbell Hodges, White House military aid; Capt. Allen Buchanan, naval aid, and Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician. At Gettysburg the President will be met by Gov. Fisher of Pennsylvania and Henry P. Fletcher, former Ambassador to Italy.

To Visit Cooke Estate.

Following his participation in the ceremonies on the battlefield, President Hoover and his party will motor on some 200 miles to the country estate of Jay Cooke 3d, which is near Williamsport. There, unless the status of tariff legislation cancels all plans, the President will spend tomorrow fishing, returning to the Capital on Sunday.

Because all Government offices will be closed today for the holiday, two memorial services were held yesterday afternoon. At the Bureau of Engraving and Printing Senator Millard F. Tydings, of Maryland, was the principal speaker at services held by the bureau's post of the American Legion. Alvin W. Hall, director of the bureau; Paul J. McGahan, national executive committeeman of the legion, and James F. Kehoe, commander of the post, were other speakers.

The bureau's list of honored dead includes James R. Goggins, William P. Slattery, Thomas E. Fiddell, Richard A. Purcell, John M. Cooney, Clarence O'Connell and Francis J. Osterman.

Summerall Makes Address.

Harding Hall in the Government Printing Office was the scene of the other service at which Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the Army, delivered the address. United States Veterans of American Wars were in charge of the ceremony and the orchestra of the Army Band furnished music for the occasion.

Preparations for observing Memorial Day began yesterday when several hundred Boy Scouts under the direction of Col. E. L. Mattice placed carnations on the graves of all Spanish War veterans in Arlington National Cemetery and flags over the graves of all other soldier dead.

Gold Star Mothers of the District, aided by Victory and George E. Killen Posts of the American Legion, yesterday afternoon paid their annual visit to the World War memorial trees and markers on Sixteenth street, decorating each with poppies. The trees and markers were erected on the thoroughfare in honor of Washington men who fell during the World War.

Restaurant Pleads Bankruptcy.

The Eagle Restaurant, Inc., of 306 Ninth street northwest, through Wm York, president, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in District Supreme Court. Liabilities are listed as $6,988.84 against assets of $3,910. Attorney Simon Hershman appears for the petitioner.

He is just a little bit puzzled over his sudden jump into the limelight, after nine years of obscurity.

Gets Thrill From Trip.

"I didn't do a thing to deserve all this," he said last night, "but I certainly am getting a kick out of it. My wife says I talk too much, but you can bet I'll talk more when I get back home."

He has never been to Washington, and after he does his bit at the cemetery today he intends to go sight-seeing. His only regret is that he could not bring Jacky and the wife with him.

"But they will hear me over the radio," he said. "I've got one at home, and they will be tuned in an hour or so before I start. No, I'm not nervous—not a bit."

On the train to Washington the sergeant held an all-day reception, several men and women gathering about him when it became known that "this is the fellow who put the Unknown Soldier in Arlington."

Tells of Two Wounds.

He was made to tell his war experiences over and over again—all about the two times that he was wounded, and how he felt when he was given the responsibility of picking out the Unknown.

Modest and retiring, he found the experience rather trying, but admits that he received a thrill from it. His superior at the Chicago branch post-office gave him leave of absence for four days and his landlord followed him to the train with a box of cigars. The neighbors came in for a farewell party, and his little home at 2005 Bingham street was engulfed in excitement as the hour of departure drew near.

At 9 a. m. Sergt. Younger will participate in the Memorial Day parade after being obligated as a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He is already a member of Van Buren Post, American Legion, of Chicago. At noon he will follow the Gold Star Mothers in paying tribute at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Afterward he will be seated with the various officials of the Memorial Day ceremonies on the rostrum of the amphitheater. At 1 o'clock he will drop flowers on the Unknown's Tomb, as he did nine years ago in France.

At 5 p. m. he will speak over the coast-to-coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting Co. after being introduced by Representative Royal Johnson, of South Dakota. His wife and child will listen in Chicago. Representative Johnson is the man who, with J. Hamilton Fish, representative from New York, originated the plan of honoring the Unknown Soldier as a symbol of all of America's heroic war dead.

To Go on Tour of City.

Mr. Johnson was also responsible for the conferring of the Congressional Medal of Honor upon the Unknown Soldier of Britain, France, Italy and other allied nations, which resulted in these countries decorating the grave of the American unknown with the highest military honors within their power.

During the latter part of the afternoon Sergt. Younger will be conducted on a tour of the city, returning to his hotel by 8 p. m., where the members of the Memorial Day committee will also be the guests of The Washington Post at a dinner arranged in their honor.

Hero's Sons Will Place First Division Wreath

The two sons of Arthur Henry Marsh, chaplain with the First Division of the A. E. F., who was killed in the Argonne drive, will place a wreath on the monument of the First Division at the south of the State, War and Navy Building at a ceremony at 10 o'clock this morning.

The boys are Arthur Henry Marsh, Jr., 15 years old, and Richard Marmion Marsh, 14 years old, of 1810 Belmont road northwest. Their mother will accompany the lads when they place the wreath. Chaplain Marsh, who was well known in Washington, was fatally wounded on October 7, 1918 His sons were small children at the time. Chaplain Marsh's name is included in the list on the monument of those in the First Division who sacrificed their lives for their country.

Utility Valuation Checker Is Sought

Figures for Properties Do Not Give True Value, Say City Heads.

None of the existing valuations of public utilities properties "truly" represents the value of those properties, the Public Utilities Commission said in its estimates for 1932 submitted to the District Commissioners.

The commission inserted items in its estimates to provide for the hiring of a valuation engineer at an annual salary of $3,800, an assistant at $2,000, a valuation accountant at $3,800, an assistant at $2,600, and a senior stenographer at $1,620.

Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, declared in the estimates that the proper protection of the public interest made imperative the employment of a special assistant at a salary of $5,000 to aid in the checking of valuation claims and figures submitted by the utilities corporations.

Dry Referendum Support Grows

Senator Oddie Declares He Will Take Action if State Instructs.

Senator Tasker L. Oddie, stalwart Republican dry, of Nevada, yesterday followed the lead of both Senator Wesley L. Jones, Washington Republican, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana Democrat, in announcing that he will vote to submit prohibition to a Nation-wide referendum if his State instructs the action.

Senator James E. Watson, Indiana Republican, majority leader of the Senate, indicated some time ago that he was inclined to favor the referendum method in disposing of the prohibition problem. Political circles still are buzzing over the announcement of Senator Jones on Tuesday that his State should put prohibition to a referendum and that he would abide by its decree in voting in the Senate for repeal, modification or enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS SERVICES FOR DEAD

Wreaths Placed on Graves by Members Following Regular Meeting.

BINFORD LAUDS HEROES

The Washington Kiwanis Club paid tribute yesterday to the memory of 27 deceased members by reading their names at the regular luncheon meeting and afterward placing wreaths on their graves, together with a black-bordered card bearing the names of the dead. A delegation of Kiwanians, headed by Jesse H. Binford, of Richmond, Va., governor of the Capital Kiwanis District, also placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Praise for "the common man" and a plea for world peace characterized an address by Mr. Binford at the Washington Hotel. In the practice of the United States and European nations of paying honor to an unknown soldier, the speaker interpreted "a Declaring the Unknown Soldier was but a symbol, Mr. Binford said: "Through him we pay our tribute to nameless mothers who in obscurity and poverty reared the boys who went to France," and to "our humble ancestors * * * to the farmer * * * to the grimy worker in the steel mills * * * and to all those nameless people who * * * are the makers of our Nation."

James B. Edmunds, president of the Washington Club, and a special committee accompanied Mr. Binford to the tomb. Edgar Morris, former president, read the list of the dead as follows:

Samuel Miller, Elmer Simpson, William H. Warner, Perry B. Turpin, Arthur Kimball, Lawrence Barr, Franc Sheiry, Edwin F. Cook, Achille Burklin, Alfred Higbie, Frank Wagner, James A. Kelliher, Robert S. Downs, Roy L. Newhouser, George Hubbard, Samuel Clark, Willard Fracker, Lincoln Townsend, Charlie Murray, Randall Parsons, Ivan Weld, Pearce Raynor, F. Baker Weaver and Daniel Sullivan.

Motorcyclist Files Suit Against Capital Autoist

Edwin Rinker, of Vienna, Va., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against Albert L. Jones, said to live at the Lee House, seeking to recover $10,000 damages for alleged injuries which he claims he suffered in May 30, 1927 near Aldie, Va., on the an automobile-motorcycle collision Leesburg Highway.

Rinker states that he was riding his motorcycle in an easterly direction when the automobile belonging to Jones, and operated by either the latter or his wife, crashed into the two-wheeled vehicle. Negligence on the part of the operator of the automobile is alleged. Attorneys David Wiener, F. M Pelzman and Herman Pelzer appear for the plaintiff.

Wilkins Gets Permission To Use U. S. Submarine

(Associated Press.)

Sir Hubert Wilkins has been informed that he may use the Navy's old decommissioned submarine O-12 for his Arctic expedition, if he makes application through the Shipping Board, Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy said yesterday he had written to Sloan Danenhower, Mr. Wilkins' representative, to that effect.

Mr. Wilkins and several members of his proposed expedition outlined to Mr. Jahncke recently their plans for converting the submarine into an underwater craft they believed would be capable of boring its way through the ice of the polar regions.

Rockville Girls Sought in Capital.

Capital police last night were searching for two girls who disappeared from the Christ Child Society Home at Rockville, Md. The girls, who left the home yesterday, are Genevieve Kernan, 11 years old, and Rosie Anasthosia, 11 years old.

Lodge Joiner Spurns Order of Income Tax

Oklahoma City, May 29 (A.P.).—It doesn't pay a taxpayer to belong to too many lodges. Indeed, that theory probably saved a Pushmataha County taxpayer some money.

Scott Stine, assistant State auditor, mailed a State income tax blank to the Pushmataha County resident, asking him to fill it out and return it.

The blank was sent back to the capitol, unsigned.

"I already belong to several lodge," wrote the prospective taxpayer, "and I do not care to join your income tax."

He won. Stine said there would be no reply from the auditor.

VETO VOTE PLANNED IN SENATE MONDAY

KNUTSON REVAMPS BILL

(Associated Press.)

An agreement was reached in the Senate yesterday to vote Monday on the first proposal made in that body to pass a bill over President Hoover's veto.

The vote will be on a motion by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, to override the Chief Executive's disapproval of the bill to liberalize pensions for Spanish War veterans.

President Hoover vetoed the measure Wednesday, and Mr. Connally, himself a Spanish War veteran, immediately presented his motion. He demanded action on it yesterday, but agreed to postponement upon a request by Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader.

Mr. Connally said he thought his motion, which required a two-thirds vote of both houses, would pass.

Meanwhile, a movement was started to recast the measure to meet objections of the President. Representative Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, chairman of the House pensions committee, planned to present a new bill in the House Monday after the Memorial Day recess.

Chairman Robinson, of the Senate pensions committee, conferred with his committee yesterday, but no agreement was reached. He said the group would wait for the Senate action Monday before deciding what procedure to follow.

Before agreeing to postponement yesterday Mr. Connally said in the Senate that "certain influences are interested in delaying action to the last possible moment for the purpose of killing the bill."

Policeman Again Hurt When Struck by Auto

For the second time in ten days, Seventh Precinct Policeman William Wren, of 2626 Tenth street northeast, last night was hurt when he was knocked down by an automobile at Thirty-first and M streets northwest, a block from the spot where he was struck by a suspected rum-laden car on May 19.

Wren suffered a sprained back and injuries of his left leg and right arm, necessitating admittance to Georgetown Hospital, when he was hit by a car operated by Adolphus McKenzie, 35 years old, of Norton street northeast, who was charged at the precinct station with reckless driving. McKenzie is a crippled World War veteran and manipulates pedals on his machine by use of leg attachments.

SMITH FIRM FACES PHILADELPHIA MOVE

Committee for Bondholders Files Receivership Proceedings Against Company.

FRAUD CHARGES MADE

Philadelphia, May 29 (A.P.).—Alleging fraud and mismanagement, John J. McDevitt, jr., local counsel for the bondholders' protective committee and others, today filed receivership proceedings against the F. H. Smith Co., Inc., its officers and subsidiaries, including the holding and operating companies of the Fairfax, the Royalton, the Chatham and the Overbrook Arms apartment houses in this city.

The bill of complaint alleges that through "various manipulations" the corporation and its officers had profited "fraudulently and at the expense of the bondholders; that the apartments have been mismanaged and that taxes and interest had not been paid." The protective committee demands an accounting of the Smith Co. and its subsidiaries and also that they refund to the bondholders money obtained through "false and fraudulent misrepresentations as to values and cost of construction."

The court was asked to name receivers for the local projects and the Smith Co. "in order that the properties may be conserved and protected" and that the apartment houses be reimbursed for "illegal profits."

Similar proceedings were said by Mr. McDevitt to be pending against the Smith Co. in Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., and New York City. He also stated that several officers of the corporation recently were indicted by Federal grand juries in New York and the District of Columbia. The concern's license to do business in Pennsylvania was revoked two years ago by the State Securities Department.

Wilson's Former Butler Convicted

Late President's Servant Is Held Guilty of Theft in Minute Trial.

It took a jury in District of Columbia Supreme Court before Justice William Hitz yesterday exactly one minute to convict James M. Sollomon, Negro, former second butler of President Woodrow Wilson, on a charge of housebreaking and larceny.

Another feature of the case was the fact that the Government offered only one witness and the fingerprints of the defendant and the prints photographed at the scene of the robbery. The lone witness, Detective Sergt. Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert of the Police Department, identified and compared the prints.

Assistant United States Attorney James A. Kirkland, who prosecuted the case, expressed the belief that Sollomon's conviction is the first in the Federal courts on fingerprint evidence.

Sollomon was charged with robbing the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Wilson at 2301 California avenue northwest last August 9. He will be sentenced next week.

Mosquito War Item Is Retained in Bill

Senator Glass Loses Fight on $60,000 Fund for Battling Pests.

The legislative batting average of Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, which soared last week when he put over his resolution to ban the dial telephones, took a sharp slump yesterday.

In the Senate and House conference on the District appropriation bill, the senator tried to throw out an item of $60,000 for a war on mosquitoes here. He thinks the item is ridiculous. In the 70 years or more he has lived here, he says, he has never been bitten by a mosquito, has never seen one, and has never heard the buzz of one.

The conferees, however, concluded that Senator Glass had simply been lucky, and in the interest of other Washington residents voted to keep the $60,000 item in the bill.

Hoover and Moses Talk G. O. P. Campaign Plans

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday called in Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, to discuss the outlook for the approaching campaign.

Senator Moses, who returned this week from a tour of Europe, said after the conference he had plenty of plans for the Republican drive but no news of the situation because of his extended absence from the country.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 3:30 p. m. to noon Monday.

Agreed to vote Monday on the proposal to override the President's veto on the Spanish-American War veterans pension bill.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, defended the Navy officers who appeared before the Senate committees and opposed various provisions in the London naval treaty.

Majority Leader Watson asserted that he "imagined" President Hoover would sign the tariff bill even though he wanted a different flexible provision.

Passed the $380,000,000 naval appropriation bill.

Sent the Muscle Shoals legislation, passed Wednesday by the House, to conference.

Commerce committee approved the Bingham bill to broaden authority of the Secretary of Commerce in investigating civil air accidents.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, was named chairman of the banking investigating committee.

Received the nomination of William R. Castle to be Assistant Secretary of State and Joseph L. Crupper to be collector of customs at Norfolk, Va.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4 p. m. to noon Monday.

Chairman Knutson, of the pension committee, announced that President Hoover had expressed approval of a substitute Spanish-American War veterans pension bill for the one vetoed Wednesday.

Interstate commerce committee approved the Owen bill to authorize the establishment of a Coast Guard station near Lake Worth Inlet, Fla.

Chairman Britten, of the naval committee, announced that his group would visit and inspect the two California sites for the proposed $5,000,000 dirigible base.

Received from the President a recommendation for a supplemental appropriation of $18,500 for a police radio station and to equip sixteen police automobiles with receiving sets, in Washington, D. C.

Chairman Fish, of the Communists investigating committee, announced that his group would begin its inquiry into Soviet propaganda in this country.

Rules committee agreed to permit the judiciary committee to bring up the Law Enforcement Commission's modified legislative program to relieve congested Federal courts.

ARMY TO ACT FIRST IN BREWSTER'S CASE

Civil Authorities Wait for Military Decision Before Pressing Action.

GIRL'S HONOR CLEARED

The fate of Private Howard L. Brewster, who alternately confessed and denied the slaying of Mary Baker, lies in the hands of Army officials.

Civil authorities after a lengthy conference late yesterday decided to await action of Army officials before pressing a civil complaint against the soldier.

Lieut. Edward Kelly, who conferred with Commonwealth's Attorney William Gloth, of Arlington County, announced that whatever action was taken by police officials would not occur before Monday. He said that it was decided by Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth that if Brewster is discharged by the Army to arrest the soldier on a warrant. The nature of the warrant, Lieut. Kelly said, had not been decided on.

The police are withholding action pending the final report of alienists who examined the soldier as to his sanity. The Army officials, too, are awaiting this report before taking any disciplinary action against the soldier.

Loath to Release Him.

Authorities are convinced that it would be fruitless to submit Brewster's confession to a grand jury. They are loath, however, to release the soldier because of several pertinent statements concerning the murder, which he is alleged to have made in his original confession.

It was seven weeks ago tonight that the Baker girl was seen by three pedestrians being beaten by a man in a gray cap in her car parked at Seventeenth and B streets northwest. Her bullet-riddled body was found the following morning in a culvert near Arlington Cemetery.

One of the important phases of the Brewster confession, which, police say, he never has denied was that he had an "argument" with a woman at Seventeenth and B streets on April 11. He did, however, deny that he shot a woman.

Letters Are Made Public.

Representatives S. O. Bland made public yesterday letters received from police officials exonerating the character of Miss Baker. Representative Bland said: "The expression of those most closely connected with the investigation should satisfy the most doubtful, and especially when it is remembered that the voice which could do the most in vindication of her honor is forever stilled in death."

Commonwealth Attorney Gloth wrote that he was convinced that "Miss Baker was a virtuous girl and that her character was beyond reproach."

Inspector William S. Shelby informed Representative Bland that the police investigation into the case "developed nothing which would indicate that Mary E. Baker was other than a girl of purest character." A similar letter was written by Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby.

Commission Takes Station Off Air

Action Follows Complaints of Portland Against Obscene Talk.

(Associated Press.)

For the first time since its creation the Federal Radio Commission yesterday ordered a station off the air for broadcasting obscene language.

KVEP, of Portland, Oreg., was the station silenced upon charges brought by the Better Business Bureau and other organizations of the Oregon city. The commission in its decision found that the station, owned by W. B. Schaeffer, had permitted "consistent use of indecent, profane and objectionable language" by Robert G. Duncan, who unsuccessfully campaigned for the Republican nomination to Congress in the recent primary.

The commission also found the station has been a constant offender in failing to keep on its assigned wave length, has broadcast without a licensed radio operator and has neglected to comply with an order to divide time equally with Station KUJ, Longview, Wash.

Office Thieves Take Pens.

Louis Rothschild, director of the Better Business Bureau in the Star Building, reported to the police yesterday that the files in the bureau's office were ransacked by thieves. Fountain pens valued at $10 were stolen.

America's Greatest War Epic

"THE GREAT CRUSADE"

By Jennings C. Wise

One of the Most Widely Discussed Books in the World Today.

"A Real Sensation, Audacious and Thrilling

But Masterly and Fair. As a War Book It Is Unique."

"The first big American account of the War."—Forbes' Books in Review, April 6, 1930.

"The only American war book comparable with 'Journey's End' and 'All Quiet on the Western Front.' * * * Statesmen may read it with profit. * * * Should be made compulsory reading in Washington."—The Outlook, April 23, 1930.

"A veritable human document * * * Not a romance, but a photograph."—The Hon. James M. Beck.

"A great contribution to our war literature."—Maj. Gen. Bryant H. Wells, U. S. Army.

"The best war book I have ever read."—O. D. Munn, Editor Scientific American.

"Has battle pictures that rival Tolstoi's 'War and Peace.'"—N. Y. Sun, April 25, 1930.

"The fairest picture of America in the war which has yet been written."—Maine's Own Magazine, May-June, 1930.

"Intensely interesting * * * Something new * * * An antidote for much of the lurid war fiction."—Baltimore News, May 15, 1930.

"With an unusual combination of literary beauty and historical accuracy, it has the directness of Caesar's Commentaries and the intensity of a Macaulay Essay. * * * It confesses through chivalric truth the futility of war as an agency of human progress."—The Hon. R. B. Mahany to Christian Science Monitor.

"An amazing book. * * * The author won the D. S. C. in battle. He also deserves a cross for extraordinary literary courage. In no sense a pacifist, an Anglo-Maniac, or a Francophile, he has not only written one of the most unanswerable condemnations of war, but made one of the boldest and most powerful appeals for the fellowship of man which has ever come from the pen of an American."—Fellowship Forum, May 31, 1930.

"Rates a salute from every man who served on the Western Front."—Boston Globe, March 23, 1930.

"America should be grateful for this extraordinary story of its greatest crusade."
—Maj. Gen. H. T. Allen.

Two Midshipmen Of Capital "Stars"

Martell, Howard Achieve Scholastic Distinction at Academy.

Two Washingtonians attained star grade ranking at the Naval Academy by receiving 85 per cent or better in their studies throughout the four-year course, according to announcement at Annapolis yesterday. They are Charles B. Martell and J. H. Howard, although the latter was appointed from South Carolina.

Martell is the son of Mrs. Helen Martell, of 3220 Nineteenth street northwest. Born in Boston, Mass., he moved to Washington ten years ago and was graduated from Western High School with honor upon completing the course in three and one-half years to graduate in February, 1926. He won one of two scholarships to the Naval Academy.

Howard is the son of Col. C. E. N. Howard, U. S. A., of 1831 Belmont road northwest, who is on duty at a university here.

Dead Woman, Tied With Wire, Found

Body Thought Tossed Into Harlem River Six Months Ago.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The body of a woman, a copper wire twisted about the throat, was taken today from the Harlem River near the Yankee Stadium. Doctors said she evidently had been killed and her body tossed in the water. They estimated she had been dead at least six months, perhaps longer. Wire also bound her arms and legs.

A pair of red slippers, a wrist watch, a ring set with bits of glass and an imitation pearl necklace were the slender clews police had in their attempt to identify her.

She weighed about 135 pounds and was between 30 and 45 years old. Police noted the long, tapering fingers, which apparently never had been used in manual labor.

Stewart Pupils Hear Talk on Engineering

Paul J. Leverone, president of the Columbia School of Drafting and Engineering, gave a talk on drafting to the students of Stewart Junior High School Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the vocational guidance committee of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Leverone told of the many opportunities for advancement offered by the drafting profession and recommended drafting as a steppingstone into engineering.

THREE BOYS DROWN, TRAPPED IN SEWER

HAD PLAYED NEAR DRAIN

Baltimore, May 29 (A.P.).—The bodies of three of four boys sought by police for the last five days were found in the harbor, a short distance from the outlet of a storm sewer into which they were believed to have been washed in a storm Saturday.

The first body recovered was that of Wilbert Alban, 15, the oldest of the four. It was recovered by a police boat.

As a tug churned into the stream to take aboard the body, the second one rose to the surface. It was identified by Elmer Moore as that of his son, Donald, 12.

The third body was recovered from under a pier. It was identified as that of Francis Wilden, 9.

John Kelly, 14, still was missing.

The search had extended into Pennsylvania and to Washington. The sewer was searched and the harbor and flats about the outlet dragged in vain.

Belief that the boys had been swept away arose with the report that they had been playing at the mouth of the drain shortly before a heavy storm broke Saturday afternoon. The playmates had obtained candles and expressed the intention of exploring the sewer a short time before, police were told, despite a warning by residents of the vicinity.

Capper Files Candidacy; Has No Opponents Yet

Topeka, Kans., May 29 (A.P.).—Senator Arthur Capper, Republican, today filed a declaration of his candidacy for renomination at the August primary.

MURDER MYSTERY IS LINKED IN $1,000,000 GEM ROBBERY

under arrest here. Police have $1,300,000 worth of recovered jewels here and today they got permission to open a safe deposit box in Chicago they believed contained $200,000 more. Additional arrests were promised and some of the men to be arrested were said to be prominent jewelers.

A touch of mystery was injected into the case today by varying reports as to just what part was played in running down the alleged receivers of stolen jewels by Noel C. Scaffa, insurance company detective, who was indicted for compounding a felony once in connection with the return of other stolen jewels, but was acquitted.

The Buffalo Evening News printed a story quoting a lawyer who said he handled negotiations between Scaffa and burglars who stole $350,000 worth of gems from the home of John L. Carson, jr., there. The negotiations fell through, it was said, and then Scaffa trailed the men he wanted until they were arrested here.

The New York Daily News also had a story saying that Scaffa had done much of the ground work leading to the arrests.

Police Commissioner Edward Mulrooney, however, insisted that it had been entirely a "police case" and that private detectives had had no part in it. Shortly after he made this statement Scaffa appeared at police headquarters with a large portfolio and entered the commissioner's office after declining to talk to reporters.

Police considered their most important prisoner was Robert Nelson, in whose deposit boxes here $1,000,000 worth of jewels were seized. It was alleged to be a box of his, too, that was found in Chicago today. Next in importance were the four men and a woman arrested with $300,000 worth of jewels the day before Nelson was taken. They were Hilda Carter, of Rhode Island; William J. O'Connor, of Buffalo; George Cole, James Watson, of Buffalo, and Jacob Rosen, of New York.

Nelson was released in $2,000 bail yesterday and the other five were refused bail pending court hearing today. They were coldly indifferent as they heard the magistrate forbid them even temporary liberty.

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—Chicago police today assigned a guard to arrest any person attempting to open a safety deposit box at the First National Bank in the name of Robert Nelson.

Nelson is held in New York on a charge of receiving stolen goods in connection with an alleged gem theft ring. The Chicago box is believed to contain jewels valued at $200,000. It was discovered after another box in Nelson's name in New York yielded $1,000,000 worth of jewels.

Police obtained an order sealing the box and were awaiting instructions from New York authorities before attempting to drill it open. The bank will be closed tomorrow and indications were that no attempt would be made to open the box until Monday.

Bank officials said the description of Nelson tallied with that of the man who rented the box here. Four men arrested yesterday after Nelson and his associates were captured in New York were released today upon instructions from New York police.

GRAF ZEPPELIN MAY OMIT PROPOSED FLIGHT OVER CUBA

dies, but from a different direction from that originally planned. We made for the Barbados Islands, instead of following the South American coast until reaching Trinidad.

At 6 o'clock tonight (4 p. m., Eastern standard time) our position was 10:50 north latitude, 55:10 west longitude, or about 300 miles from the Barbados Islands, which we hope to reach soon after midnight.

Between yesterday noon and noon today the Graf covered 1,600 statute miles, or about 66.5 miles an hour for our average. All day the Graf raced along on a smooth and even keel. Dawn revealed a mother-of-pearl ocean, transformed into a gilded mirror by the rising sun. For more than three hours we raced with a heavy thunderstorm moving black and ominous on our right flank, but we dashed past its northernmost outrunner shortly after noon, before the storm could touch us.

By morning we should be near Porto Rico. The question of whether or not the Graf would touch at Havana was much debated today. Dr. Eckener reserved final decision until tomorrow, toward which time he expects to be able to determine, from the weather, and more especially from the quantity of fuel left, whether the Graf should make the detour of 1,200 miles to the Cuban capital, or head direct north for Lakehurst.

To economize on fuel the Graf has been running on four motors since it left Pernambuco, and those were throttled to under 1,400 revolutions a minute this afternoon. Some of the passengers have been pressing the storm king not to eliminate Havana from the itinerary, but Dr. Eckener declared it was a problem of whether he would have sufficient reserve fuel to permit the extra 1,200 miles to be flown.

He explained that, owing to the rain adding considerable weight to the Graf just before we left Pernambuco, he left with four tons less gasoline than he had reckoned on, which cut down his fuel capacity to only 100 hours and that he must, for safety's sake, have at least 25 hours' reserve fuel.

Detective Finds Stolen Clothing

Suspect in Haberdashery Robbery Is Held by the Police.

Hidden underneath a house on V street near Third street northwest, Detective Sergt. John Foley yesterday discovered haberdashery valued at almost $300 that had been stolen from a shop at 1422 F street northwest Sunday morning.

The detective issued a lookout for a boy he suspected of the theft. Shortly afterward the suspect was arrested by police of the Second Precinct.

The prisoner gave the name of Sam Fowler, colored, of Blackman's court northwest. He has been charged with housebreaking. The wearing apparel was stolen by removing a pane of glass in a rear window. Donald Britt is listed as the complainant.

Capper to Press Bill For Educator in Cabinet

(Associated Press.)

Notice was given in the Senate yesterday by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, that he would press for action next session on his bill to create a Federal Department of Education headed by a new member of the Cabinet.

The bill has been before the Senate education committee, but no action has been taken at this session. Senator Capper said the legislation would result in improved teaching methods and enable teachers to be guided by scientific methods.

DACCA SEES FRESH COMMUNAL RIOTING

Many Hindus Arrested as Police Superintendent Suffers Injury.

PROCESSION IN BOMBAY

Bombay, May 29 (A.P.).—Communal rioting broke out again this morning at Dacca, 150 miles from Calcutta, and a large number of Hindus were arrested. The city superintendent of police, commanding Gurkha troops was injured.

The situation in the city itself, violently torn for several days by conflicts between Moslems and Hindus, was reported improved today, but there were indications that trouble had spread to neighboring villages.

Today's rioting occurred in the Rair Bazaar, western suburb of the city. Full details were lacking.

At Lillooah, also in the Calcutta area, police opened fire on a mob of 4,000 rioters, mostly railway workers of the East Indian workshops. Four were wounded.

Wage Question Stirs Trouble.

The disturbance originated in the introduction of a new wage schedule for the East Indian Company's employes. Before the police arrived the company office was besieged by the mob, and several European officers were slightly injured. Reenforcements under the district magistrate and the superintendent of police got the situation under control.

Bombay staged one of the most remarkable of the many processions in support of the civil disobedience campaign that have passed through its streets during some weeks.

About 50,000 persons, including 2,000 women, took part in it, and leaders carried portraits of Mahatma Gandhi and of various Parsee leaders arrested during the campaign against the salt laws.

Gandhi Slogans Displayed.

Such slogans as "no conference without Gandhi," and "no peace possible without Gandhi's cooperation," were borne on placards.

The parade was chiefly remarkable in that it was organized by the parsees, who still retain the ancient fire-worshipping rites of their Persian ancestors, as a demonstration of sympathy for Gandhi's ideals.

Comparative peace reigned over the salt deposits at Dharasana and Wadala, though at the former 100 arrests were made this morning.

Military precautions were firmly maintained at Lucknow, historic city of the great Indian mutiny, though the situation was considerably improved over that of the week-end.

Number of Arrests Made.

A number of arrests were made for violation of the curfew order. The exact number of casualties in the fighting between police and rioters on Sunday and Monday has not been established, but five are reported to have been killed and 60 injured.

For the first time since rioting broke out at Rangoon between Burmese coolies and strike-breakers, the authorities began making arrests today in the big city of Burma. Looting still continued on the outskirts, and two deaths occurred this morning.

More than 100 bodies of those killed in the communal rioting have been buried.

$100,000 Lost by Fire In Baltimore Suburb

Baltimore, Md., May 29 (A.P.).—Four buildings at Reistertown, a suburban settlement, were destroyed and two others damaged late today by fire which for a time threatened the entire district. The flames were given impetus at the start by a series of oil or gasoline explosions.

Nine companies of fire apparatus from Baltimore County and Westminster fought the fire. The loss was unofficially estimated at $100,000.

Bandit on Train Sought by Posse

Flees Santa Fe Crack Chief After Taking Gems From Marion Nixon.

Los Angeles, May 29 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Posses have had no luck today in hunting the lone bandit who held up "the chief" and fled to the hills. The ace train of the Santa Fe was robbed soon after pulling out of Los Angeles. A tall, blond young man and his gun took command of a compartment car.

First to be held up was Marian Nixon, movie star, who is Mrs. Edward Hillman, wife of a well-known Chicago resident. He noted Miss Nixon's 4¼-carat diamond, famous throughout Hollywood as one of the finest engagement rings worn in the motion picture colony, and valued at $7,500.

After forcing the actress to hand over the ring he called for another of her rings. This one, Miss Nixon said, was valued at $4,000. From Mr. Hillman the bandit got $400 in cash.

The bandit entered the drawing room of Ruby Keeler, actress and wife of Al Jolson. She began a search for her valuables to hand over, but the man left without waiting for the gems.

Negro Gold Star Mothers Refuse Trip to Sons' Graves

Appeal Sent Hoover Terms Racial Segregation of Parties Going to France "Gratuitous Insult;" War Department to Continue Policy.

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today announced that 55 Negro Gold Star Mothers have declined to make the pilgrimage to the graves of their sons under rules they said the War Department has laid down providing for segregation by color.

The mothers have appealed to President Hoover to abolish the ruling, the announcement said. Their petition terms the War Department's attitude "gratuitous insult."

"Twelve years after the armistice," they say, "the high principles of 1918 seem to have been forgotten. We who gave and who are colored are insulted by the implication that we are not fit persons to travel with other bereaved ones. Instead of making up parties of Gold Star Mothers on the basis of geographical location, we are set aside as a separate group, Jim Crowed, segregated and insulted."

(Associated Press.)

The policy of grouping together all Negro Gold Star Mothers and widows making the pilgrimage to their sons' and husbands' graves on European battlefields will be continued by the War Department despite protests against race segregation.

Following announcement in New York that a petition protesting the arrangement had been sent President Hoover by a group of 55 Negro mothers, Acting Secretary Davison of War said it was necessary to split into several groups the mothers making the pilgrimage and that the racial grouping, decided upon "after the most careful consideration of the interests of the pilgrims themselves," would be observed.

"No discrimination whatever," he said, "will be made as between the various groups. Each group will receive equal accommodations, care and consideration."

Separation into groups, he said, was necessary to provide suitable accommodations for all. The petition to the President was referred to the War Department.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

A misapprehension of the regulation prescribing hand signals is noted on the part of many motorists. They will give a signal when stopping or turning left, but believe it is unnecessary to do so when making a right turn.

The law, however, is specific on this point. It provides that a clear hand signal shall be given on turning right as well as left, the reason being that the driver who is following is entitled to receive warning that the motorist ahead is going to change his course or his speed.

Example: A driver is going out Connecticut avenue within the legal 22-mile limit. The car ahead, on reaching an intersection, slows down slightly to make a right turn and the driver following narrowly averts a collision because he has received no signal and has assumed that the other motorist intends to go straight ahead.

10 CHICAGOANS CITED IN $5,000,000 GRAFT

Former Sanitary District Head Among Men Named in True Bills.

TAX FRAUD ALSO HINTED

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—Indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the sanitary district of Chicago were returned today against former President Timothy J. Crowe, five present trustees and four former employes of the district.

Named besides Crowe were Trustees James M. Whaley, John J. Touhy, Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler and August W. Miller and Edward J. Kelly, former chief engineer of the district; John T. Miller, former head of the permanent plant and structure department; Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent, and Martin Edelstein, former manager of the real estate department.

The indictments contained counts charging general conspiracy to defraud to amounts aggregating $5,000,000, padding of pay rolls, excessive expenditures and abuse of privilege.

One count charged the ten conspired with George L. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. Co. The alleged abuse of privilege was in the maintenance of McCormick road and construction of its lighting system. The alleged excessive expenditures were on the million-dollar bridle path.

The indictments are the second set to be returned against various officials of the district. Crowe was named after a previous grand jury investigation.

Bonds for the ten men indicted today were fixed at $10,000 each.

Crowe also is reported to be under investigation by the Federal Government with a dozen or more other politicians and public officials for alleged income tax frauds. Grand jury action is being withheld pending possible settlement of claims, Federal officials said.

Retired Engineer Dies at Home Here

James Mauran Betton Will Be Buried in Boston Tomorrow.

James Mauran Betton, retired civil engineer, died here yesterday following a long illness. He was 77 years old.

Mr. Betton, well known in Washington, New York and Boston, was for more than twenty years connected with the Henry R. Worthington Co. pump makers, of New York, in an executive position. He retired about six years ago, coming to Washington from New York to make his home.

He was born in New York in 1853 and was educated in the public schools there, later getting his civil-engineering degree at Harvard University. He devoted his entire life to engineering work.

Mr. Betton's wife, the former Miss Eliza Weld, of Boston, died here last October, seven months before her husband's death. His daughter, Miss Elinor Weld Betton, of Washington, is the only survivor.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 1870 Wyoming avenue northwest this morning at 9:45 o'clock. Interment will be in Forest Hills Cemetery in Boston tomorrow at noon.

L. C. KENGLA FUNERAL.

Services Will Be Held in Forest Glen Today.

Funeral services for Louis C. Kengla, 61 years old, of Silver Spring, Md., who died of heart disease at his Cabin Creek farm Wednesday morning, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the St. John's Catholic Church, Forest Glen, Md. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. Kengla, long a meat dealer in the old O street market leaves a brother, Eugene D. Kengla, and two sisters, Miss Helen R. Kengla, and Mrs. Florence R. DeLacy.

ALBERT H. JARMAN RITES.

Mining Attorney's Remains to Be Sent to California.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Albert H. Jarman, well known mining attorney, who died Tuesday night at Washington Sanitarium after an illness of several weeks. Obsequies took place at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Interment will be in San Jose, Calif.

The mining interests with which Mr. Jarman was affiliated were in California, but he spent much time in Washington during the past ten years and was well known in this city. His widow survives.

variously represented as siding with the coalition, as being disgusted with the coalition and in various other positions. The truth is believed to be that he has never been seriously concerned with the rates of the bill at all. That flexible power has been what he has been watching.

There is plenty of evidence that Mr. Hoover has a lot of confidence in his ability and in that of those around him to work everything out all right if Congress will give him a free hand and go on home. This seems to be what it is about to do.

CITY TO RELINQUISH ROTARY LEFT TURN

Practice Defeated in Post Poll Expected to Be Adopted Soon.

USED THROUGHOUT U. S.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Washington's rotary left turn is about to be relinquished. Announcement of its surrender in favor of the inside turn prescribed by the Hoover uniform traffic code may be expected any day from Traffic Director William H. Harland.

The turn to be put into effect here is the one initially and vigorously championed by The Washington Post until a poll of its readers, one of the most successful newspaper polls ever conducted, showed a majority of 8,200 votes in favor of the rotary turn.

In the face of pressure from the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, the third session of which ended here yesterday, Mr. Harland is receding from his defense of the rotary turn as a concession to national traffic regulation uniformity. It was this point upon which The Post originally campaigned for a change in the turn method. It was uniformity that was the primary consideration it said in its last campaign story, although in the face of the poll result The Post agreed to abide by the unquestioned sentiment of Washington citizens for the turn now to be abandoned.

Hoover Favors Change.

To those in close touch with the situation, it has been apparent for some time that the rotary turn was unlikely to survive another summer. The first intimation of a change came with the nomination of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as District Commissioner. Commissioner Crosby was the appointee of President Hoover, who has long been in favor of the uniform turn, and one of his first public pronouncements related to a study of the left turn as used here. This statement served to confirm the impression that the rotary turn was to go. Now its demise is regarded as awaiting only official proclamation.

With the establishment of the inside left turn, one of the most interesting chapters in Washington's traffic history will be brought to a close.

The rotary turn, in effect here at light-controlled intersections since 1927, two years ago was extended to all controlled intersections. Accustomed to making the inside turn at all save signal-lighted intersections, Washington motorists were confused and irritated by the change. Gradually, however, the situation with regard to local drivers became smoother.

There always remained, though, the confusion created by the stranger within the city. Accustomed to making his left turns elsewhere throughout the country in conformance with the Hoover code method, he did likewise in the National Capital. At the height of the touring season, the situation, in the first year, attained a seriousness that allied The Post on the side of the uniform turn.

Harland Fought Change.

The suggestion that it be exchanged to conform with the nationally-used method met with stubborn resistance from Mr. Harland. Although a member of the Hoover conference committee which voted the inside turn as preferable, Mr. Harland stood out against its application here on the ground that the rotary turn was safer.

Mr. Harland maintained his position flatly until last summer when, in the face of The Post's continuing campaign, he intimated that he would change the turn if Washington motorists favored such an action. This led to The Post's now famous left-turn poll in which the vast majority of voters agreed with the traffic director. At the conclusion of the poll, The Post agreed to abide by the vote although it defended the principle of uniformity as the more intelligent one in traffic regulation.

The inside turn which will become effective here, probably within the next 45 days—30 days must elapse between its proclamation and effectiveness—is one with which Washington drivers are familiar. It is the identical turn that they once made at all intersections and which they are making today at those uncontrolled by signal light or traffic officer.

POLICE CRACK SAFE TO CAPTURE LIQUOR

taining a nuisance. Police say they seized six half-gallons of liquor.

The raiders then descended on an alleged speakeasy at E street near Fifth street northwest where, they say, they seized 14 quarts of liquor. They took in custody Agnes Murphy, 49 years old, who was charged with possession and maintaining a nuisance. They then called her husband, and upon his arrival at the address he was taken in custody. He gave his name as Fred Murphy, 37 years old. He was charged with sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

More than 100 bottles of alleged home brew were confiscated when the raiders searched a residence on Fourteenth street near Randolph northwest. Mary McCabe, who was taken in custody, was charged with possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance.

Sergt. Letterman said the series of raids was merely routine and were not made in any special attempt to curtail the holiday flow of liquor.

FAMINE STALKING IN WAKE OF FLOOD

Alexandria, La., and Three Parishes Menaced by River Overflow.

HIGHER CREST FORECAST

Alexandria, La., May 29 (A.P.).—Refugees huddled together in makeshift camps sent out calls of distress and hunger today from the flooded sections of Bossier, Red River and Natchitoches Parishes in the Red River Valley.

Red Cross workers were struggling to get provisions to the marooned natives crowded together on the small hills above water and had released $12,000 in relief funds.

Shick Gardner, a farmer of Bossier Parish, told the Red Cross that near Plain Dealing at least fifteen families were in dire need of food and would face starvation unless immediate rations were sent.

As the full force of the flood approached the Alexandria zone night guards patrolled the levees on the lookout for sand boils with a foot or more of water in sight.

Six Drown in Flood.

Up in Caddo and Bossier Parishes the water was receding from its wide inundation while in Red River and Natchitoches Parishes it was cresting, leaving its toll of six dead and wide property damage.

Levee and highway workers in this vicinity were quickening their emergency levee building and sandbagging to protect rich farm lands against overflow from backwater.

With a stage today of 38.2 feet, 2.3 feet above flood stage, registered at Alexandria and a forecast for a stage of 39.1 to 39.7 feet barring heavy rains by June 1 to 3, the emergency workers who have been preparing for the flood for the past ten days counted on the main levees standing the strain.

Many Highways Closed.

Highways north from Shreveport were opened up today, but all direct routes south to Alexandria were still cut off by water.

At least 200 feet of the west bank of the river opposite Millers Bluff near Plain Dealing, in Bossier Parish, has caved under the flood strain.

Little sickness has been reported from the refugee camps due to the use of typhoid serum by public health authorities, but several cases of malaria were discovered in the marooned village of East Point, in Red River Parish.

New Yorker Sentenced In Bogus Visa Plot

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Morris Baskin, of Brooklyn, alleged leader of a ring which used fradulent visas to bring Polish immigrants into the United States, was found guilty of conspiracy to violate the immigration laws today, and was sentenced to two years in the Atlanta Prison and fined $5,000.

The passports were obtained from Harry H. Hall, former United States Consul in Warsaw, who has pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge.

CAPITAL RESIDENTS SEE LIONS' PARLEY

Delegates and Guests Back From Two-Day Session at Frederick.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

Seventeen Washingtonians returned to the Capital last night following a two-day convention of the twenty-second district, Lions International, at Frederick, Md., attended by 400 Lions and their guests from Virginia, District of Columbia, Delaware and Maryland.

Capital delegates to the convention were C. H. Hillegeist, John A. Koontz, Edward Brawne and Randolph E. Myers while guests at the affair included Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer Brenizer, Mrs. E. W. Brawne, Helen G. Koons, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Leadbetter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown, Mary McGrath, David Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Ross McKeever and R. M. McKeever.

Richard F. Simmons, of Frederick, was elected district governor of the Lions at yesterday's session and Wilmington, Del., was selected for the 1931 convention. Bernard B. Gouch, of Baltimore, retiring district governor, presided at yesterday's meeting at which Ben A. Ruffin, Richmond, Va., was the principal speaker.

Clubs' Reports Filed.

Reports were made from various clubs by the following members: Charles F. Seeger, Thurmont; J. Ward Kerrigan, Emmitsburg; John C. Burke, Baltimore; Charles Foltz, Hagerstown; W. R. Stevens, Wilmington; Dr. J. J. Hanen, Silver Spring; George F. Hanback, North Baltimore; A. R. Cobb, Newark; D. D. Lamond, Takoma Park, and Dr. Leadbetter, Washington.

R. R. Taylor was the winner of a golf tournament in the afternoon with sightseeing tours occupying the time of some of the delegates and most of the guests. A dinner last night closed the convention.

The following committees were appointed:

Credentials—J. Ward Kerrigan, Emmitsburg; Alex D. Crabb, Newark; E. D. Hodson, Baltimore; John M. Miller, Hagerstown; P. D. Ewing, Thurmont.

Other Committees Named.

PRESBYTERIAN BODY ELECTS MODERATOR

Hugh Thompson Kerr Selected Head of Assembly Over Single Rival.

INDUCTED INTO OFFICE

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 29 (A.P.).—The Rev. Hugh Thompson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, an eminent sponsor of mission work in the Presbyterian Church, today defeated Dr. Henry B. Master, of Philadelphia, the author of that denomination's minister pension plan, for the right to lead the general assembly as moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America during the coming year.

Marked by a preconvention campaign which at the last minute witnessed the withdrawal of the only fundamentalist candidate, the balloting gave Dr. Kerr a 2-to-1 majority over his rival. The vote was: Dr. Kerr, 605; Dr. Master, 303. The fundamentalist candidate was Dr. Samuel G. Craig, of Princeton, N. J.

Inducted Into Office.

Dr. Kerr immediately was inducted into office to succeed the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, of Chicago, the retiring moderator. He was given a rousing ovation as he stepped to the stage of Taft Auditorium. Dr. Kerr will preside over the remaining sessions of the assembly, which will extend through June 5.

The new moderator was born in Elora, Ontario, in 1872. He received his education in Canadian universities and has held pastorates in Hutchinson, Kans., Chicago and Pittsburgh. He has been pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church at Pittsburgh since 1913 and has gained considerable fame as a radio lecturer and author of books.

Rumors prior to the opening of the convention indicated that the majority of support was in favor of Dr. Kerr. Besides himself, Dr. Craig and Dr. Masters, two other candidates were in the field at the start but both withdrew. They were the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, of Milwaukee, and the Rev. Edwin L. McIlvain, of Meadville, Pa.

Dr. Master's recognition as a candidate was based upon ten years of service as a member of the Presbyterian board of pensions, through which an annual allowance of $600 was made to each minister of the age of 65.

Touches on Prohibition.

The moderator-elect told the commissioners he believed this would be a pentecostal assembly in which "we may renew in ourselves power of the early church."

Evangelism, he said, represents a crying need of the church which should be met during the coming year. Before he had finished his inaugural address he touched upon the prohibition question.

"It is in the minds of many," he said, "that only in recent years has the Presbyterian Church been engaged in a struggle with the liquor traffic. I wish to commend to such people the record of our church over the last century and to say that temperance, as advocated by our fathers 100 years ago, is still our aim today."

A feature of tomorrow's session will be the presentation of overtures from the various Presbyteries for the consideration of the commision on overtures and bills. The Pittsburgh Presbytery has requested the assembly to investigate what it termed the "portrayal of vulgarity, indecency and the technique of crime in the advertising programs of the modern picture theaters."

Another overture from the West German Synod asked the assembly to protest against "widespread and unscientific cigarette advertising;" "the commercializing and detrimental effect of Sunday baseball," and "the opening of theaters on the Lord's day for commercial purposes."

Presbyterians Diverge On Church Merger Plan

Des Moines, Iowa, May 29 (A.P.).—Widely divergent views on the proposed merger of five Presbyterian denominations were aired at the seventy-second general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America today.

The assembly heard its ministers and elders praise and condemn the recommendation that the unification overtures be continued. It heard S. S. White, of the Allegheny Presbytery, blame a reported decrease in the church membership during the last year on talk of uniting with the South, Dutch Reformed and the German Reformed Presbyterian Churches.

"I believe that to merge is the worst thing we can do," Mr. White told the assembly after likening the result which would be secured to a "chain store system."

Two representatives of other denominations involved in the merger proposal spoke during the afternoon. The Rev. W. D. Vanderweep, of the Reformed group, and the Rev. Watson Boyce, of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod in Charlotte, N. C., both expressed the belief that much was to be gained through the merger.

Decision on the recommendation was deferred until tomorrow.

Brazil Political Fight Kills 18, Injures 30

Buenos Aires, May 29 (A.P.).—News agency dispatches from Sao Paulo, Brazil, today stated that 18 persons had been killed and 30 wounded in a political battle between police and citizens of the Town of Andradas, State of Minas Geraes.

The dispatches add that the officer commanding the police and the local political leader, named Orestes Gomes, were among the dead. Andradas is near the state border of Sao Paulo.

Paris, May 29 (A.P.).—Arthur Putnam, American sculptor, died suddenly Tuesday at his home at Ville Davray, near Paris, at the age of 56. His body will be cremated and the ashes taken to America.

Rheumatic?

Are you facing the fate of a rheumatic? Of course, the future looks black—it's pitiful to contemplate a lifetime of aches and pains. And it is easy to grow desperate in the face of such a fate—but it's much more sensible to keep up courage and benefit by the experience of others. "I give Mountain Valley Mineral Water credit for putting me on my feet after being laid up for three months with Arthritis"—is one of the letters we have received. The action of Mountain Valley Water is natural—scientific. It helps to neutralize the uric acid and promotes elimination through the kidneys. Don't continue to suffer. HOOVER THANKED BY EMPLOYES

In behalf of the members of the National Federation of Federal Employes and executive departmental employes in Washington and field employes in every state of continental United States, in the insular possessions and in clerical positions abroad we desire to express to President Herbert Hoover our appreciation of his sympathetic interest in and his support of this progressive retirement legislation. It establishes a retirement system which more adequately recognizes the necessities of employes in the lower salary ranges; provides for large numbers who have heretofore been denied retirement benefits; makes more liberal allowances for totally disabled workers; introduces the element of optional retirement; removes discriminatory features which have hitherto existed, and definitely commits the Federal government to bearing its proportion of the cost. We feel that President Hoover's efforts in connection with the new retirement law disclose the application not only of sound business principles but also of humane consideration of the interests of the civilian employes of the United States government.
May 29, 1930.

As an expression of appreciation for signing the Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill, the National Federation of Federal Employes yesterday afternoon, through Luther C. Steward, president, presented this engraved manuscript to President Hoover. The work was done by a man in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

has been favorably reported by the House civil service committee.

A uniform leave law. A bill to establish such a law was introduced yesterday by Representative Addison T. Smith (Republican), Idaho. It would give all employes 30 days annual leave, and 15 days a year of sick leave. Moreover, it would permit this sick leave, if unused, to accumulate to 120 days.

Welch Act Injustices.

Adjustment of salaries so as to remove injustices of the Welch salary act, and classification of all employes in the field. Establishment of a central personnel agency and a civil service court of appeals to settle the Government's personnel disputes.

One day's rest in seven for all Federal employes.

While the new retirement law will be known as the Dale-Lehlbach act, it might very well be called the Hoover act, for it was the President who sponsored it.

The President became interested in retirement when he was Secretary of Commerce. After a study of the existing law he became convinced that it was unscientific and ineffective. He found that there were too many old men hanging on because they could not afford to retire.

So last fall the President called in William H. McReynolds, of the Personnel Classification Board, and asked him to draw up a new retirement bill. This Mr. McReynolds did, and a little later it was introduced by Chairman Lehlbach.

For a time the measure was the object of a fierce fight, but in the end all employes' groups came out for it and it was passed.

Ceremony at White House.

A number of retired employes gathered at the White House yesterday just before the President signed the bill. Mr. Steward and Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of his organization, waited in the office of George Akerson, secretary to the President.

When the President had affixed his signature, Mr. Akerson came out and handed the pen to Mr. Steward. Then he notified the others gathered outside.

Meantime Mr. Steward and Miss McNally entered the President's office and presented him with a testimonial which thanked him for his support of progressive retirement legislation.

"It establishes a retirement system," the testimonial said, "which more adequately recognizes the necessities of employes in the lower salary ranges, provides for large numbers who have heretofore been denied retirement benefits, makes more liberal allowances for totally disabled workers, introduces the element of optional retirement, removes discriminatory features which have hitherto existed, and definitely commits the Federal Government to bearing its proportion of the cost.

"We feel that President Hoover's efforts in connection with the new retirement law disclose the application not only of sound business principles, but also of humane consideration of the interests of the civilian employes of the United States Government."

Proposal to Relay Track Is Approved

Terminus of Traction Line on G Street Affected by Order.

Relaying of three sections of its tracks was proposed to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday by the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

The commission approved a proposal to relay the tracks on G street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest. Only one, the south stub, will be relaid, the north stub being abandoned at the point where westbound cars switch over to the south track to start their eastward trip.

The other track relaying proposals of the company affect its tracks on Fourteenth street northwest between New York avenue and H streets and on Eleventh street northwest between G and New York avenue. The commission is expected to approve these projects, too.

MARYLAND DRY HEAD ASKS AID OF CHURCH

Danger Wets Only May Run for Governor, Methodist Parley Is Told.

DIGEST POLL ATTACKED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 29.—The attention of the Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church was further focused on the wet and dry question today. Dr. George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Maryland Antisaloon League, gave an address in rather pessimistic vein, for he feared neither one of the major parties in the State would nominate a dry man for governor, although he said a survey of two years had convinced him that dry sentiment in the State predominated.

"We are done with compromise," he declared. "There is no lesser of two evils. If there is to be no choice except between wet men to continue as chief executive, then I shall have no part in the fight."

Dr. Crabbe attacked the Literary Digest poll as "unrepresentative." He also flayed the Canadian liquor system. He declared it was a plan of sale, and that the liquor traffic was not going to be wiped out by increasing sales.

Dr. W. W. Davis, of Baltimore, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, was another speaker.

He described the alliance as "Our own organization." Dr. Davis is holding meetings to promote Sabbath observance at Western Port, Lonaconing and Cumberland this week.

The conference has a new feature this year, opening at 8:25 each morning with "Meditation on Pentecost." Today the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of Foundry Church, Washington, was the speaker on the subject, taking the place of the Rev. Oscar T. Olson, of Baltimore.

This afternoon the Women's Foreign Missionary Society held its anniversary, with Mrs. Chesteen Smith, of Washington, president of the Conference Home Missionary Society, presiding. The address was delivered by Bishop James C. Baker, of Korea. The anniversary of world service was held tonight with the Rev. Francis R. Bayley, of Walbrook, presiding. The Rev. Ralph Ward, of Chicago, gave the address.

The Drew University banquet was held at Central Y. M. C. A., with Dr. W. J. Thompson, a member of the faculty and a former member of the Baltimore Conference, as the speaker.

Bishop McDowell and his cabinet, composed of district superintendents, spent the whole of each afternoon in consultation over the prospective appointments. The name of the Rev. Fred C. Reynolds, pastor of Wesley Church, Washington, is much discussed among the members of the conference as the probable successor of the Rev. J. Phelps Hand, whose term of six years as superintendent of Washington district, expires at this conference

Marshal Snyder Begins New Term Next Monday

United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder will begin a new term of office next Monday morning at 10 o'clock when he takes the oath before Justice Alfred A. Wheat, it was announced yesterday. The ceremonies will be held in the chambers of the justice and are expected to be attended by other justices and all court officials.

Immediately afterward all 65 deputies under the marshal also will be sworn in anew. The new term will be Marshal Snyder's third. He was appointed by President Harding, reappointed by President Coolidge and again reappointed by President Hoover.

PUPILS TO WITNESS COMPETITIVE DRILL

School Children Are to Be Freed From Classes to Attend Event.

SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

School children will be released from classes on an honor system to witness the annual competitive drill of high school cadets next Monday and Tuesday at the baseball park, it was announced yesterday by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Stephen E. Kramer.

School officials have decided to go to this extreme because of the alleged lack of patriotism of some pupils in past years in attending movies and going on joy rides when they were dismissed from school for the purpose of attending the drill, Mr. Kramer explained.

Under the system to be adopted this year, pupils will bring notes from their parents, also signed by the pupils themselves, certifying that they attended the drill. This applies to the periods when separate schools are drilling as well as to when the final award is made on Tuesday afternoon. All schools will be closed Tuesday afternoon. Prior to this time, the only schools to be dismissed will be those whose companies are drilling.

Western and Eastern High Schools drill on Monday morning, Western the first part of the morning and Eastern the latter half; McKinley drills on Monday afternoon and Central on Tuesday morning. Four odd companies of these four schools, as well as the battalion from Business High School, will drill Tuesday afternoon prior to selection of the victorious company.

Representative Norton Wins Honorary Degree

Representative Mary T. Norton has been notified by Sister Marie Jose, dean of the College of St. Elizabeth, at Convent Station, N. J., that "in recognition of the outstanding excellence of the work she has accomplished in both philanthropic and political activities, the authorities of the College of St. Elizabeth desire to confer upon her the honorary degree of doctor of laws."

This is the first degree of its kind to be awarded by the college, and will be conferred by the Right Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, D. D., Bishop of Newark, at the college commencement exercises on Thursday, June 12.

BAPTISTS DEFEAT MERGER PROPOSAL

Realignment in Chicago University Board of Trustees Is Also Voted.

DRY BALLOT POSTPONED

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29 (A.P.).—The minority report against closer unity with the Disciples of Christ was adopted by the Northern Baptist convention here late today by a vote of approximately 4 to 1. A realignment of the board of trustees of the University of Chicago, incidental to the plan to double the university's $100,000,000 in assets, also was adopted.

In the present alignment the board consists three-fifths of Baptists with the remainder of other denominations. Under the new alignment three-fifths of the board may be members of any Christian denomination, providing one denomination besides the Baptist is not in majority.

Vote on the resolution on prohibition was deferred until either tomorrow or Saturday.

Dr. Albert W. Beaven, president of the Rochester-Colgate Divinity School, Rochester, N. Y., was nominated president of the convention here tonight. The election will be Saturday. Nomination has always been considered equivalent to an election.

Resolution Argued for Hour.

The vote on the resolution opposing unity with the Disciples of Christ was taken after more than an hour of debate. Embodied in the minority report was a resolution which put the Baptists on record as being opposed to any closer cooperation with the Disciples because of the divergent views of Baptism taken by the two groups.

Text of Resolution.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Disciples of Christ delegation at Detroit in 1928 proposed unity of program to our convention, which can mean nothing less than a singling out of the Disciples from all our sister denominations for special cooperation and open alliance, therefore be it

"Resolved, That in the meantime we recommend the same measure and kind of cooperation with the Disciples which we have with other other evangelical bodies."

Harder Fight on Law Seen.

The minority report was presented by Dr. F. L. Anderson, of the faculty of the North Center (Mass.) Theological Institution.

The law enforcement committee in its report warned that the prohibition situation is more acute today than it was a year ago.

The report said: "Those interested in the repeal of the existing law have been quick to seize upon the opportunity to gain wide publicity for their cause. We desire to say that the campaign of nullification is being pressed with greatest vigor and is backed by huge sums of money."

Tomorrow the Baptists will report on changing the name of their organization to the National Council of Northern Baptist Men.

The change is proposed to distinguish between laymen and clergymen in the men's activities of the denomination.

ASCENSION DAY RITE ATTENDED BY 50,000

20,000 Children, Including 2,000 From District, in Baltimore Stadium.

CURLEY IS CELEBRANT

Twenty thousand children of parochial schools in this Catholic archdiocese, numbering more than 2,000 pupils from the District of Columbia, thronged the Baltimore Stadium yesterday in a pontifical military field mass in observance of Ascension Day.

The ceremonies, held under auspices of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade, which is sponsored by the Society for the Propagation of the Faith of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, attracted in its record crowd of approximately 50,000 persons both Gov. Albert C Ritchie and Mayor William F. Broening.

Two special trains took the Washington pupils to Baltimore, where they detrained at Clifton Park to march, with school banners flying, to the stadium, where they joined other units from various other schools in parading before Archbishop Michael J. Curley, who later pontificated at the celebration of the mass.

Headed by a squad of mounted police, with John J Nelligan as grand marshal and Maj. Edward McK. Johnson, of the Fifth Infantry, as his military aid, and other aids in morning coats and top hats, the procession filed into the inclosure with the St. Mary's Industrial School Band in first position.

In line came a choir of about 5,000 school children trained under the direction of the Rev. J. Leo Barley, archdiocesan director of liturgical music. The Towson Parochial Schools were next in order, followed by pupils from Washington, Annapolis, Frederick, Cumberland, Upper Marlboro, other points in Maryland and Baltimore. Each group carried an American flag and a school banner, aside from wearing distinctive attire.

The unit from St. John's College in Washington was conspicuous among the several cadet corps represented from Seton High School, Holy Cross School and Notre Dame College and others. Others in the procession included girls from Mount St. Agnes College, boys from Calvert Hall and several bands, fife and drum corps.

The St. John's College Cadets posted themselves in front of the altar which had been set up at the north end of the field, with the band of St. Mary's School in the center of the oval, and the choir in the bend of the horseshoe back of the altar.

Numerous relics of the early Catholic Church in Maryland were used in the mass. They included a tabernacle used in the first mass said on Maryland soil, at St Marys, and a pectoral cross that was owned by the Right Rev. John Carroll, first Archbishop of Baltimore and the first Roman Catholic bishop in the United States.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

WHEN Senator Wesley Livsey Jones shocked and flabbergasted his dry and adoring brethren with the announcement that his vote on liquor would be governed, not by his conscience, but by the come-hither halloo of his constituents, he neither displayed originality nor set a precedent.

John Sharp Williams, eloquent possessor of a perpetual-motion, double-back-acting and brilliant brain, flung that precedent to the breeze when he was a senator from Mississippi.

Taking the floor of the Senate and making defiant play with his rapier-like drawl, he told the wide, wide world and all the prohibitionists thereof that, obeying the behest of his people, he had voted, was voting and would continue to vote for a dryness so dry that the consequent aridity would by comparison make the great Gobi Desert look like an expanse of bubbling springs in far-flung fields of dewy and fragrant roses.

* * * * *

BUT, he added, the while he waggled a warning and emphatic finger, his voting had not the faintest connection with or bearing on his drinking, and he wanted it understood by one and all that, in the midst of his dry balloting, he reserved the right to absorb liquor when, where and how his imperial preference, liking and choice might dictate.

More recently the outspoken Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, made the same sort of statement, except for the qualifying assertion that he reserved the right to take a drink when the contents of the proffered flowing bowl had been legally obtained.

Hence, the powwow, pandemonium and yelping repercussions that greeted the Jones pronouncement were struck from the ringing anvil of popular speech, not because the senator was getting off new stuff about the voter's right to dictate a legislator's position on liquor, but because he has been one of the most heated, hounding and high-speed enemies of the wets in Congress.

* * * *

AUTHOR of the terror-striking "five-and-ten" law, he has run cheek by jowl with Morris Sheppard in smiting with jawbone and legislative jab all the makers, peddlers and imbibers of alcoholic drinks.

To hear him fulminate against liquor is to feel that one sits before an immense firebox while his oratorical right arm opens the door wide enough to give one a glimpse of the flames of exquisite torture burning off the ears of poor doomed wets.

Thus it is that the thought of any vote, referendum or public opinion moving a dry of the Jones dryness clean over to the wet column, is surprising to all. As for the drys, they are as benumbed in the cerebellum as if the Honorable Wesley Livsey had risen in his place in the august and gusty Senate and loudly intoned:

"But I was thinking of a plan
To dye one's whiskers green,
And always use so large a fan

JAPAN NAVY CHIEFS HIT PACT PROCEDURE

Kato Supported in Criticism of Cabinet's Approval Over Staff Objection.

BLOW GIVEN PRECEDENT

Tokyo, May 29 (A.P.).—The bitter opposition of Japan's naval chiefs to the London naval treaty has developed the question of the right of the cabinet to make decisions such as acceptance of the treaty despite the navy general staff's disapproval. General opinion is that the controversy concerns solely the conatitutional issue of whether a precedent shall be set curtailing the powers of the army and navy general staffs.

At a prolonged meeting today of naval members of the supreme war council, several supported the contention of Admiral Kanji Kato, chief of the navy general staff, that the government had seriously erred in accepting the London compromise agreement on naval tonnage despite the objection of the navy general staff. Those attending the meeting were Admiral Prince Fushimi and Admirals Kato, Okada and Togo. The last named, Japan's hero of heroes, was especially emphatic in his support of Admiral Kato's position.

Such criticism by the naval chiefs of a decade ago would have overthrown a government, but it is believed that the cabinet, headed by Premier Hamaguchi and Foreign Minister Shidehara, will survive the storm of naval disapproval.

Acceptance of the naval treaty is believed to be only a minor point in the attitude of the naval chiefs. They are believed to be opposed to the establishment of a precedent which would curtail thir former right of direct access and appeal to the throne, a position which frequently placed them above the ministry.

TREATY'S ATTACKERS BACKED BY JOHNSON

and the witnesses thus called had no option in the matter.

"The Secretary of State, in his testimony before the foreign relations committee, said he took off his hat to the Japanese for their attitude. I take off my hat to the admirals and other officers of the United States Navy who have dared to tell the truth about a political treaty, behind which is such tremendous political power when the possible consequences of telling the truth can be readily understood.

"The sum of their offending is stating as required by senators interrogating them, the essentials of our national defense and the needs of our Navy. If they had stated the facts otherwise than as they and nearly all others familiar with the subject believe, they would have had the commendation and enthusiastic applause of the very people and press who now abuse them. They have been true to the highest traditions of the American Navy and deserve from all Americans only commendation and praise."

NEW TARIFF FACTS.

The tariff bill has reached a stage where it is possible to take a broadside view of it and determine with reasonable accuracy whether it is the type of bill that President Hoover requested Congress to enact, and whether it conforms to the American policy of protection. A studious analysis of the new rate structure can bring only affirmative answers to both of these questions.

President Hoover asked for a limited revision, with special attention to the agricultural schedule. It should be noted, in the first place, that the tariff applies to only one-third of the imports to this country. The tendency is to increase the number of products allowed to enter without duty. The current bill takes 47 products off the free list, but it transfers to that list 75 items on which duties are charged at present. Instead of extending the so-called tariff wall, Congress has actually razed a portion of it.

The new bill contains 3,218 specifically mentioned dutiable items and "basket" clauses, which cover a number of items. A recent survey by the Tariff Commission shows that 2,171 or 66 per cent of these items remain the same as they were in the tariff law of 1922. This means that only one-third of the dutiable items are affected by the Smoot-Hawley bill. Certainly that is limited revision. A few rate changes were unwarranted, but on the whole the bill is a victory for sane protection as advocated by the President and congressional leaders.

Most duties that were too high were lowered. Of the 1,122 items that were changed, 235 represent decreases and 887 represent increases. The net result of all the changes made by Congress is to increase the average ad valorem duty, or its equivalent, 2.8 per cent on the basis of imports for the first three months of this year. On the basis of imports for 1928 the percentage of increase is still more infinitesimal.

The increased duties allowed by this bill are mostly in favor of agriculture. Duties levied on agricultural raw materials and compensatory duties allowed industries using those materials account for approximately 68 per cent of the total increase. The Tariff Commission estimates that revenue from the tariff will be increased by $106,426,796, and that $72,181,314 of that amount will result from higher rates on agricultural products and compensatory duties. Agricultural duties will jump from 38.10 per cent to 48.92 per cent, with a similar increase in compensatory duties. But the increase in industrial rates in which the compensatory element does not enter is only from 31.02 to 34.31 per cent. The Smoot-Hawley measure is preeminently an agricultural revision upward.

On the basis of these facts, charges that industry stands to gain millions of dollars from this act at the expense of the public are absurd. The increased cost of living, should it materialize, will be largely a result of the agricultural duties, against which there is virtually no opposition. But the great majority of the people must look to the moderate changes in industrial rates for the increased employment and higher wages that will offset the higher cost of foodstuffs.

That preposterous bogy of a new formidable wall about America shutting out international commerce is disposed of by the facts. With only one-third of our imports taxed at all, and only one-third of those taxed affected by the present revision, and with part of those changes opening American ports to a greater volume of foreign goods, the "wall" of which free traders and internationalists prate crumbles and disappears.

The most popular argument used against the tariff bill—that it is the highest tariff in the history of the country—is utterly false. Since the McKinley law of 1890 the percentage of imports allowed to enter free has been increased by almost one-half. The Wilson law, the Dingley law, the Payne-Aldrich law and the recent Fordney-McCumber law were less liberal in this respect than the new tariff. The average ad valorem rate, or its equivalent, under the McKinley law was 48.39 per cent, under the Wilson law 41.29, under the Dingley law 46.49, as compared with 41.64 for the new bill. Ad valorem rates under the Underwood law were lower because of inflated prices during the war, and rates of the 1922 act are only slightly below what the new tariff would put into effect.

When the twaddle of the enemies of protection is brushed aside it will be seen that Congress has not departed from the traditional American protective policy, and that it has complied with the President's request for a limited revision.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER.

The observance of Memorial Day properly centers around the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where lies buried an American boy who gave his life in the bitter struggle of 1917-18 and whose tomb is symbolical of the graves of all of America's warrior dead. Today the observance will be made noteworthy by the participation of Edward S. Younger, who, as Sergt. Younger, was delegated to choose the casket in which had been placed the body of an unidentified American soldier. Nine years ago Sergt. Younger advanced alone into a tiny chapel in France where lay four caskets, upon one of which he deposited a bouquet of roses. This casket was brought to Washington and interred at Arlington. Today, for the first time since that day nine years ago, Sergt. Younger again will honor the memory of the war dead by depositing upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier another bouquet of roses.

The episode is solemnly significant. One who fought and suffered renders homage to one who fought, suffered and died, and in so doing he expresses the honor that the Nation would bestow upon all its defenders. It remembers their sacrifice, and bows its head today in reverence and gratitude.

HUGO N. FRY.

The columnists of the Cornell University Sun intimate that there was no such character as "Hugo N. Fry," alleged progenitor of the Republican party in New York State, in whose memory and honor they recently tendered a banquet during which there were read glowing tributes from the pens of Secretary of Labor Davis, Vice President Curtis, Chairman Huston, Senator Grundy, Representative Pratt and others. But the denial of the existence of the gentleman does not suffice. Somebody must have established the so-called Republican party in New York, and if Fry was not the man, who was?

It must be admitted that the Republican party in New York lies dormant today. New York City has been a Democratic stronghold for, lo! these many years. Al Smith was succeeded by that sturdy Democrat, Frank Roosevelt, to the gubernatorial chair. The New York delegation in the House votes Democratic to the tune of 22 to 20, and in the Senate, Doc Copeland and Bob Wagner are more Democratic than the sidewalks of New York. New York Republicanism seems to be just the kind of party a mythical character would have established.

Charlie Curtis, in his letter, congratulated the Republican party "on paying respect to the memory of Hugo N. Fry." Secretary Davis said it was a pleasure to "testify to the career of this sturdy patriot who, if he were living today, would rejoice in evidence everywhere that our Government is still safe in the hands of the people." Charlie Curtis, no doubt, was indirectly paying respect to those dear, dead days, when New York sent sturdy Republicans to the Senate, and Jim Davis, it will be noted, made the occasion one for a backhand slap at Senator Wagner's crusade to make the public unemployment conscious.

Meanwhile, the fame of Hugo N. Fry rests secure against all efforts to prove him a myth. He is the man who founded the mythical party that furnishes mythical opposition in New York State.

HENRY FORD'S LATEST DREAM.

The principle of quantity production is so intriguing to Henry Ford that he does not believe in curtailing the agricultural output in accordance with actual demands. Everything that is produced from the soil, he says, can be used for some purpose. With that vague justification of his theory, he advocates as a remedy for present economic conditions intensive development of agriculture and industry.

The Federal Farm Board probably feels that as an agricultural economist Mr. Ford is a good automobile manufacturer, and the public is likely to take the same view. The theory that a country must cultivate all its available land to be prosperous is not sound. Experience shows that the country can be supported and a good share of food products shipped abroad with only a fraction of usable land put to crops, and the Department of Agriculture intimates that this will continue to be the case.

Farm machinery, says Nils A. Olsen, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, is increasing production and reducing expenses. The growing use of power on the farm is making the tillers of the soil far more efficient and productive. Dr. O. E. Baker, in charge of the land resources and utilization section, reports that agricultural production per unit of labor increased 18 per cent between 1922 and 1926. Modern methods are enlarging the output much faster than the demand for foodstuffs, without increasing the land under cultivation.

In view of the diminishing rate of population growth it is quite probable that the farm acreage of the United States will never be much greater than it now is. The population, it is estimated, will become stationary at 150,000,000 to 200,000,000, but with improved methods little additional acreage will be required. Level-headed farmers will not stake their hopes on the fantastic idea that their products will be "absorbed by chemistry," as visioned by Mr. Ford. If chemistry is to be brought into the question, it is more to the point to contemplate the possibilities of synthetic foods, which may still further reduce the demands upon agriculture.

RETIREMENT LAW AT LAST.

For the first time since the civil service system was established, adequate provision has now been made for the retirement of those who labor their lives away for the Government. The fight for liberalized retirement legislation was concluded yesterday when the President affixed his signature to the retirement bill, one of the most important provisions of which is that not only those who will retire in the future stand to benefit therefrom, but also that those already retired will be paid annuities on the liberalized scale.

Those who labored through the years for retirement legislation, notably the organizations of Federal employes, deserve the gratitude of Government workers, past, present and future, for having brought the fight for liberalization to a successful conclusion. Congress is to be commended for having recognized the Government's responsibility to care for its workers in their old age. President Hoover's practical sympathy and energetic efforts in behalf of this legislation were powerful factors in bringing about results, after years of delay.

THE NAVAL QUESTION

By DR. DAVID JAYNE HILL,
In Current History.

The fundamental political question for the United States may be reduced to this: Is naval parity with Great Britain worth what it will cost?

We can not calculate precisely what naval parity with Great Britain will cost under the treaty of London, because of the conditional clause permitting more building. It will probably cost less under the treaty than it will without it; but, whatever it costs, this parity must be obtained. * * *

Being, as it is, a political and military alliance, the League of Nations, if it can function, is the most powerful combination of armed forces in existence. It is subject to no law except its own law, and to no court except its own court, which will judge it by its own law, because there is no other law by which it will consent to be judged (Article XX). The United States is not a party to this military compact. By the terms of it all the other members of the league may be at war with an offending member. The covenant requires the members unitedly, upon advice of the council of the league, "to prevent all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state, and all financial, commercial, or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the nationals of any other state, whether a member of the league or not" (Article XVI).

In the case of such a war, the United States, without its consent, would by armed force be deprived of the use of the sea by an edict of the council of the League of Nations at any and all parts of the sea where there might be suspicion of exercising any form of the prohibited intercourse; and the United States would be obliged to submit, under this menace, to the arbitrary will of the council, or be prepared to resist it. It would thus be confronted at once with the combined opposition of all the naval powers belonging to the League of Nations, including Great Britain, the chief naval power in the world.

This powerful military alliance, having declared in its covenanted obligations what it will do to cut off intercouse with one of its members—which might be China or an American republic—through persistent propaganda on the part of its friends is urging the United States to forfeit in advance its rights to determine its own neutrality, and thus permit the council of the league to suspend all intercourse with powers friendly to the United States in case of a quarrel within the league. The voluntary forfeiture by the United States of the right of neutrality in a European, Asiatic or even an American controversy, is now urged as if it were a corollary of the Briand-Kellogg pact, on the ground that without force the pact will be ineffectual. Not content with the pledge of national honor by virtually all sovereign states not to resort to war, but to seek peaceful adjustments, the London conference has revealed a tendency to expect and prepare for future wars by provision for naval expansion as a possible contingency.

There is in these circumstances no occasion for the United States to modify its time-honored policy of neutrality, the ideal of immunity of private property at sea, and a desire for limitation and reduction of naval armament. After the strenuous efforts put forth by the American delegation at London to reduce the element of force and to promote the element of conciliation in international affairs it would be a ridiculous moment to yield to any combination of powers the exercise of armed supremacy on the sea.

The treaty of London, it is frankly admitted, is not an absolutely binding engagement. To safeguard the double-standard ambition of Great Britain the allotment of construction is made contingent upon the action of nonsignatories. This should not be overstressed, however, for it binds the United States no more than it binds others. We also have our "safeguarding clause." It is found in the Constitution of the United States, Article I, section 7, clause 13, which imposes upon the Congress not the option but the duty "to provide and maintain a Navy." As one of the purposes of the Constitution is "to provide for the common defense," the Navy must be adequate for its purpose. We have not only this safeguard, but express provision to prevent the trading away of the Navy. A treaty must be ratified by a two-thirds majority of the senators—a provision that has saved us from many costly errors of judgment. No true lover of his country will wish, for the gratification of his own conceit, to diminish that safeguard. Our delegates sent to negotiate abroad see their country as it is seen by other nations. Our senators see it as this Nation sees itself.

"Our Country Ought to Be Dearer to Us Than Ourselves."—Cicero.

PRESS COMMENT.

Truth Triumphant.

Toledo Blade: Nevertheless and notwithstanding the United States Senate, ours is a great country.

And the Wrack.

San Francisco Chronicle: France is building a school to honor the originator of algebra and that will complete the list except for the inventor of the thumb screw.

Pretty Rubbish.

Pathfinder: New York has under way a campaign to improve the appearance of ash cans. Next we suppose it will launch a campaign for more beautiful rubbish.

With Neatness and Dispatch.

Ohio State Journal: Before prohibition it took a man years to drink himself to death, but now he can order his own flowers and have the job finished before they are delivered.

And Carry So Much Water.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: If political discretion prevents one from being on one side or the other when prohibition is the issue, what a hair shirt one must wear.

Believe It or Not.

Atchison Globe: An Atchison woman became sick and tired of hearing her husband complain how hard it is to cut the grass. The husband became sick and tired of hearing his wife say how she loathes doing the dishes. So they have traded jobs. He washes the dishes. She cuts the grass.

CONSIDER THE UMPS.

Baseball umpires never have been accepted for life insurance with any enthusiasm, observes the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Ever since the national pastime became such, their lot has been hapless. Spaniards have baited bulls and Americans have baited umpires. Umpires have stood alone, pitiful in their isolation. New umpires at the Polo Grounds in New York have had another stone hung around their already contrite necks. They must broadcast balls and strikes over an amplifier that carries their decision to every part of the stadium. The poor fellow is wired like a robot. A microphone is in the mask which he wears for protection. Every word he utters into that mask, henceforth, will be inviting additional trouble. A wire runs down the umpirical pants leg to his shoe, making contact there with the steel spikes on the shoe sole. When he stands on a piece of metal behind the plate contact is completed with the amplifier. Consider now his plight! What if he should forget to break contact when he admonishes an unruly player and ousts him from the park? The loud-speakers likely would curl up in embarrassment. Furthermore, the amplifier is no protection against pop bottles and leather cushions.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

MEMORIAL DAY.

We of the living marching on,
Who see each other, eye to eye,
Although we think of them as gone
Are closer to the ones who die.

Those who have put aside the clay
And done with petty toil and strife
To us in memory closer stay
Than those who walk the ways of life.

The little faults are seen no more,
The failings which the living mar
So quickly found and gossiped o'er,
Of all our dead forgotten are.

For them to keep the faith we try;
For them we struggle to be true:
For them we hold life's standard high
In all we are, in all we do.

The busy living come and go,
But as we see them, eye to eye,
In some strange, subtle way we know
We're closer to the ones who die.

Although we think of them as gone,
In memory, brave and true they stay
Inspiring us to carry on
And guiding us along the way.

A Trap in the Swamp Doesn't Injure Creatures That Keep Out of Slime.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MEN seldom think rationally when they discuss censorship.

To one man any form of censorship is an unwarranted infringement on human rights; to another it is a necessary moral safeguard.

Thus a discussion of censorship becomes a conflict between one man's definition of liberty and another man's definition of morality—a continuation that is, of the conflict that has spilled the blood of men since the dawn of history.

It is a conflict in which moderation and tolerance and reason give way to passion and prejudice.

Yet men of good will and sound sense, eager to establish what is right, can easily and quickly find the happy medium that is reasonable and just.

Censorship is a defense measure.

It is a means by which society protects itself from enemies.

If there are no enemies, there is no need of censorship.

And if a censorship attempt to do more than protect society from enemies, it becomes a nuisance and a tyrant.

The question to decide is not whether censorship is right, but whether it is needed.

If it is needed, it is right; if it isn't needed, it is wrong.

Society's right to protect itself is unquestioned.

Man's right to liberty is equally obvious.

At what point, then, does the individual's right to liberty conflict with society's right to protect itself?

The answer is easily found.

The things that a normal man has a natural desire to do, and can do without injury to his neighbors, these he has the right to do, and to deny him the right is to steal his liberty.

But liberty does not include the right to steal, for theft does injury to others.

Nor does it include the right to marry a girl 5 years of age, for the desire to make such a union is abnormal and offensive to the moral sense of decent men.

Prohibitive laws have two purposes—to protect normal and decent men and to restrain abnormal and indecent men.

If you are a normal and decent man, you have no desire either to publish or to read filthy and lascivious literature.

Censorship of such literature in no way affects your liberties.

The natural rights of normal people are not affected when a pervert is forbidden to write filth on the walls of a school building.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WONDERS WILL NEVER CEASE.

The day is near when the radio addict can sit at his radio and see Amos 'n' Andy. Television is making rapid progress. It is only a question of time before every radio owner in the country will be able to decide whether he likes Graham McNamee's face, tell when Floyd Gibbons needs a shave and see for himself whether "Roxy's" newspaper photographs have flattered him.

* * * *

The other day a complete vaudeville show was transmtited by television, all the actors being thrown on the screen life-size. And none of them were Singer midgets.

* * * *

Nothing has caused such a sensation in the amusement world since the first moving pictures. The old-time theater magnates now realize more than ever that the show business of America is becoming simply a branch of the electric industry.

* * * *

It is entirely possible that the theater of the future will have no seats. It will simply wire the show to subscribers. If the show is a big hit the spectators will buy up the electricity six weeks in advance.

* * * *

Vaudeville performers are particularly cordial to the television stunt. Vaudeville is in such a bad way in this country today that it is doubtful whether even electricity can revive it.

* * * *

The audience who saw the vaudevillians by television last week registered no protest, but it must be remembered that the bill included no animal acts, twin-sister crooners or ventriloquists.

* * * *

And there were no magicians on it, either. Showing that the General Electric Co. knows where to stop.

* * * *

Once some of these old-time vaudeville acts are put on the television programs the public will figure out a way to broadcast a tomato.

* * * *

While the possibilities of television in the theater are great, the ultimate target is the great American home, and many a radio entertainer who is no treat to the eye is dreading the day when it is perfected.

* * * *

They know very well that the public, which has been "sold" on a radio performer's voice, may not like his face at all.

* * * *

Ultimately television will bring pictures along with the radio description of the world's series, the Yale football game and the Kentucky Derby. Home, it is obvious, will eventually become the last place to go to if you want rest and quiet.

TRAFFIC STUDY.

The man stood on the burning curb
Just waiting for the lights;
He stood there fully seven days
And also seven nights.

Securedly fixed he was, as is
A bump upon a log;
And if he ever gets across
'Twill be when there's a fog.

The Pennsylvania result would seem definitely to dispose of the rearranging of "America" to be sung:

My country 'tis of thee
Sweet land of Joegrundy.

What's become of the old-fashioned woman who used to think she got all the exercise she needed doing the housework and raising the kids?

Seven men who participated in the NC-4 first transatlantic flight in 1919 have just been presented with medals by Congress. Ultimately the news of any big event reaches everywhere.

Do you remember away back when the ice box was practically considered closed after 7 p. m.?

THE SILENT ARMY.

By STEVENS BEALE.

Dreamless and still! no bugle call
Breaks in upon their sleeping;
Nor heart-cry from the distant homes
Where friends are pale and weeping.

No cannon's mouth proclaims the fight,
Nor sword of chieftain glistens,
Nor lightning wires send forth the shaft
That all life's joy embitters.

The guns are hushed, the sword is sheathed,
Along our quiet borders;
While the great living army waits
In peace for higher orders.

Honored as when, in youth's glad day,
The roar of battle leaping,
With you they braved the imposing hosts
O'er plain and valley sweeping.

They flung our colors to the breeze
From wilderness to mountain,
While gentle summer smiled—and wept—
By southern rill and fountain.

They bore that sacred flag aloft,
Through battles and through slaughters,
Back to the nation's loving arms,
Back to the peaceful waters.

Today, with tender, loving hand,
Where valor's heart reposes,
They place upon each sacred bed
The lilies and the roses.

O Silent Army of our dead!
By cypress, palm or willow,
Or in the ocean's coral strand,
Rocked by the surging billow—

No matter where your graves may be,
God's love all distance covers—
The southern plain, the northern height,
Where the proud eagle hovers.

Even down below the startled deep,
Jehovah only measures,
Sleep sweet, beloved, till He command,
And seas give up their treasures.

More precious than a monarch's gems
The garlands love hath bound you,
More sacred than a mother's kiss,
The memories that surround you.

Farewell, dear comrades, brothers, friends!
That threefold cord shall bind us;
And may our last great bugle call
True to our colors find us!

We lost you when the guns of war
Sent death through all the nation.
Comrades! We'll find you, at the last,
Safe at the higher station.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tax Plan for Fixing Fiscal Relations of the Government and the District of Columbia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The fiscal relations between the Government and the municipality of Washington provoke perennial controversy which seems to develop no certain ratio for the settlement of these relations upon a permanent basis.

The subject is quite complex, and what I say here is to be taken as a project for examination and test to be elaborated in detail and qualified in application if it shall be found to have elements of equity upon which this controversy may be adjusted.

The municipal administration is maintained for the protection and service of buildings and the people who live and work in them. The tax can not be laid directly upon the people. The practical alternative is to lay it upon the buildings. For this purpose it is proposed that the cubic feet as measured by its exterior dimensions of every building in the District of Columbia be computed, and that a basis tax of 1 cent per day or $3.65 per year be laid upon each room unit of 1,000 cubic feet contained in each building; that the tax so found and computed upon Government buildings be paid by Congress in a lump sum and that the tax found upon private buildings of all descriptions be paid by owners and be made a lien upon the real estate sites of the buildings taxed.

This will do away with tax valuation. Special improvement taxes would be laid per front foot upon private and Government street frontage alike. The care and police of parks and reservations would be carried on by the Government.

This basic tax should be supplemented by a tax of 2 per cent paid monthly upon the gross dollar receipts of all business carried on in the District, including gross interest and rental receipts. This tax would have the substance of a sales tax and the form of a business tax. It would be a complete but impersonal income tax levied from the spent income of all the people in the District, including both the inhabitants and the strangers within the gates of the city.

The rate of 2 per cent is suggestive and tentative. The rate requisite for the necessary revenues would have to be adjusted after investigation and its finding of the dollar base for the business tax. Corporate gross income for the District in 1927 was $640,000,000. This does not include noncorporate business receipts, rentals and interest. Nor does it include the gross income of nonresident corporations doing business in the District. Bank clearings for the District in 1928 were $1,400,000,000. It is between these figures that the dollar base for the business tax will be found.

In any view of the matter, I hold the opinion that the necessary District revenues may best be raised by this process. The land tax and the personal chattel tax should be abolished.

Approves Red Cross Suggestion of First Aid Equipment Along Motor Routes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recent suggestion of the American Red Cross is entitled to more than passing consideration; that is, to establish at intervals along the motor routes of travel, emergency or first aid equipment to care for accidents preliminary to arrival of physicians or surgeons.

In view of the steady increase in travel, the thought is in keeping with the humanitarian principles this society practices, and deserves the heartiest support of every individual.

I feel sure that the early adoption throughout the Nation of the suggestion would prevent serious results from many accidents.

Son of Envoy To Come Here As Secretary

Senor Ramon Padilla to Serve at Spanish Embassy.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Ambassador of Spain, Senor Padilla, went to New York yesterday to join Senora de Padilla and their younger daughter, Senorita Maria Padilla, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Birch. Mr. Birch was United States Minister to Portugal at the time when Senor Padilla was representing his country at Lisbon and the two men formed a friendship which has been enduring. Mr. and Mrs. Birch frequently visit at the Spanish Embassy in Washington and Senor and Senora de Padilla usually stay with them when they go to New York.

Today the Ambassador and Senora de Padilla will say "bon voyage" to Viscountess Gracial Real, wife of the Spanish Minister to Mexico, who is sailing for her home in Spain. Senor and Senora de Padilla last night attended the banquet given aboard the S. S. Alfonso XIII by the director of the Royal Spanish Mail Line, at which the Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila were also guests. Senor and Senora de Davila will sail on Saturday for South America and will spend the summer at their home in Chile.

News that Senor Ramon Padilla, son of the Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Padilla, has been appointed second secretary of the embassy in Washington is welcome, indeed, for young Senor Padilla made many friends when he served here as attache for a brief period. Several months ago he was transferred to a post in the ministry of state at Madrid, but he is due to return in a few weeks as successor to Senor Don Jose Linares-Rivas, who has been detailed to a post as yet unnamed.

The law of compensation seems to work out pretty well in the matter of diplomatic appointments, one eligible bachelor being replaced by another. Senor Linares-Rivas' departure will be keenly regretted, for he has been equally popular with Washington's "great ladies," with the members of the younger residential set and with the "jeunes filles." Whispers of his engagement to the daughter of a foreign envoy now stationed in Washington were current when he left Washington a few months ago, but so far no announcement has been made. Senor Linares-Rivas went to Spain on leave, and the news of his transfer has just come out. He was one of the best fencers in the Diplomatic Corps, a member of the little group which met regularly at the Cuban Embassy last winter for workouts.

Senor Ramon Padilla is a good-looking lad and very engaging, although rather quiet in contrast to his sisters, Senorita Rosa Padilla and Senorita Maria Padilla, who are extremely vivacious.

Women's National Press Club Officers at White House.

Mrs. Hoover had the officers of the Women's National Press Club as her guests at tea yesterday afternoon. Miss Susan L. Dyer, of California, who has been visiting at the White House for several months, poured tea. Mrs. Stark McMullen was also present. The daughter of old friends of the President and Mrs. Hoover, she arrived recently from California to be a White House guest.

Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, who will sail for Europe early in June, were the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman entertained informally at dinner last evening at the National Woman's Country Club. The other guests were Attorney General and Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark Bristol, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George P. Scriven and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman will be hosts tonight at a young people's dinner at Tuxeden, their home at Edgemoor, entertaining for Miss Alice Cutts, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Richard Malcolm Cutts, and her fiance, Mr. John Tillotson Wainwright. Mr. Wainwright is the son of Mrs. Clement Biddle, of Philadelphia, a long time friend of Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara, accompanied by the latter's sister, Mme. Aguirre, are visiting in New York and will go to Boston for a few days.

The ambassador will go from Boston to Florida and will receive an honorary LL.D. degree from the University of Florida before returning to Washington.

Mme. Bista Radeff, wife of the Bulgarian Minister, will sail today on the France for Havre.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne Depart for Greenfield.

The Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne left town yesterday to fly to their home in Greenfield, Mass., and today Col. Payne will go to Springfield, Mass., making the trip by air, to take part in the dedication of the Bowles Airport. Col. Payne will return to Washington Sunday. Mrs. Payne is not expected back in town until June 8. She will go to Providence, R. I., to attend commencement exercises next Wednesday and Thursday at the Mary C. Wheeler School, from which her daughter, Miss Carolyn Payne, will be graduated. Miss Payne, who is just 16, will enter Vassar College next autumn.

Dr. and Mrs. K. von Kriegner, of Budapest, are spending a few days at the Mayflower. Mrs. von Kriegner, well known in musical circles in Europe as Marta Linz, has climbed the ladder of international success in a surprisingly short time. Her tours in Germany, Holland, England, France, Italy, Spain and Switzerland have proved the increasing popularity of this young Hungarian violinist, who, with her temperament, masterly technique and wonderful tone quickly won the hearts of the European world of music.

The Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy and Lady Broderick entertained at a small informal dinner last evening.

Lady Lister-Kaye, the former Miss Natica Yznaga, who has passed the winter here and in New York, has gone to Paris and is established at the Ritz for an indefinate stay.

Lady Lister-Kaye returned to her home in London several weeks ago and has been in residence at Denby Grange until her recent arrival in France. She is a sister of the late Dowager Duchess of Manchester.

Mrs. Charles C. Deming, who has been in New York City, has returned to her apartment at the Carlton.

Mrs. Francis Whitten has gone to Philadelphia to pass the week-end and last evening attended the dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Thayer, of Many Corners, Haverford, preceding the Devon horse show ball.

Mrs. William L. Marshall, widow of the late former chief of engineers, who passed last week here with Miss Martha Scott, is in New York for a short stay and will return to the Pacific Coast to be with her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. John Harrison Knapp.

G. O. P. Women to Meet With Mrs. Kelley.

By invitation of Mrs William Fitch Kelley, the regular monthly meeting of the League of Republican Women on Monday, at 3:30 o'clock, will be held at her estate, Knole, on the Rockville Pike. Miss Janet Richards will conduct a "mock parliament." Light refreshments will be served. A bus leaving Dupont Circle every twenty minutes passes Mrs. Kelley's home.

Mr. and Mrs William Bride have issued cards for a reception on Sunday afternoon, June 8, from 5 until 7 o'clock, at their home in Chevy Chase, in honor of the Commissioners of the District and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Reichelderfer and Gen. and Mrs. Herbert Crosoy.

Miss Butler Is Wed To Mr. Cairns.

A small group of relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom attended the marriage yesterday of Miss Florence Faison Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Butler, to Mr. Huntington Cairns, of Baltimore. The bride's father was for several years Senator from North Carolina. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Butler, 2200 R street, the Rev. John Douglas, of the Roland Park Presbyterian Church, officiating. After an informal buffet supper, Mr. and Mrs. Cairns left for a wedding trip in the North. On their return they will be at home at 1626 Bolton street, Baltimore.

The bride was unattended, but Mr. Cairns had Mr. Robert Chambers, British vice consul at Baltimore, as his best man. Preceding the service Mrs. Flora McGill Keefer sang, Miss Helen McGraw, of Baltimore, playing the accompaniments. Mr. Eli Seizel, who won the nation's poetry prize, read a poem composed for the occasion.

For her wedding gown, the bride had chosen a graceful model of periwinkle chiffon, the skirt cut in irregular points, and with this she wore a big black crin hat. For traveling she wore a suit of dark blue silk, with matching accessories.

Among out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James Duncanson Cairns and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heath, of Baltimore, parents and grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Grimes, of Palmerton, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Old and Mrs. H. R. Furr, of Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Joseph E. Willard, widow of the former American Ambassador to Spain, and the mother of Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, has purchased a suite of rooms in the fashionable east side of New York at 1 Beekman place, overlooking the East River. Mrs. Willard is well-known in Washington and a frequent visitor here.

Mrs. T. F. Shuey Is Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. Theodore F. Shuey entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in compliment to Mrs. A. Gray Pendleton, of Ventnor, N. J., and Palm Beach.

The company included Mrs. F. W. Lightfoot, Mrs. Edwin S. Frank and Miss Agnes Dyer, of Ventnor, N. J.; Mrs. Edward T. Taylor, wife of Representative Taylor, of Colorado; Mrs. E. Hart Fenn, wife of Representative Fenn, of Connecticut; Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, wife of Representative Lea, of California; Mrs. Hartsill Ragon, wife of Representative Ragon, of Arkansas; Mrs. Percy E. Quin, wife of Representative Quin, of Mississippi; Mrs. Edward Keating, Mrs. Anderson Walters, Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Peter A. Drury, Mrs. Paul M. Linebarger, Mrs. William Wolff Smith, Mrs. Edward Graves, Mrs. John D. Rhodes, Mrs. James Craig Peacock, Mrs. Albert J. Gore, Miss Belle Gore, Mrs. Louis Montford, Mrs. Charles J. Kappler and Mrs. J. Thompson Walles.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich Dudley, of Middleburg, Va., will arrive at the Powhatan on Saturday to remain until next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Brown, of New York City, have taken a suite at the Carlton, where they will remain for a few days.

Mrs. Warwick Emile Montgomery will give a lecture on historical gardens for the benefit of the National Catholic School of Social Service at the school, 2400 Nineteenth street, on Monday at 4:30 o'clock.

The commencement exercises of the Social Service School will be on Tuesday morning, June 10, at 11 o'clock.

In Costume for Colonial Ball

Harris & Ewing.

MRS. FLORA MASON NICHOLSON, in the gown which she wore last night to the Colonial Ball, given aboard the S. S. Lafayette in New York in honor of the Marquis de Lafayette. Mrs. Nicholson is a great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson and her costume is an authentic copy of the gown worn by one of her ancestors, Lady Forest, at a ball for General Lafayette.

Bishop Sails For Sojourn In England

Mrs. Freeman Will Also Make Trip to Europe.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, and Mrs. Freeman will go to New York tonight and will sail tomorrow for Europe. The bishop will attend the Lambeth conference for which Anglican bishops from all over the world convene.

On June 14, Bishop Freeman will preach at services in the Canterbury Cathedral under auspices of the Friends of Canterbury to celebrate the eight hundredth anniversary of the founding of the cathedral.

In the summer the bishop will preach in a number of places in England, including Winchester and Chester Cathedrals.

Bishop and Mrs. Freeman will return to this country late in August and will probably go to their summer home at Sorrento, Me., for a few weeks before coming to Washington.

Maj. and Mrs. W. L. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clark and Mr. Edwin Flather are among Washingtonians staying at the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach for the Memorial Day holiday and who will attend the formal opening of the Cavalier Beach Club today. By day sun umbrellas, comfortable beach chairs and cabanas with gay awnings make a pleasant spot of the beach club and at night it is hung with many colored lights.

Kelly-Brown Nuptials Held in Washington.

The marriage of Miss Geraldyne Margaret Brown, daughter of Mrs. Margaret P. Brown, to Mr. Charles Frederick Kelly, both of this city, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, in the Foundry Methodist Church parlors, the Rev. Dr. F. B. Harris officiating.

The wedding ceremony was simple, with Miss Ruth Davis, a close friend, attending the bride, and Mr. Harry F. Brown, brother of the bride, as best man.

After a short trip through Pennsylvania, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will return to Washington to make their home.

Mrs. Wayne Wirgman has returned to her apartment in Florence Court after attending a house party in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Keefer Hostess At Buffet Supper.

Mrs. Flora McGill Keefer entertained at a buffet supper last evening in her apartment at the Somerset in honor of her artist students, who sang in recital at the Washington Club on Tuesday evening. Thirty guests were invited, the program being presented by Miss Helen Bury, Miss Helen Smeltzer, Mrs. Alice Neal and Miss Louise Lowndes, of Baltimore, with Mrs. Louise McNerney and Mr. Adolf Tarovsky assisting at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lee Alexander announce the birth of a son, David Ord Alexander, on Sunday at Garfield Hospital. Mrs. Alexander was Miss Vida Ruth Ord, daughter of the late Maj. James Cresap Ord, and a granddaughter of the late Dr. Wilson, chaplain, U. S. A. Mr. Alexander is a first lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Reserve Corps. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander make their home with their mother, Mrs. James Cresap Ord, in Chevy Chase.

Class of '91 to Visit Annapolis Tomorrow.

The class of 1891 of the United States Naval Academy will entertain at a dinner in the cabinet room of the Willard this evening at 8 o'clock, prior to a trip to Annapolis for the unveiling of the statue of Tecumseh tomorrow. The members of the class who will be present are: Capt. A. Althouse, Mr. D. E. Arison, Rear Admiral R. R. Beltnap, Capt. B. B. Brerer, Lieut. Comdr. H. H. Caldwell, Mr. C. F Consaul, Capt. H. G. Gillmor, Rear Admiral H. H. Hough, Brig. Gen. R. H. Lane, U. S. M. C.; Commander W. H. McCrann, Col. W. N. McKelvy, U. S. M. C.; Brig Gen. J. T. Meyers, Capt. E. T. Pollock, Brig. Gen. George Richards, U. S. M. C.; Capt. J. K. Robison, Mr. E. G. Russell, Mr. W. T. Saunders, Capt. Chester Wells, Rear Admiral A. L. Willard, and Brig. Gen. D. Williams.

Mr. Thomas P. Gore, jr., is in Gulfport, Miss., for a short visit.

Luncheon Hostess

Bachrach.

MRS. WILLIAM LOHMAN, who entertained at a bridge luncheon yesterday for 60 guests.

Girl Is Born To Major and Mrs. Barry

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rejoice Over Birth of Son.

Maj. David S. Barry, jr., U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Barry are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Wednesday at their home in Haverford, Pa. Maj. Barry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Barry, of Washington, and for many years his father has been sergeant-at-arms of the Senate. He is now stationed in Philadelphia and he and Mrs. Barry have a charming house in one of the city's pleasantest suburbs. There are already three little girls in the Barry family.

Before her marriage Mrs. Barry was Miss Neville Johnson. She is the daughter of Dr. Loren Johnson, of Washington. Maj. and Mrs. Barry were stationed in Haiti for a long period, having returned when Maj. Barry was detailed to Philadelphia a year or more ago.

Mrs. A. C. Baker has arrived in Washington from her home in Philadelphia, and is at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Christian, of Richmond, Va., are in Washington, and are staying at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Mr. Bainbridge Colby, of New York, former Secretary of State, is a guest at the Willard.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Once in a while Clifford Brooke, director of the National Theater Players, steps into character; which is to say that he combines his directing ability with the art of acting. This week he comes on the stage of the National as Napoleon Boneparte.

In "The Misleading Lady," the role of Napoleon is used to evoke comedy—so Clifford Brooke does not play it straight, as the jargon of the theater has it. Instead, this Napoleon is "a bit off," an escaped lunatic.

Anyway, Cliff Brooke makes of this a masterpiece. He looks like the real Napoleon even though he acts like one of those poor demented fellows who sometimes believe they are the living embodiment of the Little Corporal—and there are such.

There is some talk now of putting this play, "The Misleading Lady," in the movies—making of it an all-talkie. Who, then, is better equipped to play this eccentric role than Clifford Brooke. Somehow or other the character, played with a great deal of sympathy, seems to appeal to this director—and the result is what amounts to a work of art.

• • • •

Despite the fact that June is supposed to be an off month in the production field, what with the hot weather coming along, next week in New York will witness five new plays struggling for recognition. One of them is a mystery play, "Spook House," by Joe Bryon Totten. The mystery play usually gets attention. While most of the outstanding successes in this line have been removed from the Broadway boards the indications are that five or six new mystery plays will be turned loose in the American theater within the next month or so.

• • • •

Down at the National next week the players under direction of Mr. Clifford Brooke will romp through one of the weirdest plays of all time, "Dracula." It was John Balderston, author of "Berkley Square" who first saw theater possibilities in Bram Stoker's novel. Stoker, it may or may not be remembered, was literary guide and counsel for the late Sir Henry Irving.

• • • •

After "Dracula" had gone through an unusually successful Broadway run, its owner-manager tried to sell the rights of the play; but no one wanted them, feeling perhaps that "the road" was dead. So, in desperation, the manager took the play out on the road and made another fortune with it. The story goes that he offered the play to the first man who would put up $5,000. No bidders—the first week's business outside of New York totaled a profit of $11,000—and the play is still going, with the prospects that it will break the record here when it gets under way Monday night.

In Memoriam

BENEATH the sod on the grassy slopes of beautiful Arlington—on the flower-bedecked hillsides of our cemeteries—on the poppy-covered fields of France and in many wilds and wastes of our own country—rest the mortal remains of our loved ones and our illustrious dead—forever asleep.

LET this day be consecrated to their memories and let us enshrine them in our heart of hearts encircled with blossoming wreaths of Love, Affection and Remembrance.

Eczema Formed Blisters on Child's Face. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema began to break out on my child's face. It looked red and rough at first and then formed blisters. She complained of it a great deal, saying that her face itched and burned. She was very cross and fretful, and restless at night.

"Other remedies were used but they failed to help her. Our doctor recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so we purchased some and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment she was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. R. U. Rodgers, Springville, Miss., July 25, 1929.

GANG'S GUN CADDY HELD IN SHOOTING

Chicago Police Have Every Evidence of Murder But Corpus Delicti.

MAN YANKED FROM CAR

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—A gangster who caddied for an execution squad was held as hostage by the police tonight while they hunted high and low for a dead or wounded victim of the gang. Sam Hunt, reputed Capone follower, was jerked from the running board of the assassins' automobile as it gathered momentum in flight from the scene of the shooting. The golf bag over his shoulder sheathed a shotgun, its load discharged.

Nearby in an alley was parked another car, windshield shattered as though by shot with a box of shells on the floor. Its license had been issued to a "Harry Greenfield," supposedly the assumed name of the gang's victim, for he was unknown at the address given.

Possessing every evidence of a gang murder, yet without a corpus delicti, detectives advanced the theory that the executioners had reversed the familiar practice of taking their foes for a last 'ride.' They believe he was attacked in his own car, dragged to the gang's automobile and his body carried away for disposal where the evidence might be destroyed. Witnesses who caught a glimpse of the wounded man as he was pulled into the car said his head was full of shot. A special policeman, near by as the guns were fired, rushed to the scene in time to drag Hunt from the car.

Scars of shotgun missiles on a new apartment building near the scene led police to canvass the building. They found Leo Mongoven, bodyguard for George "Bugs" Moran, was a resident and hazarded a guess he might have been the target. In one of the apartments they found ten half-gallon cans such as are used in transporting alcohol.

Harry S. Ditchburne, assistant State's attorney, announced he would hold Hunt until the victim, dead or alive, is found.

Man Files $1,900 Suit Over Bequest of Wife

Charging that he had filed his consent and waiver to the admission to probate of the will of his wife, Marie A. Levick, on condition that he receive $1,900 and alleging that the sum had not been paid, Theodore E. Levick, the widower, of 323 Twelfth street southwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to recover the amount from John McLaughlin, individually and as executor of Mrs. Levick's estate.

Levick, through Attorney Harlan Wood, tells the court that his wife died April 11 last, and that she left a will bearing the date of April 10. He declares that he intended to contest the will, but that an agreement was reached whereby he was to receive $1,900 if he would forego the contest and allow the will to probate. Levick asserts that McLaughlin has failed to keep the terms of the agreement and is attempting to vacate it by refusing to pay the designated sum.

Man Applies for New Name.

Raymond Winternitz Cohen, of 334 C street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to change his name to Raymond Winters Colton. Cohen states that he has been embarrassed by having his name confused with other persons having names of similar spelling and pronunciation

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau. Washington, Thursday, May 29—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, cloudy and continued cool, with probability of occasional rain Friday; Saturday fair, with slowly rising temperature; gentle to moderate winds, mostly north and northwest.

For Virginia, cloudy and continued cool, probably occasional rain in east and central portion Friday; Saturday fair, with slowly rising temperature; moderate to fresh northeast, backing to north or northwest winds.

For Maryland, cloudy and continued cool, with probability of rain in east and central portions Friday; Saturday fair, with slowly rising temperature; moderate winds, mostly north and northwest.

The disturbance that was central south of Rhode Island Wednesday night is now centered south of Newfoundland and moving northeastward. S. S. Laconia, 29.44 inches, and the minor disturbance that was over Oklahoma and southern Kansas has moved eastward to the Carolinas and Georgia, Charlotte, N. C., 29.72 inches. The far western disturbance has moved slightly eastward with increased intensity, Salt Lake City, Utah, 29.40 inches and pressure is low and falling over the Hudson Strait region, Hopes Advance, 29.70 inches. High pressure still prevails from the upper Mackenzie Valley to western Hudson Bay southward to Kansas and Missouri, Minnedosa, Manitoba, 30.30 inches. This pressure distribution has been attended by rains within the last 24 hours in portions of the Atlantic and gulf States, Arkansas, the southern plains States, the lower Ohio Valley, the lower lake region, the north Pacific States, and the northern plateau region. The temperature has fallen over the greater part of the United States, except the extreme South and along the northern border from North Dakota eastward and the weather has become much cooler in Tennessee, southern Virginia, and from Nevada northward to eastern Washington.

The slight disturbance now over the South Atlantic States will likely move northeastward and cause occasional rains Friday in the Atlantic States. Otherwise generally fair weather is indicated for the States east of the Mississippi River during Friday and Saturday. The temperature will be lower in the Carolinas and Georgia and the weather will continue cool elsewhere in the Washington forecast district Friday, but the temperature will rise slowly Saturday in middle and northern sections east of the Mississippi River.

FOR BETTER SERVICE TO FORD OWNERS

The Edwards Motor Company takes pleasure in announcing that it has been selected as an Authorized Ford Dealer.

This appointment is made in the interest of the growing number of Ford owners in this territory and is in keeping with the Ford policy of rendering an increasing measure of service to every purchaser of a Ford car.

This policy is founded on the belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between the Ford Motor Company and the buyer but establishes a new obligation on us to see that the car gives good service. We are as much interested in your economical operation of the car as you are in its economical manufacture.

The Edwards Motor Company, as an Authorized Ford Dealer, is pledged to the carrying out of this policy. Throughout the life of the car, the constant endeavor will be to take full and adequate care of your Ford and to help you get the greatest possible use over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Our mechanics have been thoroughly trained in schools conducted by the Ford Motor Company and they use tools and machinery made specially for servicing the Ford car. When replacements are necessary, the parts used are identical in size and quality with those from which your car was originally assembled in the Ford factory.

The charge for these parts is low, in accordance with the Ford policy, and all labor is billed at a standard flat rate.

No matter what the job—large or small—the Edwards Motor Company is equipped to handle it for you promptly, at a fair price, and in an intelligent, business-like manner.

The well-ordered cleanliness of display room and shop and the consistent courtesy of all attendants will be especially appreciated by the woman driver.

AN APPRAISEMENT
If you missed "Journey's End" in the stage version, it would certainly be a shame to miss it on the screen at R-K-O Keith's. For here you have the whole play, plus a few added touches that enhance its realism. You actually see the raid that costs Osborne's life; you see the troops moving up to the front, and you see the German attack against which the British line must not give way. Maybe you will feel, as I did, that Osborne is by far a more heroic character than Stanhope and that he should have commanded the company—but whatever you think of the war office and the merits of military promotion, you will have to agree, I think, that this is the most perfect visualization of war that has yet been brought to the screen.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

FOR THE ELEVENTH-HOUR GARDENER.

Of course, we all know we should have started our flower gardens many weeks ago. But if we are willing to get to work and dig, we may even yet have gardens that will be the envy of many of our neighbors who have been devoting a generous portion of their time to gardening ever since April.

The first thing for us to do is to prepare the ground properly. this can be done in a day. In preparing the soil do not make any attempt to enrich it; but if it has a tendency to bake, it is always well to add a small quantity of sand, which insures more perfect drainage.

After the roots of the plants have become well established and there is a developement of several inches of top growth, stimulation in the form of manure water is very beneficial. Seeds develop more rapidly and make more substantial growth without this stimulation.

Now that we have the ground prepared, let us take account of stock and see just what we have left from last year that we might use. Almost every woman has a few old geranium plants, which are surely not things of beauty. If we take these old plants, cut them back, remove about half the old foliage, plant them in a sunny bed and keep them well watered, by the Fourth of July we shall be surprised at their progress. If we have been careful about the watering they will not only be loaded with fine healthy growth but will have set quite a number of buds, some of which will be opening.

Then if we have any tradescantia and if we haven't we can usually get a few slips from our neighbor—we can plant it in a partially shaded portion of our plot and in a few weeks it will have entirely covered the space and will keep green until frost. This little creeper, if we use the plain dark green and the variegated varieties, will be quite an addition to any home garden.

When we have finished setting our geraniums and tradescantia, many of us will realize that we have exhausted our supply and filled only a small space in our garden. In such an event let us resort to seeds.

To grow seeds successfully, we must prepare the ground carefully. It should be very fine and friable. Plant the seeds with just enough soil to cover; then after planting, water them thoroughly, using the fine spray from the watering can. If you use a forceful spray you will wash the soil from the seeds, which will not mature as they otherwise would.

After watering the soil cover the bed with a large piece of manila paper. This is a protection from the strong sun, which is liable to kill young seeds. Keep them well watered for ten days, at the end of which time remove the paper.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift directly in this column if adddressed in care of this newspaper, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE FELL OF LAMB.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

The fell is the thin papery covering on the lamb carcass. Though recipes frequently advise that it be removed, before cooking, it is now believed, says the bureau, that flavor is not affected by the fell. Leg of lamb keeps its shape better if cooked with the fell, but shoulder, saddle, and chops are improved by its removal. Unless a roast from which the fell has been removed is rubbed well with flour it will require longer to cook than a piece with the fell undisturbed.

Baby Mine

Jane Interprets the Mode

And why shouldn't her light brown tailleur have a formal vest over its chic silk broadcloth blouse?. (Courtesy of Dupouy-Magnin, Paris.)

Paris, May 29.

NO, I won't admit that we returned to any bygone days for our new styles! We are not returning and we are not reverting, we are new, new, NEW.

And being so new in our styles and our ideas, and so sure of them at last, we can afford to graciously beckon a backward flung hand to the ideas of any past mode that it suits our fancy to inculcate into our present styles.

Thus we have the tiny shoulder capes of this season which were so smart just a hundred years ago. Also we have many patiently wrought decoups which very much reminds one of the "dechiquetes" which we read were very much in favor about this time a hundred years ago.

But the next time some smart he-man tries to tell you that we are getting old-fashioned and going back to the styles of another age, just point to any mode picture of one of those days and tell him to compare it, if he is able, to the same idea expressed in one of our new dresses.

I knew someone would pin me down to it sooner or later! And I just hate to be pinned down to the fors and againsts of anything!

Sure, I like printed materials, but I don't wear 'em. Not because I don't like 'em but because I don't like 'em for me.' But I know I'm going to be tempted, and I can feel the imminent fall. But it's going to be a print that is so soft and misty, so fragile and lovely, and so withal almost one color, that I just won't be able to live without it.

Or maybe it will be the very tiny all-over, Mosaic-like print which also gives an effect of single colored-ness. Anything that is obviously out-and-out-printed I don't like, nor is this type of a print especially favored by the mode.

• • • • •

To tell the truth, I'm getting more sold on tailleurs every day! I remember the day when I couldn't even bear the sight of one, so right out loud did they shriek of women's violent attempts at emancipation—aesthetically violent. But today's tailleur is gracious and feminine and lovely without in the least losing any of its smart tailored appearance. Just look for instance at the Dupouy-Magnin model I have sketched for you. It was a brown and white tweed, with a smart little vest of the same material and a broadcloth blouse, beige, with brown criss-cross stripes. The white in the tweed was so very fine that you hardly noticed it—It just served to lighten the shade and give it the frosty appearance that is so smart these days. Aren't you ready to agree with me that tailleurs have come into their own?

If your best friend asks you what you want for your next birthday present and your birthday isn't till next December, just say you want the Dahray illustrated leaflet all about how to make a bathrobe out of bath-toweling-by-the-yard! All your friend will have to pay is a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of the Washington Post, and all you have to do is make it in two shakes of a lamb's tail, without a single fitting. And by Christmas you'll be wanting another present just like the one you got for your birthday.

• • • • •

We just know that tomorrow without fail you'll look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in the big Sunday Post.

Au revoir!

Woodblock Prints on Display.

The Goofus Flamingo

The Goofus Flamingo has learned every lingo
Including both Slavic and Croat,
But his speech is curtailed,
Which fact he's bewailed,
Because of a knot in his throat.
As result of his trouble
His words seem to bubble,
In fact he must whisper, they say,
So I can't see it matters
What language he chatters
For you can't understand anyway!

What Today Means to You

"GEMINI."

If May 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

The very positive influences in force on this date are bound to make things happen, and it will be a time of vivid experiences, all of which will not be pleasant ones. Tongues will be set loose; beware of half truths, you may get hold of the wrong half!

Children born on this May 30 will be impulsive in speech and abrupt in manner. They will have considerable literary ability good imaginations, a love of beauty and artistic tendencies. They will be very sympathetic and affectionate, in spite of their bluntness.

You may be classed among the simple, gentle lovable folk of the world. You are a devout nature lover, and a friend to all wee creatures. As a man, you are probably a passionate angler, and awake to all the beauties and allurements of wood and stream. As a woman, you have pic-nic-y tastes, and you joyfully put up with the discomforts of camp life.

You are too much of a dreamer to be overly ambitious, and there will probably be few ground foundations underneath your castles. You are more interested in your comforts than in the size or number of your worldly goods. You work from necessity, and not because of your driving energy—you know how to loaf with pleasure. There is nothing malicious, mean or small about you, and you are too well satisfied with life, and too contented to be troubled wiht envy or jealousy. You are capable of being very efficient and very clever, but you seldom bother to be either. No one can make you over; you will always follow the line of least resistance. You refuse to fight or quarrel; a smile and indifference are your weapons.

You dislike formal social life, but you thoroughly enjoy the informal sociability of your intimate friends. You are a generous, natural host or hostess, and because you do not fuss over your guests you are popular.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Engagements."

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: I'm asking for your opinion of the girl who claims she is engaged to a very nice young man, has even accepted a diamond, and yet she continues to correspond and play around with others, even going so far as to make other men care for her and accepting gifts, such as class rings, &c., from them.

I have a girl friend who has done this very thing, and it doesn't seem to me to be fair to her fiance. Now, Miss McDonald, please don't think me a prude, nor an old-fashioned, stay-at-home type of girl, but I can see the right and wrong of things and even the word "modern" can not excuse this in my estimation. Do give your candid opinion of this affair, so that I may know whether you think I am right or wrong.

"FAITHFUL."

In holding to certain standards of ethics and behavior for yourself you are very right. But in attempting to judge another human being you are wrong. You know this is a funny old world, with an endless procession of all sorts of folks whirling along. And the misguided souls who stand on the sidelines dispensing opinions of those who whiz by have a terrible proposition on hand. You see it's hard to tell at a glance the whole why and wherefore of the performance, so terribly hard to tell by the tilt of a girl's chin whether or not she is going to laugh or to cry. Yet there are folks who seem to believe themselves gifted with that particular sort of second sight. They see a girl dancing along and they instantly assume that they know every thought in her brain, understand all her reactions. How can they? For instance, just the fact of having a fiance is not proof of having definitely made one's final decision as to forswearing all others and cleaving only to one! I know several girls who are participants in "trial" engagements.

Of course any engagement is a trial as all of us who have survived one or two can testify. But the real "trial engagement" is an excellent thing, it being a sort of option upon some particular kindred spirit, without the strain of the usual restrictions. I'm for them, and so, perhaps, is your girl friend. It is of course awfully sweet of you to be so concerned for her fiance, but fiances have a way of being able to survive most of their trials and tribulations, and do you know it's a positive fact that far from resenting such frivolities as you have described the dear things seem to reward such activities with increased devotion! Of course I would be the last one in the world to advise such a course for a died-in-the-wool-cross-your-heart-engaged girl, but you can draw your own conclusions. Men tire of devotion and I do not blame them. You know some engaged girls just compose themselves blissfully and refuse to show that they still live. And it makes no sort of "hit" with the man. For the average man is rather eager for the zest of life and of living, and he is apt to feel a bit of resentment when life goes "flat." So unless your little friend tells you otherwise, it would be quite safe to assume that she knows what she is about, and that she is looking for the way to happiness, like the rest of us.

And, just between ourselves, dear, be terribly careful that you do not develop the tendency to be a bit feline toward other girls, it's fatal. Be faultless if you must, but whatever you do don't be catty.

This column is for you! Your opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

WORK'S BRIDGE

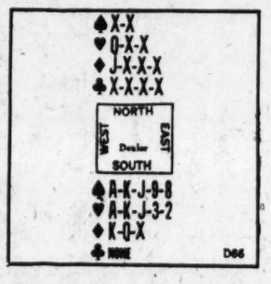
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

On the two preceding Fridays we have explained a new plan by which a Contract player can give valuable information to his partner. The suggestion is that an original bid of one or two Clubs (which to use to be determined later) should be made an artificial bid to announce that its maker is very strong but in doubt between two declarations and wants to make both and let his partner choose.

To illustrate: Suppose two Clubs be set aside as the artificial bid and that it be made by a Dealer, second hand passing as probably would happen when the dealer had such great strength. Third hand would be expected, with weakness, to bid two Diamonds; with strength, to bid either two No Trumps or a suit which justified a strength bid. After the first responsive bid, the original bidder could show the higher value of his two real declarations; the partner then would make a higher bid to keep the contracting open. The bid which was just enough to overcall the partner (e. g., two Spades over two Hearts, two No Trumps over two Spades, or three Clubs over two No Trumps) would be the artificial bid which third hand would be expected to make to keep the bidding open; it would not convey any other message.

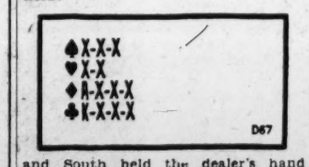
After Dealer had made his second declaration, the fully informed partner would show his choice.

Suppose the two hands to be:



Using the proposed system, with West and East always passing, South would bid two Clubs, North two Diamonds (the next higher bid), South two Spades, North two No Trumps (the next higher bid), South three Hearts, North four Hearts.

If North, instead of the above hand, held:



and South held the dealer's hand above given, the bidding would be: South two Clubs, North two No Trumps (to show some strength but no biddable suit; North has the minimum for this bid), South three Spades, North three No Trumps (the next higher bid, no other significance), South four Hearts, North four Spades (showing his preference for Spades over Hearts).

This is the new idea—not yet developed sufficiently to justify its being advocated, but having (I think) possibilities that entitle it to the serious consideration of the expert players of the country.

WALTER REED RITES GRADUATE NURSES

Class of 51 Receive Diplomas at Service in Garden of Hospital.

MANY TO REMAIN HERE

Fifty-one nurses were graduated at Walter Reed Hospital yesterday afternoon, the ceremonies taking place in the formal garden at the hospital.

The presentation of the diplomas by Maj. Gen. Merritte W. Ireland, surgeon general of the Army, marked the culmination of three years of study for the nurses, who have learned to be real "sisters of mercy" in taking care of the disabled veterans who have been under their supervision at the hospital. Many of them will remain in the hospital, taking higher work. Others will return to their homes, scattered in sixteen States, and carry on their chosen profession there.

Inaugurating yesterday's program of events, Army Chaplain Reuben E. Boyd delivered the invocation, which was followed by an address of introduction for Miss Clara D. Noyes, director of the American Red Cross, by Maj. Julia C. Stimson, dean of the Army School of Nursing.

Army Band Provides Music.

The Army Band provided music for the exercises during the afternoon, playing several selections before and after the graduating nurses were presented with their diplomas.

During the program yesterday Miss Mary Duff, of Lawrence, Ill., was presented with the medal which is given annually by Mrs. Henry R. Rea for the outstanding student at the Army School for Nurses. This was followed by a benediction by Chaplain Benjamin F. McGeary, the "Star-Spangled Banner" by the Army Band and retreat.

The commencement exercises marked the climax of what has been a week of varied activity for the graduating nurses. Their program started May 11 with a baccalaureate sermon at Epiphany Church, which was delivered by the rector, the Rev. Z. B. Phillips. Sunday afternoon there was a picnic supper in Rock Creek Park, and Tuesday evening the class of 1932 entertained their older sisters at the Nurses Recreational Hut.

Corner-Stone Rites Held.

Wednesday afternoon the corner stone of the new chapel was laid by Army officials, and on Thursday night the seniors held their last chapel service.

Last night there was a reception and dance given by the Red Cross for the graduating class, and tonight there will be a faculty reception and garden fete at the hospital. Tomorrow the American Association of University Women will honor them with a dinner at the club, and Sunday morning the annual junior-senior breakfast will be held in Rock Creek Park.

Golf Tourney Held By Cosmopolitans

Convention of Federation Is Brought to Close in Capital.

The first golf tournament of the Capital District Federation of Cosmopolitan Clubs was won yesterday by Eugene Paravana, of the Washington club. The tournament, which was held at Indian Spring Golf Club, brought the federation convention to a close.

Fred J. Rice, District governor of the federation, drew attention to the fact at the closing business session yesterday that Judge Michael Doyle, now international second vice president, will automatically become president by 1932. Mr. Rice had been indorsed for president by the federation. Efforts will be made to hold the international convention of 1932 in Washington, it was announced.

Dr. John Laird, of Rochester, N. Y., former Washington Cosmopolitan, was the chief speaker at the luncheon of the federation yesterday. He was introduced by Past President Paul P. Brandstedt. William H. Callahan, president of the Washington club, presided.

Juvenile Delinquency Here Will Be Studied

Delinquency among young people in various sections of Washington will be studied during the summer by the recreation committee of the Council of Social Agencies, according to plans formulated at its meeting yesterday at the Y. W. C. A. Linn C. Drake, chairman of the committee, presided.

Reports were made by Miss Katherine Lenroot, chairman of the child welfare committee; Miss Dorothy Greene, representing the camp directors group; Miss Sybil Baker, for the nature activities group, and Miss Mabel Cook for the girls' work group.

MILLION DONATION ASSURES TRANSEPT

Bishop Freeman Announces Plans for Construction at Cathedral.

CRYPTS ARE DEDICATED

Through generosity of friends of Washington Cathedral assuring funds of approximately $1,000,000 for building the north transept, contracts for completion of this transept and for building a portion of the south transept will soon be awarded, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, told the congregation at the dedication of the crypts beneath the nave yesterday afternoon.

He pointed out that to complete the south transept and one bay of the nave requires offerings of an additional $1,250,000.

The crypts dedicated yesterday consisted of vaulted passageways, including north and south aisles and outer aisles and were built of solid masonry construction with Indiana limestone predominating, at a cost of about $400,000. These crypts add 261 feet to the length of the crypt fabric of the cathedral.

Work on these crypts began in April, 1929, and they have been recently completed. Their purpose is to provide a suitable place of assembly for those in great processions featuring important services on the main floor of the cathedral.

Bishop Freeman conducted the service of dedication yesterday, assisted in the service by the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, chancellor of Washington Cathedral, and Canons Anson Phelps Stokes, Arthur B. Rudd, Joseph Fletcher and the Rev. Edward S. Dunlap and the Rev. John W. Gummere, of the cathedral staff of clergy.

The service began in Bethlem Chapel. Led by the crucifer and banner bearers, the choir and clergy and Bishop Freeman, followed by the entire congregation, marched through the north and south aisles of the new crypts singing "Jerusalem, the Golden" and repeating selected psalms. At the conclusion of this march Bishop Freeman pronounced the sentences of dedication, in the great corridor before the Chapel of the Resurrection. The procession then returned to Bethlehem Chapel, where Bishop Freeman delivered his dedicatory address.

Masons to Attend Temple Dedication

Reception Will Be Held in $500,000 Edifice After Services Today.

Dedication of the new $500,000 Masonic Temple, at Tenth and U streets northwest, will be attended today by Masonic delegations from seven States and from Ontario, Canada.

The public program, which will begin at 2 o'clock, with J. Edgar Smith, past grand master, as master of ceremonies, will include an address by Arthur A. Schomburg, of New York, well-known Negro historian. The program tonight will include a banquet at the Bamboo Inn and a reception later in the crystal auditorium of the temple.

The building is the home of the Acacia Grand Lodge of colored Masons, which, together with subordinate lodges and appended branches of Masonry, was established in this jurisdiction in 1825. It comprises at present 2,000 Master Masons and 3,000 members of the Order of the Eastern Star. Al E. Dotson is the present grand master and Charles E. Freeman grand secretary.

$12,000 Reported In Hospital Drive

Mrs. Duff Donates $5,000 to Fund Being Sought for Casualty.

With a $5,000 contribution by Mrs. Clementine Farr Duff, the first division of the special gifts committee of the Casualty Hospital Building and equipment campaign yesterday reported a total of $12,000 in donations. Arthur Carr, chairman of the committee, said he expected a report from the second division next week.

A $1,000 donation was made by Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who laid the corner stone of the new Casualty Hospital Building. Dr. William C. Rives also gave $1,000.

The board of lady managers of the hospital, through Mrs. Martha J. Vaughan, chairman, donated another $1,000. Mrs. Vaughan indicated that her group may make an additional contribution later in the campaign.

The hospital is conducting its campaign for $50,000 to retire part of the indebtedness on the new building and for the purchase of additional equipment.

Gillilan Will Address Teachers of Capital

Strickland Gillilan will speak at the final general institute lecture of teachers and officials of Washington schools next Thursday.

Mr. Gillilan will address divisions one to nine at Central High School at 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon and divisions ten to thirteen at 8 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Garnet-Patterson Junior High School. Mr. Gillilan will speak at both lectures on "North of the Ears."

PILLOWS.

A BABY should not use a pillow, not even a small one. His head is nearly round, in the first place. In the second the distance from shoulder to shoulder is about the same as the direct distance from ear to ear. The objects of pillows are twofold, the principal one being to keep the spinal column comfortably straight. If a baby sleeps on his side with a pillow under his head, the spinal column is bent to one side—the neck is crooked upward. If he sleeps on his back, with his head on a pillow, his neck is bent forward. Both are faulty positions, leading to fatigue and irritability. The second object of the pillow is to provide a soft surface for the ear and the skin over bony prominences on the neck. Baby's face and head are pretty well padded with fat and one piece of soft padding under the head supplies all that it is needed.

Minor contributions to the harm done by pillows for babies are: Occasional interference with breathing, and a tendency to make the head flat. The arguments are all against the use of pillows for babies.

If a baby has meningitis, infantile paralysis, scurvy, rheumatism, or is very badly wasted, he may be kept on a large pillow used as a bed, but that is another matter.

Adults need to use pillows. In their case the distance from shoulder to shoulder is longer than that from ear to ear. If an adult lies on his side and uses no pillow he bends his neck laterally. The position shortly becomes uncomfortable and he gets relief by rolling forward and resting his head on the forehead.

The long axis of the head runs from before backward. If he lies on his back the head tilts backward a little, the lower jaw drops, and snoring starts. The adult soon becomes uncomfortable from the pressure of the mattress on his ear or on some skin area which lies close to bone. Even if the man sleeps face downward he needs a pillow to hold his head in a position of comfort and easy breathing.

This does not mean that the average adult should continue to use the present average size pillow. A pillow which is too large (and most of them are) also tends to crook the spine. A part of the stoop of advancing years is the result of sleeping on too much pillow. Starting from the cradle and ending at the grave, man at first bent forward into a near circle, gradually unfolds, finally becomes straight, and then begins to wind himself into a near circle again. Large pillows promote this senescent circling. Instead of being called the stoop of age it should be known as a product of age, plus pillows, plus work.

Finally, adults with heart asthma and all other forms of asthua, either need very large pillows or think they do.

COTTONSEED OIL USED.

G. T. B. writes: Can cottonseed oil be used as a lubricant without harmful results?

REPLY.

Yes. Any grease can be used as a lubricant. For that matter vaseline, which is not an oil, is used as a lubricant. Lubricant action is wholly local. Nothing but the skin could be harmed by the use of oils. Practically speaking, there is no absorption. Finally, if there were absorption, refined cottonseed oil is a wholesome food in wide use.

YANKEES, OUTHIT, CHECK WINNING STREAK OF NATS, 4-2; JONES AND VOIGT SURVIVE ABROAD, MAY CLASH TODAY

Pegler

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 29.—Primo Carnera is about to resume his interesting career under special local dispensations whereby he is to be reinstated momentarily in various jurisdictions in which he ordinarily stands suspended for unethical practices. On June 5, by order of the National Boxing Association, an alliance of State and local prize fight commissions, he is to be allowed to fight K. O. Christner, in Detroit and on a subsequent date he will meet George Godfrey, the Negro, in Philadelphia.

This is about as though some national organization charged with the regulation of safe blowing were to release some prominent peterman from prison to blow a couple of designated safes under strict official supervision. Primo and the sportsmen associated with him were caught doing a serious wrong in Los Angeles a few weeks ago and declared to be ineligible for further practice in the profession.

New Type of Managers In the Business.

The acts complained of were characteristic of the new type of prize fight manager who has muscled into the business for diversion from the humdrum routine of bombing, shooting, smuggling and brother-keeping, replacing such amusing characters as Uncle Will Gibson, Leo P. Flynn, Dumb Daniel Morgan, Nate Lewis and Will McCarney.

A member of Primo's mob was placed in the corner occupied by his opponent, one Bombo Chevalier, colored, to see that nothing occurred to impede the serene progress of the Italian monstrosity's professional career. But Bombo became ambitious on his own account and refused to subside, whereupon, so he said, one of his personal attendants rubbed oil of mustard in his eyes, while another leaned over him in his corner and promised to shoot him dead, later on.

First Offense by Own Seconds of Boxer.

It is a nice question just where to draw the line between permissible strategy and unethical conduct in pugilism. The resort to oil of mustard was not a novelty, although this was the first time I had ever heard of its being used on a man by his own seconds. On a previous occasion in St Louis, some years ago, an athlete complained of being blinded with oil of mustard, but in this case a mere drop was placed on the punching surface of his opponent's left glove. He then walked out and jabbed him quickly on both eyes.

That, however, was an attack, whereas in Bombo Chevalier's case, sabotage seems to have been done. Similarly, small arms have been used for purposes of intimidation many times but again with this difference—that the sportsmen flaunting such weapons ordinarily used them to influence the other boxer, rather than their own.

The Chevalier affair, therefore, was unique and ingenious and it took a fine interpretation to decide that the conduct complained of was irregular.

Casts No Aspersion On Commission.

I have read that when Primo meets Godfrey in Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania Prize Fighting Commission will scrutinize the character and the conduct of all concerned with the utmost suspicion and caution. This is encouraging, but I wonder who will be in there keeping an eye on the Pennsylvania Prize Fighting Commission. Let it not be thought that I wish to cast doubt upon an official body of the government of a great State of this Union, but the fact remains that Mr. Frank Wiener, the chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, announced in a public address not long ago that prize fighting

JOHNSTON SUCCUMBS TO ATLANTAN BY 1 UP; VON ELM ALSO BOWS

British See U. S. Open Champion Conquer Amateur King.

Victories in Morning Will Bring Jones, Voigt Together.

By FRANK H. KING.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 29 (A.P.).—In a grim eighteen-hole all-American golf battle, between the open and amateur champions of the United States, Bobby Jones this afternoon succeeded in beating off a great rally by Jimmy Johnston to win at the last hole and remain in the hunt for the British amateur championship. Jones halved the home hole to win from Johnston, 1 up.

George Voigt, who, like Jones, won two matches today, is the only other Walker Cup player from the United States to enter the last eight of the 270 competitors who started the championship play Monday.

George Von Elm and Francis Ouimet were beaten in the morning's play, Von Elm in an upset which was one of the sensations of the day. The Hon. Michael Scott, 52-year-old player, member of a famous Northumberland golfing family, got ahead of the former American champion and was never caught, although the Detroiter chased him to the twentieth hole.

Ouimet Victim of Sturdier Foe.

Ouimet was a victim of a sturdier foe, Lister Hartley, who won another match in the afternoon and remains in the running.

Douglas Grant, another quarter-finalist, is a Californian, but he has lived long in London.

If Jones and Voigt win their morning matches tomorrow they will meet in the semifinals in the afternoon. Voigt today defeated William Campbell, 4 and 2, in the fifth round, and W. L. Hope, 2 up in the sixth. Jones' victories today were over G. O. Watt, 7 and 6, and Johnston.

Grant, too, scored two victories, the first over Kenneth Grieg and the second over Scott, conqueror of Von Elm, Grant and Scott are veterans and after their strenuous morning matches these two introduced a novel interval in the championship golf this afternoon. When their match was delayed by the surging gallery following Jones and Johnston, they stretched out on the grass near the seventh tee and went to sleep.

Gossip Centers on Jones' Bid for Coveted Title.

Golf gossip in St. Andrews tonight, and they talk of nothing else here, still centers, as it has all week, on Jones' chances of winning the title he covets most. He has had a tough fight so far and he faces more stiff opposition tomorrow. Eric Fiddian, boys' champion three years ago, is regarded as one of the best of the younger crop of British golfers.

If the open champion of America defeats the youngster, he has Voigt to face, and the New Yorker, with his execution run-up shots, so essential at St. Andrews, has won hosts of admirers among Scottish critics. His stock went up today when he defeated Hope, a great match player, after losing the first three holes. Voigt, however, was not dismayed at his temporary disadvantage and shot three birdies at his opponent in succession to even matters.

Jones played effortless golf this morning, but this afternoon, as was the case yesterday, he struggled for his figures particularly on the homeward route. When Jones went four up on Johnston with only five holes remaining, the gallery said: "Nobody can give Jones a four-hole lead and

Macks Defeat Red Sox; Mahaffey Wins Duel

Philadelphia, May 29 (A.P.).—Mahaffey, the Athletics' pitcher from Portland, Oreg., had the better of Milt Gaston in a twirling contest here today, pitching the Mackmen to a 2-to-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

A two-base error by Regan on Haas' grounder in the seventh inning paved the way for the winning run that was scored on Cochrane's two-base hit to right.

The only member of the Red Sox to pass second base on Mahaffey was Oliver, who singled in the sixth, advanced on an infield out, and scored on a double by Durst. Today's win was the Athletics' fourth straight and reduced the lead of the Nats to three games.

Robins Tie for Lead; Clark, Herman Star

Brooklyn, May 29 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins regained their tie with the St. Louis Cardinals for first place in the National League today by defeating their closest rivals, the New York Giants, 4 to 1. The Cardinal were among the six idle clubs in the circuit.

Babe Herman and William Watson Clark as a combination proved too much for the Giants. Herman hit two home runs, one off Carl Hubbell and the other off Joe Heving, who relieved Hubbell in the eighth inning, and batted in three of the Robin runs. Clark allowed the Giants only six hits, one at a time, and was deprived of a shutout only by Andy Reese's homer in the fifth.

38 Auto Drivers to Dare Death Today For $115,000 Prizes at Indianapolis

Lou Meyer, Favorite, Has 16-Cylinder Motor Primed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 (A.P.). Men who dare death that may come with the snapping of a cotter pin again drew attention of the world's sportsmen and sportswomen to the 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis.

As reckless, if not as skilful a band of drivers as ever donned helmet and goggles, will start in the eighteenth renewal of the international classic over the weather-beaten, bumpy brick course at 10 o'clock (central standard time) tomorrow morning.

Thirty-eight drivers—the largest field since the first 500-mile race in 1911—will face the starter, thinking not of the tragedies of other races, but of the $115,000 prize money and of the fame which goes to the winner.

Numerous elements have been injected into tomorrow's race which, in the opinion of officials, will make it the most thrilling and interesting of any held in years.

Riding Mechanic Back in Race.

The riding mechanic, who made drama in the early races and then was discarded, will be back, cramped into a narrow niche beside the driver in whose hands rests his safety. His share of the winnings, incidentally, will be between 5 and 10 per cent. But of that he cares little. He puts himself in the place of a student driver, who some day will be tooling his own mount.

Stock and near-stock cars will be back, their return to the hazardous sport being made possible by raising the piston displacement on motors from 91½ to a maximum of 330 cubic inches.

Superchargers—those delicate but powerful "blowers" which gave the cars speed in the sharp turns—have been outlawed, and the boys who set the pace will have to tramp hard on the accelerators and take a chance on the outcome.

Carburetion has to be better than ever before, the drivers have said, because only two carbureters are permitted to a motor regardless of the number of cylinders.

Tires, which caused little concern because of the light weight of the cars of the last few years, will be another cause for worry. Added weight to the speedsters, along with the necessity of pounding into the turns, will subject the rubber to great strain.

Sixteen-cylinder motors will be given their first trial in American racing.

Louie Meyer, Southgate, Calif., champion driver in 1928 and 1929, has such a power plant. It has 195 more moving parts than any car built in this country.

Bacconi Borzacchini, of Bologna, Italy, also will depend on sixteen cylinders. Along with Letterio Cuccinotta, Messina, Italy, he represents Europe in the international speedway struggle.

Cars of all kinds and descriptions will line up three abreast for the first lap tomorrow. Uniformity of other years has given way to the ingenuity of designers and engineers. Big cars, little ones, tall, long and short make up the field.

Four-Cylinder Motors Attempt Comeback.

Four-cylinder motors, which once ruled racing, will attempt a comeback after being discarded for many seasons. Nine drivers hope to prove that such type of motor is, if not quite so speedy, better in the long run than any other type. Two sixes also make their return. Eights, as in recent years, will dominate the field.

The front drive creation, which made its bow in 1925, will be well represented. Under the guidance of some of the best drivers in the race the front drives are being counted on by their builders finally to win a 100-mile race.

As to the drivers themselves, a few old-timers, some bearing scars and permanent limps from spills of other days, will be back meeting the challenges of youthful daredevils from the dirt tracks.

Louie Meyer, a youth for all his experience, is one of the favorites to go places and do things. The ever popular Peter de Paolo, 1925 and 1927 champion and holder of the 500-mile record of 101.13 miles an hour, also will be back. L. L. Corum, Louie Schneider, Lou Moore, Phil (Red) Shafer, Deacon Litz, Tony Gulotta and Jimmy Gleason are men long connected with major racing.

1,170 Entries Received For National Open Golf

New Yor' May 29 (A.P.).—A record-breaking entry of 1,170 players has been received for the 1930 American open golf championship by the United States Golf Association. They will compete June 16 in the 20 sectional qualifying tournaments. The 72-hole championship test will take place at the Interlachen Club, Minneapolis, July 10, 11, 12.

Because of the size of the enry, H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the U. S. G. A., announced it would take some time to separate the entries by district and allot the qualifying places. Approximately 160 will qualify altogether, the American players now abroad being exempt from the sectional tests, along with the first 30 finishers in the 1929 championship.

The largest previous entry was 1,064 in 1928. Last year 1,000 entries were filed.

The only foreign entry is Cyril Tolley, who was eliminated yesterday in the British amateur by Bobby Jones.

Major League Clubs Get 3 Texas U. Stars

Austin, Tex., May 29 (A.P.).—Three members of the University of Texas Baseball Team, champions of the Southwest Conference, have been signed by major league clubs.

Frank "Pinky" Higgins, of Dallas, captain and star second baseman, will report to the Philadelphia Athletics in two weeks. Not eligible to graduate this June, Higgins plans to finish his studies at the end of the baseball season.

Johnny Ralston, of Houston, southpaw pitcher, goes to the New York Yankees June 15. Bob Carr, of San Antonio, an outfielder, will join the St. Louis Cardinals June 8.

MARBERRY IS UNABLE TO HOLD EARLY LEAD; PIPGRAS IN COMMAND

Chapman's Double in Second Scores Two Who Walked.

Yanks Held to 5 Hits; Nats' Rally in 9th Ended by Rice.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, May 29.—Washington's second long winning streak of the season was snapped at seven games this afternoon by the Yankees when they defeated the fighting league leaders, 4 to 2. Manager Johnson used three of his pitchers and all were effective as far as the number of hits they allowed, but the Yankees managed to put all but one of their five blows to good use.

The Nats combed Pipgras for nine hits. As the Mackmen beat the Red Sox, the Nats' lead was reduced to three games.

Fred Marberry, who started, had allowed but two hits up to the time he was relieved following Combs' opening triple in the third, but the other was a two-base blow by Chapman which drove over a pair who had benefited by Fred's generosity with his passbook. Thomas granted but two hits in four frames, while the other Yankee safety was garnered off Bobby Burke's slants.

Pipgras Makes It 2 in Row.

George Pipgras, who held the only previous New York victory of the season over the Nationals, made it two in a row. He got away badly, but then settled down and the Nats never threatened seriously thereafter until the ninth.

With one out, Bluege hit a clean single and Tate a scratch one. Harley Boss, up for Burke, rolled to Gehrig, advancing both runners and putting it up to West. After giving the Yanks a scare by driving one into the right field stands which was foul by a small margin, he fanned, but the pitch was high and went past Hargrave, letting Bluege score, Tate taking third and West reaching first safely. Rice, however, could do no better than pop to Lary.

The Nationals started off well, taking a one-run lead, when three of the first four batters up in the first—West, Rice and Goslin—came through with singles. Pipgras suddenly put on the brakes, however, and when half of the game was over he was coasting along and enjoying a two-run lead. He granted but three hits in the next four frames, two of these, Marberry's double in the second and Goslin's single in the fifth, coming with two out.

Marberry Free With Passes.

Meanwhile Marberry was stingy with his hits, but free with his passes. An opening walk to Combs did Fred no harm, but he issued two in the second and Chapman doubled both runners home, giving the Yankees the lead. When Combs opened the next round with a triple to right center, Thomas was called into action. He walked Lary, first to face him, but could not prevent the natives from scoring, the runner crossing the plate while Cronin and Judge were turning in a double play.

Thomas then pitched hitless ball until, with one gone in the sixth, Ruth doubled to center. After Lazzeri had grounded out, Gehrig was intentionally passed. This strategy did not work out so well, for Hargrave, next up, singled Ruth home.

There were no further threats until the Yanks' eighth, when Lary's single, a walk and another intentional pass to Gehrig after one was out, filled the bases. This time, things worked out nicely, for Cronin, Myer and Judge turned Hargrave's tap into a double play.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, May 29.—Manager Johnson and his charges hustled away for Philadelphia immediately after today's game, being scheduled to arrive in the Quaker City early enough tonight to take in a movie.

Many Washingtonians have wired Secretary Ed Eynon to make reservations for them at both games of tomorrow's holiday bill, a number planning to get an early start and to motor to Philly from Washington.

West opened the game today by poking the first ball pitched to center for a single. Rice followed by meeting Pipgras' second pitch for a single, with the hit-and-run on, which propelled West to third. Goslin took a strike and then singled on the Yankee pitcher's fourth delivery, scoring West. Three hits and a run on four pitched balls is pretty close to par figures.

On Marberry's double in the second, Lou Gehrig chased all the way to the stands in deep right to run down the ball while Ruth stood calmly by and watched him.

Marberry's wildness got him in trouble in the home second. After walking two between outs, he had to groove one to Chapman, with the count three and two, and the Yankee third-sacker doubled home both runs.

Catcher Hargrave had an extended argument with Umpire Guthrie as to the number of strikes on Sam Rice opening the third round. The receiver insisted that Sam's second strike was his third one, but he got nowhere in the argument. Rice then singled.

Later in this frame, Lazzeri tried to throw the ball on Judge's grounder before he picked it up. He now knows that this is one of the things which can't be done. Instead of a possible

Tilden Beats British Youth In Thrilling 4-Set Battle

By THOMAS T. TOPPING.

AUTEUIL, France, May 29 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden scored a bitterly contested victory over G. P. Hughes, one of England's rising young tennis stars, today, at 6—1, 3—10, 7—5, 6—3, and stood out as the lone American still in the running as the chase for the Frenchmen's single title narrowed to the quarter-final round.

Wilbur F. Coen, Tilden's youthful protege and eighth ranking player of the United States, fell before the veteran Italian Davis Cup star, Baron Humbert de Morpurgo, in a fourth round match decided by scores of 6—3, 6—4, 6—1, leaving Big Bill to carry the load alone.

In the women's singles, division three Americans still remained in the race at the same stage of proceedings as Elizabeth Ryan came through with a 6—1, 6—2 victory over Yvett Barbier of France, to join her fellow-Californians, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, among the last eight survivors.

Tilden to Oppose Rogers Next.

The men's quarter-finals pit Tilden against Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish giant; Jean Borotra, France, vs. J. Colin Gregory, England; E. F. Moon, Australia, vs. De Morpurgo; and Henri Cochet, France, against Harry Hopman, Australia.

Gregory reached the quarter-finals by turning the tables on Dr. Daniel Prenn of Germany, his conqueror in the recent England-Germany Davis Cup tie. The sturdy Gregory won in a hard-fourth five set match, 1—6, 6—0, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

In another epic struggle, Borotra nosed out Yoshiro Ohta, of Japan, 5—7, 3—6, 6—4, 6—1, 9—7.

Mrs. Moody next encounters Helena Rost, of Germany, while Miss Ryan is arrayed against another German, Fraulein Cecilie Aussem; Miss Jacobs vs. Mrs. Phoebe Watson, of England, finalist for the American championship last year, and Elia de Alvarez, of Spain, vs. Mme. Simone Mathieu, of France.

Tilden caught a tartar in the young Englishman, Hughes, who after a shaky first set owing to nervousness, kept the American champion on the defensive throughout the second set and much of the third. England's third ranking player led, 3—0, in the fourth set, when Tilden unleashed a furious attack, running out six straight games for the match.

Miss Ryan Wins Easily.

Miss Ryan had not the slightest difficulty in disposing of Mlle. Barbier. Unfortunately, she must meet Mrs. Moody in the semifinals, providing both win their matches tomorrow.

Coen failed to show to advantage against the Italian nobleman, De Morpurgo. He played right into the Italian's hands by attempting to swap drives with him instead of mixing up his game.

Ohta held set point seven games against Borotra, but could not punch the winning shot across. The match lasted 2 hours and 57 minutes and the bounding Basque was so groggy in the last set he seemed on the verge of collapse. By furious spurts in which he played on nerve alone he regained the offensive and finally snatched the match away from the Japanese after having twice halted play for rundowns.

Borotra's victory preserved the French record of having at least two men in the quarterfinals of this tournament every year since the war.

Macks Face Hadley, Liska In Today's Double-Header

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, May 29.—With the Nationals having successfully passed the first half of this week's big test by winning the series with the New York Yankees they are now looking forward to giving a dose of the same medicine to the champion Athletics, who will be met in morning and afternoon Decoration Day games in Shibe Park tomorrow.

In the hope of getting off on the right foot, Manager Walter Johnson has saved Irving Hadley and Adolph Liska to do the Washington hurling. This pair defeated the Mackmen in a double-header in the Quaker City on May 16, with Liska hurling a three-hit shut-out, and both flingers are confident that they can repeat. Acting Manager Eddie Collins is almost sure to call on "Lefty" Robert Moses Grove in one game, with Rube Walberg probably performing on the hill for him in the other.

Nats Confident of Winning Series.

This series should prove to be a battle from start to finish. The Mackmen are almost redheaded at having dropped seven of nine games this season to a team which could win but four during the entire 1929 stretch, while the recent successes of the Johnsons make them confident—but not too much so—that they are the Athletics' masters, and there seems to be no doubt in their minds but that they will take at least three of the four games listed.

Three of these contests will be staged in Philadelphia, with the Nationals and Mackmen meeting in Griffith Stadium Sunday in the Nats' final home game before their first invasion of the West. With good weather, indications are that more than 20,000 will be on hand on the Sabbath to welcome the Nats back from their present short jaunt, especially with the world's champions furnishing the opposition.

Moore Due to Get Release Soon.

Although the Birmingham Club has extended the Nationals' final option date on Pitcher Carlos Moore from June 1 to June 15, indications are that this merely gives the big right-hander a little longer life as a major leaguer. Although neither President Griffith nor Manager Johnson will discuss the subject, both saying: "Why bring that up?" it stands to reason that, with the moundmen performing as they now are, Moore will not be needed, and, in fact, he probably will not even get another chance to show his wares even with this extension of time.

It is understood that the Nationals and Barons have agreed to continue their working agreement of past years, which means that Moore can be obtained next season, and, in view of this fact, it would seem better for all concerned were the rookie returned where he would be used regularly. Sitting on the Washington bench would do him no good. In fact, it may be because he has been called upon so seldom that he has not shown the speed that he was reputed have had last year.

SCHMELING SAYS PLANNING FOR FIGHT IS USELESS

Battle Alone Will Shape Tactics

Max Asserts Planning Before Fight Makes Boxer Nervous.

Must Be Ready for Any Style Adopted by Sharkey.

By MAX SCHMELING
(As told to Jimmy Powers).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 29.—I am asked by every friend and fighter who comes to my camp—what is the plan of battle? I tell them I have no plan of battle against Sharkey, because to worry and fret out a plan of battle only makes a fighter nervous. I told Benny Leonard and Paul Swiderski the other afternoon, when we were all sitting on the porch of my cottage with newspapermen, that I had no plan of battle and they laughed at me.

"Don't give us that stuff," said Benny. "Don't try to tell me, because I am a fighter and I know. A fighter lies awake nights in his bed. He tugs at the blankets and he rolls his head on the pillow and he thinks of his coming fight. He sees himself in the ring and he wonders what he'll do if his opponent leads a lot of lefts. He wonders what he'll do if his opponent tries to slug with him. Shall he fight his man? Shall he box him?

Visualizes Himself Knocked Down.

"What if he's knocked down? He visualizes himself lying on the floor and the referee counting over him. Will he talk to the referee and motion him to get the other fellow back into another corner so he, the fallen fighter, can steal a few seconds of the count? What will he do if he can't get up? How long will he stay down? If his eye gets cut, can he fight with one eye? What if his nose gets broken? Can he fight when he can hardly breathe?"

A thousand things do flash through a fighter's mind, and he is always thinking of his coming fight and preparing for it, but he should not encourage too much worry about it. That only saps his strength. He shouldn't try to pitch and toss on his pillow at night. I know it is hard not to think of the fight sometimes, but when I go to bed to sleep I want to get all that is coming to me.

Fought Paulino at Own Game.

It is interesting to get inside a fighter's mind sometimes—you'd be surprised what he is thinking of. I question too much faith in a plan of battle. When I fought Paulino Uzcudun I did not practice going down to the floor and meeting him at his own games in a crouch. When I got in that ring then I suddenly decided to bend when he bent, slug when he slugged and box when he boxed, always crowding him. I made my plan of battle as I went along.

Supposing I should plan very carefully to checkmate all of Jack Sharkey's moves and perfect a defense for his left and perfect another defense for some more of his familiar ring tactics, and then supposing I memorized all this, and the night of the fight I stepped between the ropes and there was Sharkey with a brand-new attack. I would be flabbergasted and thrown off my stride, and that, my friends, is very very dangerous.

I must look for anything, prepare for anything and try to keep cool. That's the only way to win fights, not with blueprints. Punches, my friends, accurate, hard punches, is it not so?

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUGAR KISS, $8.90, $5.14, $4.70; SUN PORTER, $6.06, $7.02; OLD NAN, $20.58.

SUGAR KISS, away well and displaying good speed, moved up in stretch and, continuing determinedly while boring in, just lasted. SUN PORTER was taken into a good lead right after start, but was kept in close racing quarters all the last furlong when winner bore in and might have won, but for this interference. Ambrose's claim of foul was not allowed. OLD NAN moved up gamely rounding into main stretch, but could not threaten leaders. FAIR MANNA, never far back and saving ground on the rail, closed resolutely. TRANSGRESSION had no excuses, racing well up all the way. ELNORA was practically left at the start, but improved her position throughout.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:08½. Off at 3:09. Winner, Harry Frank and Corcoran's ch. g. (5), by Sir Martin—Harridan. Trained by A. Pellottier. Value to winner, $900; second, $227; third, $118. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49, 1:14, 1:40 1-5, 1:46 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUR MASH, $9.12, $5.20, $4.64; SOUTHLAND BOY, $5.72, $3.92; PERCENTAGE, $3.38.

SOUR MASH, never far back and racing under steadying restraint, moved up gradually on the turn and, racing PERCENTAGE into defeat, held on determinedly to outgame SOUTHLAND BOY. Latter, also under restraint first part of it, but forced slightly wide when moving on far turn, responded when called upon and was gradually getting to winner at the finish. PERCENTAGE raced on outside of QUEEN CLARA first five furlongs and, tiring when SOUR MASH came over sharply midway of stretch, came again and held the others safe. VACATION raced evenly and closed resolutely.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. The Owensboro. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:41. Winner, R. Goose's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VOLDOSTA, $10.20, $5.24, $3.76; QUIVER, $5.90, $5.32; PEACE BOY, $8.48.

VALDOSTA raced as if best, was held under stout restraint until the last quarter, raced around leaders when set down in stretch and, taking command a sixteenth out, drew clear easily. QUIVER suffered from lack of racing room to the far turn, moved up steadily and, closing gamely, outstayed PEACE BOY. Latter began sluggishly and outrun most of the way, came between the leaders through stretch and was going strong near the end. ANTE BELLUM held his field safe for speed to the final drive, but then tired badly.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,700; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:08. Off at 4:08½. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. m. (3), by The Porter—Margaret Orden. Trained by J. F. Schorr. Value to winner, $1,300; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 1-5, 1:13, 1:38 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVERDALE, $4.10, $2.64, out; PLAY TIME, $5.16, out; PLUMBAGO, out.

SILVERDALE assumed the lead soon after the break, opened up a commanding lead and responding well when shaken up at head of stretch, won with something in reserve. PLAY TIME followed the winner under steadying restraint, shook off PLUMBAGO when hard urged midway of stretch and, though continuing gamely, could not threaten leader. PLUMBAGO moved up quickly on inside on stretch turn, closed ground last three furlongs and held on well in the drive. CHARIOT tired after reaching the stretch turn. ROYAL JULIAN, outrun early part, failed to respond to hard urging through the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Jonquil. For 2-year-olds, fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:36. Off at 4:42. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RUNNING GIRL, $4.42, $2.96, $2.66; PLUMAGE, $4.18, $4.20; FAIR MISSIE, $5.52.

RUNNING GIRL, away well, easily disposed of FAIR MISSIE after three furlongs and, drawing out through stretch, won as rider pleased. PLUMAGE was forced wide while improving position, made a determined bid at winner when straightened in stretch, but was unable to get up. FAIR MISSIE, a factor on wide outside on first turn, where she weakened slightly, but held on to hold REGAL LADY safe in drive. Latter had an advantage at the stretch, was outrun thereafter, but closed a good gap through stretch run. PURPLE LADY, very fractious at gate, could never improve position and was tiring at end.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies, mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:09. Off at 5:12. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NANCY SETH, $12.02, $7.06, $5.30; LADY WITT, $9.74, $8.60; POMPON, $3.72.

NANCY SETH worked way up fast on far turn, came to the outside of LADY WITT and, getting on even terms a sixteenth out, outlasted the latter in a hard drive. LADY WITT was taken to the lead on first turn, shook off repeated challenges on back stretch and, continuing gamely through home stretch, finished a close second. POMPON improved position steadily, but with a loss of ground, came with a good burst of speed last furlong and was going strong at the finish. SOUTHLAND BELLE, well out in stretch and racing courageously after reaching far turn, loomed up dangerously when straightened in stretch, but weakened badly in final drive. LADY CLARENCE stopped badly after racing prominently entire trip.

FAVORITES CLASH TODAY IN CITY TENNIS TOURNEY

Seeded Stars Win in All Matches

Stam Alone Pressed to Survive in Men's Singles Play.

Day's Only Upset Is Defeat of Burwell and Callan.

FAVORITES are bound to fall today in the City of Washington tennis championships on Rock Creek courts, Sixteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. They're certain to fall for the simple reason that all eight of them—seeded stars, as they are called—will play in the quarter-finals of the singles division. Action will commence at 11 a. m.

Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 1, will engage Frank Shore, No. 8; Tom Mangan, No. 2, the defending champion, will meet Colin Stam, No. 6; Bob Considine, No. 3, will oppose Maurice O'Neill, No. 5, and Deane Judd, No. 4, will play Alan Staubley No. 7.

While interest is centered on the outcome of these matches, a program calculated to attract observers all and sundry in local netdom has been ordered. There will be men's doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles matches in the card, which marks the busiest day of the season here in tennis.

Women's Semifinals
At 10 o'Clock.

At 10 a. m. the semifinals of the women's singles will be fought out between Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker in one match and Josephine Dunham and Margaret Graham in the other. From that hour until well after sunset action of some sort will be continuous.

Vindicating the judgment of the ranking committee, seeded players in men's singles continued their triumphant march yesterday. Only one was hard pressed, Colin Stam meeting a determined opponent in Doug Love. Stam pulled out a victory by scores of 6—3, 6—4. Judd defeated William Buchanan, 6—2, 6—1; Staubley conquered S. Utak Dam, 6—3, 6—2, and Considine disposed of John Purinton, 6—0, 6—2. Mitchell, Mangan, O'Neill and Shore won their fourth-round matches on Wednesday.

The lone upset noted was the doubles victory of the Latona-Heiskell team over Burwell and Callan in the men's division. The scores were 6—4, 6—2. The winners will be faced today by Newby and Staubley in a third-round match.

Yesterday's results and today's schedule follow:

MEN'S SINGLES.

FOURTH ROUND—Colin Stam defeated Douglas Love, 6—3, 6—4; Deane Judd defeated William Buchanan, 6—2, 6—1; Alan Staubley defeated S. Utak Dan, 6—3, 6—2; Bob Considine defeated John Purinton 6—0, 6—2.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

SECOND ROUND—Judd and Thomas defeated Taylor and Geiseking, 1—6, 8—6, 8—6; Latona and Heiskell defeated Burwell and Callan, 6—4, 6—2.

THIRD ROUND—Mitchell and Buchanan defeated Deck and Haney, 6—1, 6—3; Grant and Krause defeated Pierce and Moncure, 2—6, 6—6—2.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

FIRST ROUND—Graham and Chickering defeated McElvey and Whitfield, 6—1, 6—3; Laudick and DeSouza defeated Bouve and Standley by default; Thompson and Crift defeated Carbalo and Villalon, 7—5, 6—1; Gerber and Morris defeated Burke and Pinetti, 1—6, 6—4, 6—4.

JOHNSTON BEATEN BY JONES, ONE UP

have a chance to win," but Jimmy gave Bobby the battle of his life and brought the match all the way home.

Johnston's birdie at the seventeenth when Jones was dormie represented a bold play at one of the most dangerous holes. The gallery following the battle of American champions was only a bit smaller than the great crowd following the other duel of title holders yesterday, when Jones and Tolley fought.

Bobby took an early lead by winning the second hole, but the next five were halved in fours before Jimmy yielded another inch. A three at the short eighth gave the open champion a lead of two, but the American title holder won the ninth, to give Jones a 1 up advantage at the turn.

Jones won three of the first four holes of the second nine to go 4 up, and it seemed that it was all over but the shouting. It developed, however, that Johnston had only begun to fight.

A birdie at the fourteenth reduced Bobby's lead to three, and when Jones took a bad six at the fifteenth Johnston was only two behind. After a half at the sixteenth, Johnston made his sensational birdie at the seventeenth, to cut Bobby's lead to one with one left to play. The home hole was halved, ending the match. Bobby had to make his very last shot good, for he had a difficult putt for his par at the home hole.

Fighting Qualities Shown by Voigt.

In Voigt's victory he again displayed his fighting qualities to British golfers. Early in the match a battle of birdies developed. Hope made it three in a row with a birdie at the third hole and Voigt came right back with three birdies in a row to square the match.

Voigt was trapped at the eighth and hope found a bunker at the ninth, although the British player was able to halve the hole and turn one up.

Voigt squared the match at the thirteenth, Hope hooked his drive into rough and the New Yorker won with a five. Another five was good enough to win the fourteenth, where Hope drove out of bounds and needed seven. Voigt here took the lead for the first time.

After the next three holes were halved, Hope contributed one of the oddest incidents of the championship He sliced his tee shot up "Granny Clark's lane," a narrow alley between a row of houses to the right of the eighteenth fairway. Hope had to go after the ball and play it back on the fairway, losing the hole and the match when Voigt scored a par four.

BAKER BEATS M'LEAN IN 3 SETS

Advances in Tourney at Chevy Chase by 6-4, 5-7, 6-4.

SUPERIOR driving combined with a speedier service enabled Lawrence Baker to eliminate Jock McLean, District boys' champion, in the annual Chevy Chase Club championship tennis tournament, yesterday. The winner was forced to three sets by the youthful opponent. The scores were 6—4, 6—7, 6—4.

The match was especially hard fought throughout, McLean giving a surprising demonstration. The little ace of District boy racketers showed a vast improvement over his 1929 form.

In the decisive third set Baker broke McLean's service in the third game to take the lead, 2—1, and then widened this advantage by coming through on his own delivery. Games went with service thereafter. Baker suffered a case of leg cramps in the ninth game, but managed to finish out the string with a two-minute rest.

Garnett Eliminates Carlisle.

G. T. Garnett defeated J. M. Carlisle in the other men's match.

In the women's division Mrs. Nathan Wyeth eliminated Isabel Southgate, 6—0, 6—0, after Miss Southgate had downed Mrs. L. Borden, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3. Mrs. E. K. Morris defeated Elinor Wells, 6—2, 6—3, and Dorothy Coggeshall triumphed over Harriet Whitford, 6—3, 2—6, 6—0.

The results:

MEN'S DOUBLES.

SECOND ROUND—Lawrence Baker defeated Jock McLean, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4.

THIRD ROUND—G. T. Garnett defeated J. M. Carlisle, 6—2, 6—4.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

FIRST ROUND—Isabel Southgate defeated Mrs. L. Borden, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3.

SECOND ROUND—Mrs. Nathan Wyeth defeated Isabel Southgate, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. E. K. Morris defeated Elinor Wells, 6—2, 6—3; Dorothy Coggshall defeated Harriet Whitford, 6—3, 2—6, 6—0.

Hecht Vice Presidents In Annual Golf Tourney

The annual golf tournament for the vice presidents of the Hecht Co. stores in Washington, Baltimore and New York will be held next Thursday at the Woodholme Country Club at Pikesville, Md. Competition will be for the "President's Cup," presented by Mr. M. S. Hecht, which may be permanently gained by the player to win three of the annual tourneys.

The event will be a handicap affair, with the following officials of the Hecht Co. participating: Moses H. Goodman, Col. Malcolm Hecht, Henry Hecht, Robert Hecht, Howard Hecht, Harold H. Levi, C. Benjamin Dulcan and J. Jefferson Miller.

MIDGET TEAMS PLAY.

The Central and Lionel Midget nines are carded to battle today at 1 o'clock on the South Ellipse diamond. All Lionel players are asked to report at 12:30 o'clock.

RUTGERS SOUTHPAW ON TRIAL WITH NATS

rah boys he was credited with five victories as against two defeats. He showed plenty of speed and a fair curve. Garrett's claim to fame is a one-hit shutout victory over Lehigh a few weeks ago.

Nick Altrock and Al Schacht did not feel in a particularly comical mood at today's game. When they woke up this morning, they discovered that an uninvited visitor had called during the night and relieved them of all "cash on hand." The mere effort of turning the key would have saved Schacht $60 and Altrock $30 and both have decided to perform this arduous task hereafter.

Since being used regularly Catcher Roy Spencer has been coming along at a fast clip and Manager Johnson suddenly has discovered that the erstwhile holdout, whom he did not rate particularly high last season, is a first-class performer, not only behind the bat, but at the plate, for Roy has come through with several timely hits in recent games, getting two singles in one inning in the Tuesday fracas.

With no work scheduled yesterday, Pitcher Carlos Moore and Infielder Jimmy McLeod decided to see a few things in the "big town," this being their first visit to New York. They seemed to get their biggest kick out of a long "sight-seeing" trip on the subway.

MEET LOOMS AS 2-TEAM BATTLE

S. California, Trojans Overshadow College Outdoor Teams.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 29 (A.P.).—Though the cream of 34 college track teams has entered, this year's I. C. A. A. A. championship meet, which gets under way tomorrow at Harvard Stadium, appears due to result in a two-day duel between Southern California and Stanford for title honors.

Dean Cromwell's Trojans appeared to have a slight edge on the field tonight, but his brilliant performers have to make but a few slips to pave the way for Stanford's fourth consecutive victory.

Stanford, with a sure 18 points in the shot and discus events, has many other potential point winners entered in other events and if some of the Eastern stars, especially the high jumpers and low, are strong enough to take points away from Southern California, the Cardinals will finish on top of the long collegiate list with a few points to spare.

Five Defending Champions.

Five defending champions will be seen in action, but only two of them Harlow Rothert and Eric Krenz, both from Stanford, appear to have bright prospects. Rothert and Krenz, holders of the I. C. A. A. A. discus and shot put records, seem certain to improve the marks they made for the book.

The other 1929 champions back are Joe Hickey, New York University miler; Syd Kieselhorst, Yale track captain and low hurdler, and Ben Hedges, Princeton high jumper.

Trials in eleven of the fifteen championship events will be put on tomorrow. These include the two sprints, both hurdle races, all of the weight events, the javelin throw and the quarter and half-mile race.

Only 4 Georgetown Athletes Entered.

Georgetown University will have its smallest representation in years at the I. C. 4-A track and field carnival. Only four athletes and Coach John D. O'Reilly composed the Blue and Gray squad that departed for the scene last night.

Artie Briggs, ordinarily a quarter-miler, will take the place of the injured Karl Wildermuth in the sprints, the 100 and 220. Vic Burke will compete in the 440, while Jim Kelly will run in the 880 and the mile. Leo Sexton, indoor intercollegiate shot-put champion will take part in the shotput and the high jump.

Georgetown had five men in the meet a year ago at Philadelphia and took ninth place in the team scoring. Wildermuth won the 100-yard dash championship.

200 ENTRIES IN CLERKS' TOURNEY

Inter-Departmental Golf Opens Monday at Indian Spring.

WITH the largest entry list in its history, numbering over 200 names, the Interdepartmental Golf League, composed of employes in the various departments and bureaus, will hold its fourth annual tournament next Monday and Tuesday on the course of the Indian Spring Club.

The field will be divided, one-half playing 36 holes on Monday and the remainder playing the same number of holes on Tuesday.

The principal competition will be between teams of four men each, in three classes, and winning team in Class A to hold the Mellon trophy during the ensuing year. Trophies will also be won by teams in Class B and Class C, while there will be numerous prizes for individual low gross and low net scores.

Prominent Officials Listed.

In the list of entrants are the names of many prominent Government officials, including Assistant Secretary Walter E. Hope, of the Treasury; Solicitor General Thacker, Assistant Attorneys General Richardson, Youngquist and Chase, and others. Maj. E. L. Hufty and Bones Winners.

Page Hufty and Thomas P. Bones, jr., yesterday afternoon defeated C. B. Murphy and H. Parker Nolan in a challenge golf match on the course of the Congressional Country Club, 5 and 4. A feature of the match was the remarkable best ball of the winning pair, 35 out and 30 in, for a total of 65 strokes. This best ball card was as follows:

Out—6 4 3 4 5 4 4 3 3—35
In—6 2 4 2 3 4 3 3 3—30—65

Herman Clouts Ball Over Fence With One Hand, Redeeming Glory

NEW YORK, May 28 (N.Y.W.N.S.).
One day jeers.
The next day cheers.

So it goes with gallant Babe Herman, outfielder of the Robins. Almost broken hearted because he struck out in the midst of a ninth-inning rally against the Giants on Tuesday, he belted two home runs today to give the Robins a 4-to-1 victory over the same team.

In the sixth inning the Babe came to the plate with the score tied and Frederick on base. Hubbell threw a high curve on

SPECIALTIES' CLIMB FEATURES IN STOCKS

With Exception of Carriers, Market's General Tone Proves Steady.

MONEY AT 3 PER CENT

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—The stock market shut up shop for the week-end today after worrying through a typically dull pre-holiday session. Buying of the merchandising, food and specialty shares enlivened the late proceedings and brought out some of the largest net gains of the week, but the tone of the general list, with the exception of the rails, was only firm.

The price indices for 90 stocks showed an advance of slightly more than 2 points for the short trading week. Utilities fared well, making a gain of nearly 6 points, while the rails, steadily liquidated on the April earnings reports, lost more than a point and are now near their 1930 low.

News of either a constructive or an unfavorable tenor was lacking and traders declined to take much of a stand with a three-day vacation ahead of them. The move in the favorites embraced perhaps a score of stocks, which rallied 2 to 9 points under the leadership of Worthington Pump, up 9⅛ to a new high; Air Reduction, Ingersoll Rand, Vanadium Steel, Columbian Carbon and such merchandising shares as R. H. Macy, Sears-Roebuck, Safeway Stores, Real Silk Hosiery, Hahn Department Stores preferred, Gimbel Bros. preferred and United Cigar Stores preferred, the last two going to new highs for the year. National Dairy, Borden, National Biscuit and Procter & Gamble also made fresh 1930 records.

Brokers Loans Up $7,000,000.

The brokers' loan figures, showing a gain of $7,000,000 to a total of $4,022,000,000 compared with $5,288,000,000 a year ago, showed an increase of $122,000,000 in loans for New York City member banks own account, but a contraction in the amounts for out-of-town banks and for the account of others, indicating a withdrawal of funds by the interior banks presumably because of the low interest rates prevailing here.

The average rate on call money during May was 3.11 per cent, the smallest since November, 1924. Minus the brokerage charge, 3 per cent money means a net return to lenders of only 2½ per cent, which is 2 per cent less than can be obtained at present from prime bonds. Interest rates elsewhere are still generally higher than in New York, where funds now constitute the proverbial drug on the market.

An expansion in outstanding Federal Reserve credit, contrasting with the per cent declines, was noted in the weekly statements of the banks, total bill and security holdings of the system rose about $27,000,000, virtually all of which was at the local bank. Discounts for the system increased nearly $37,000,000 and for the New York bank $23,000,000. Holdings of United States Government securities rose nominally. There was a gain of $13,000,000 in Federal Reserve note circulation for the twelve banks.

Weather Hurts Business.

The weekly business reviews called attention to the unfavorable effect of unseasonable weather over a large area on trade during the holiday week and found that repression of business activities had been the rule.

"The state of inertia and of indecision," said Dun's, "although less pronounced in some instances, extends to many branches of enterprise, while financial movements reflect similar characteristics." Bradstreet's said that the weather had been a drawback to trade and to some crops.

Grain prices were slightly irregular, but little changed on the day. Wheat was an eighth of a cent higher to 1¼ cents lower on large contract deliveries and beneficial rains in Canada. Corn closed in almost the same range, influenced by various Iowa State reports and by liquidation of May.

Bar silver again went to a new record low, carrying Far Eastern exchanges down. Other exchanges showed slight changes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 29 (A.P.).—End-of-the-month deliveries of wheat on a big scale proved to be a decided handicap today for friends of higher prices. The market at times made strong rallies on account of bullish crop reports both domestic and foreign, but the gains failed to hold well. Today's deliveries on Chicago May wheat contracts aggregated 1,627,000 bushels, with further large deliveries looked for on Saturday.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from ⅞ cent a bushel setback to ¼ cent gain, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛@¼ cent off to ¾ cent up. Oats unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Despite the size of today's deliveries on May wheat contracts here and notwithstanding more or less uncertainty about the final result of May dealings, the disturbing character of much of the crop news current served to keep the market two-sided. In addition, extensive spreading operations between Chicago and Liverpool appeared to be in progress, and had a further unsettling effect, largely as a consequence, lowest prices of the day here were reached toward the finish, as well as during the early dealings, with transient upturns as an interlude.

Giving considerable momentum at times to wheat price rallies were reports that domestic wheat prospects West and Southwest are becoming worse as harvest time draws near. Complaints that wheat shows a thin stand were especially mentioned as applying to sections all the way from Nebraska to Texas inclusive. Besides root rot was reported as widely prevalent in Oklahoma and Texas, and there were advices also that winter wheat at many places in Illinois and Indiana is going backward. Talk was likewise heard about rust danger in France and of Hessian fly spreading in Nebraska. On the other hand, export demand for North American wheat was temporarily at almost a standstill.

In the corn market, irregularity resulted from liquidating sales on the part of holders of May contracts and from frost predictions for tonight over part of the corn belt. Oats were unsettled by the action of other grain, but kept within a narrow range of prices.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

INDUSTRIAL BONDS RISE IN QUIET DAY

Utilities and Higher Grade Rails Stagnate; Few Carriers Gain.

FOREIGN GROUP STEADY

New York, May 29 (A.P.).—Quietness continued to rule the bond market today. Inquiry was dull on the eve of the holiday and few important changes appeared in the investment list. There was a slight appreciation in the demand for industrials, but the high grade rails and utilities stagnated. Time money rates showed no change.

There were a few exceptions to the slowness of the rails. Chicago Great Western 4s advanced 1¼ in a substantial turnover and the St. Paul Adjustment Income 5s, which were in low ground earlier in the week, extended their more recent improvement by about half a point. Missouri Pacific 5s and Wabash 5½s made a similar gain. On the other hand, Long Island Railroad 4s sank 2¾ to a new minimum for the year at 88½.

Industrial issues attracting attention included Container Corporation 5s, up more than 2 points; General Steel Castings 5½s, Inland Steel 4½s, International Match 5s, International Paper 6s, Murray Body 6s, Walworth 6s and Western Electric 5s. Gains, however, were mostly fractional.

American & Foreign Power 5s, traded on the New York Stock Exchange for the first time, ranged between 88 and 88½. The American Telephone Series was firm, but elsewhere there was little activity in the utilities. New York Tractions Bonds advanced on fair volume.

Convertibles shared in the dullness. Both the telephone issues in this description moved up a point. General Theaters 6s, 1944 maturity, advanced 1¾, while Loews 6s were firm and Warner Brothers Pictures eased.

The foreign list held steady. Japan 5½s were active at slightly lower levels. Batavian Petroleum 4½s and Colombia 6s (January) improved about a point each. Finland 6½s lost half a point. Obligations of the leading European governments were firm.

Liberties and Treasuries scarcely appeared on the tape, and price fluctuations in the new issues traded were inconsequential.

A banking group headed by Halsey Stuart & Co. was awarded a $15,750,000 issue of Canadian National Railways 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates.

EARLY BANK CLOSING ACTION POSTPONED

Group Says Nothing Will Be Done on Matter Prior to June 7.

PLAN POPULAR IN EAST

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Action on earlier closing of the city's banks for daily public business has been postponed indefinitely it was learned yesterday. The report of a special committee, whose membership was not divulged and whose duty it was to prepare a tentative plan for the movement, was under consideration of the executive council of the District of Columbia Bankers Association yesterday at its final meeting of the present administrative year.

It was announced following the meeting that the special committee would continue with its mission; that its report was not final; that the idea was still under consideration of the association, but that no action might be expected relative to the matter this administrative year, which ends June 7. Unofficially, the measure is believed in various quarters to have met the fate of a similar movement three years ago, temporary abandonment through minority opposition.

Plan Is Widely Used.

The question of earlier closing was resubmitted to representatives of member banks April 21. At that time, advocates of the measure called attention to the fact that 2 o'clock in the afternoon closing was in effect, from a year-round or seasonal standpoint, in approximately 90 per cent of the banks in cities of the Eastern United States. They explained adoption of the plan here would result in easier conditions for both officials and employes, as it permitted an earlier disposal of regular daily private business which must be transacted following closing of institutions to the public.

At this meeting, the special committee was instructed to draft tentative plans for submission to member banks. These plans were never made public and while no hour or period for earlier closing was decided upon, it was understood that 2 o'clock in the afternoon was the hour contemplated and that the plan, if approved, would first be applied to the summer months. As the business hours of some of the outlying banks differed considerably from those in the downtown section, due allowances were to have been made for this in the plan.

Banks Now Close at 3 o'Clock.

One suggestion made with reference to Federal pay days' business was that banks which now remain open until 5 or 5:30 o'clock twice a month for this, could, under earlier closing, reopen to receive it at 4 o'clock and 4:30. Most local banks now close for regular public business at 3 o'clock on all days except Saturday and then at noon.

New car barns of the Lynchburg Traction & Light Co., costing approximately $125,000, will be completed ready for operation probably within 30 days, W. B. Brady, vice president of Central Public Service Corporation, parent company, announced yesterday.

The new barns at Lynchburg, Va., are part of the $900,000 expenditure being made in the transportation division of Central Public Service, according to Mr. Brady. The buildings, of reinforced concrete and brick, will accommodate 50 cars, including 20 new cars which were recently placed in Lynchburg, Mr. Brady said.

Vegetables Here Decline in Prices

Berries Firm as Potatoes, Cabbage and Tomatoes Drop Materially.

Material declines were reported in prices of many of the more important lines of fruits and vegetables toward the first of June yesterday by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Included on this list of lower-priced vegetables were tomatoes, cabbage, potatoes and cucumbers. Cantaloupes were also lower, but berry prices held firm. First shipments of peaches were reported during the third week of May and toward the end of the month the Florida watermelon movement was becoming active.

Recent rains improved the condition of potatoes and truck crops in a number of important shipping areas, particularly in the East. The growing potato crop on the Eastern Shore of Virginia and Maryland benefited to the extent that growers were encouraged about the prospects for their plantings. First cars of potatoes from Northampton County, Va., were expected to appear about June 10.

Strawberry production in the late group of States is indicated in a recent report about 3 per cent less than in 1929, due to a reduction in acreage and to slightly lower yields. A crop of 74,558,000 quarts of berries is estimated for this group. Reports for the United States to date show that the picking acreage is 12 per cent less than in 1929, yields per acre running about 6 per cent lower and total estimated production about 17 per cent below that of 1929.

United Cigar Stores Corporation.

L. W. R.—When the "Gold Dust Twins people" bought the controlling interest in United Cigar Stores, they announced that they had obtained the consent of the majority of the stockholders of United Cigars, Tobacco Products, &c., &c., to convert those stocks into United Stores Corporation "A" shares. That was months ago. Why, then, is United Cigar Stores stock still sold on the stock exchange? When will United Stores "A" begin to pay dividends?

Answer—The mere fact that holders of these stocks have deposited their shares in exchange for stock of the new United Stores Corporation does not wipe them out of existence until such exchange has been actually consummated. In any case, up to the latest announcement, all of such stocks have not been deposited for exchange.

This is why the stock of the United Cigar Stores Co. is still sold and quoted on the New York Stock Exchange. Impossible to say when dividends on United Stores "A" will begin. Probably when they are earned and when directors of company deem it advisable to inaugurate same.

Diversified Trustees Shares.

C. M. O'N.—Kindly give me your opinion of Diversified Trustees Shares series "C" as an investment.

Answer—Diversified Trustee Shares, series "C," is a fixed investment trust in common stocks. Certificates are issued by American Trustee Share Corporation as depositor and Chatham Phenix National Bank & Trust Co., New York, as trustee, under trust agreement dated September 5, 1929. Each Diversified Trustee share, series "C," represents 1-4,000 interest in a unit of 250 shares of common stock, deposited with and held by trustees in its name or names of its nominees.

Each unit consists of five shares each of a number of the most prominent railroad, public utility, industrial, oil and mining companies in the country. However, no dividends have thus far been paid on Diversified Trustee Shares, series "C," and because of this fact, they are not to be included in the category of investments.

United Corporation.

Miss E. L. H.—I am considering buying some United Corporation stock, and would like your opinion of its possibilities as a long-term holding. When do you think it will be put on a dividend-paying basis?

Answer—While United Corporation is held in very high regard on account of its seemingly bright future prospects, the stock is not to be included in the category of investments for the reason that it has not yet been placed upon a dividend-paying basis.

As to when it may be, is entirely problematical and depends wholly upon future earnings. Thus far these do not warrant the placing of the stock on the dividend-paying list, as for the period from January 1 to May 12, 1930, the amount earned for the common stock was only 28 cents per share.

Twin City Rapid Transit; Others.

J. L. T.—Will you kindly give me some information concerning the following stocks: Twin City Rapid Transit, United Electrical Coal, Continental Motors, Lefcourt Realty?

Answer—Twin City Rapid Transit Co. directors on May 20 last declared a dividend of $2 a share on common stock for six months ending June 30, 1930, payable on or before July 15, 1937, to stockholders of record July 1, 1930, dividend to be evidenced by notes and fractional scrip. Notes would bear interest after July 15, 1930, at 6 per cent per annum, payable semiannually January and July 15. Notes and scrip might be exchanged for first lien and refunding bonds or cash at option of company at or before maturity. Last cash payment on common was $1 a share on January 2, 1930.

Stated plan to pay dividend on common in manner just indicated adopted to facilitate redemption of certain bonds falling due in 1937. Lefcourt Realty pays $1.60 annually in cash regular and 25 cents extra. Because of this fact, the stock has some little attractiveness from a speculative investment viewpoint. The same, however, can not be said of the others, especially United Electrical Coal and Continental Motors, both of which recently passed their common stock dividends.

Gold Dust and Others.

J. A. H.—Will you kindly advise me which of the following stocks you consider preferable for one who is willing to take a business man's risk: Gold Dust common, Kruegar & Toll, Cities Service, National City Bank or American Light & Traction? I would especially like to know what you think of Gold Dust?

Answer—National City Bank stock, on which annual dividends of $4 a share are at present being paid, is in a class by itself as a high-grade investment, when contrasted with the other stocks named, all of which are to a certain extent speculative, though possessing investment qualities. Dividends have not yet been inaugurated on the new 4-for-1 split-up common shares of the American Light & Traction Co., but, in view of the dividend record of the old common stock, the new is very well thought of.

Both Krueger & Toll and Cities Service, being dividend payers, are likewise held in considerable esteem, this applying particularly to the latter, not only because of dividends, but on account of current record-breaking earnings and bright future prospects for the company. Gold Dust has excellent banking sponsorship, and the executives of the company are known for their keen business foresight and ability. Earnings are understood to be better than at this time last year.

Interests identified with the property are reported to have purchased a substantial stock interest in the Beechnut Packing Co., and which may ultimately result in an alliance of the two. Annual dividends of $2.50 per share compare with last year's earnings of $4.06 a share. The stock may be regarded as a speculative investment, having considerable merit for long-term holding.

Associated Gas & Electric Rights.

W. G. F.—Will you kindly give me your opinion of Associated Gas & Electric debenture rights? Do you consider them a good investment?

Answer—These rights have no investment quality and are merely speculative. They simply entitle the holder to subscribe to the convertible debenture bonds of the company under certain conditions and for a given length of time.

Consolidated Cigar.

F. V.—Please furnish me with some information on Consolidated Cigar. What dividend is paid?

Answer—Dividends on Consolidated Cigar are at the rate of $7 per year, and at current prices the yield is in excess of 10 per cent. Dividends at the $7 rate were resumed in 1926 after omission since 1921. Profits in the first nine months of last year equaled $6.54 per share, as compared with $10.60 a share for the twelve months of 1928. The company represents a merger of four cigar concerns in 1919 and has $11,000,000 6½ per cent cumulative prior preferred, $3,327,500 7 per cent cumulative preferred and 250,000 shares of no-par common. Smaller earnings in 1929 are attributed to changes in methods of distribution, but the new policy of selling direct to dealers is expected to increase sales. Consolidated Cigar may be classed as a speculative investment.

North American Aviation.

Mrs. M. W. E.—Kindly let me have information concerning North American Aviation as to its financial backing, and if exceptionally risky as a speculative investment for a woman.

Answer—North American Aviation, at the present stage, must be considered as a speculation and not suitable for investment, particularly for a woman. The board of directors, however, is of high caliber, and the future of the company, while seemingly promising, is entirely problematical, particularly so as the stock pays no dividends. The company is an aviation investment trust and holding organization. The balance sheet for 1929 shows investments in wholly owned subsidiaries at cost, plus earnings, of $7,176,580, and in partially owned companies of $1,350,000, while cash and call loans amounted to $3,721,254. The company has no funded debt.

About Pennsylvania Railroad.

W. T. D.—I will appreciate your opinion of Pennsylvania Railroad stock. Also advise if their stock listed on the stock exchange is common or preferred.

Answer—Pennsylvania R. R. has only one class of stock, common, the par value of the shares being $50. These shares are very highly regarded from an investment viewpoint. Annual dividends of $4 are being paid on them, and at prevailing prices the yield to the investor is slightly in excess of 5 per cent. Earnings of the company for 1929 were equal to $8.82 on the outstanding capital or more than double the amount of the dividend requirement.

National Biscuit.

U. O. I.—How do you regard National Biscuit from an investment angle?

Answer—National Biscuit is regarded as one of the premier issues. Because of the low price of certain commodities used by National an expansion in earnings is anticipated this year. Profits for 1929 equaled $8.21 per common share, as against the present dividend of $2.80 annually on the $10 par common. First quarter earnings are understood to exceed those for the 1929 period, while profits for the second quarter may surpass those of the first. National is expected to absorb the Pacific Coast Biscuit Co. on the basis of seven-twelfths of a share of National for one share of Pacific Coast Biscuit, and twice as much for each share of the latter's preferred stock.

PUBLIC NOTICES

ZONING COMMISSION OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, May 23, 1930. In accordance with the provisions of Section 3 of an Act of Congress, approved March 1, 1920 (Public No. 153, Sixty-sixth Congress, entitled "An Act to regulate the height, area and use of buildings in the District of Columbia and to create a Zoning Commission, and for other purposes"), notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held in the Board Room of the District Building beginning at 10:00 a. m., June 4, 1930, for the purpose of considering the following proposed changes in the zoning regulations, and the boundaries of the use, height and area districts, to wit: Add to Section XIII, page 11, of the zoning regulations a new paragraph, as follows: "13. In the residential, 60', C area district on streets 110 feet or more in width, buildings may be erected to any height not to exceed 90 feet, provided that for each 5 feet, or fraction thereof, above 60 feet, the allowable lot occupancy shall be reduced by 2% of the total lot area; and provided further that Paragraph 1, Section XIX, shall not apply to such a building." Add to Section IV, page 8, of the zoning regulations a new paragraph, as follows: "In the first commercial district, a vacant lot may be used for the temporary parking of cars, provided no repairing or servicing is permitted and no gasoline, oil or other fuel sold, and provided further that when the permit is issued there are on file with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia the written consents of the owners of 75 per cent of the property within 200 feet of the proposed establishment."

BAILEY TAKES PLEA FOR FARE INCREASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Motion of Keech, Asking Revaluation of Trolley Firms Studied.

PREVIOUS ARGUMENTS ARE AGAIN PRESENTED

Regardless of Decision of Justice, Losing Side to Appeal, Is Report.

The fate of Washington's car riders rests in the hands of Justice Jennings Bailey, of District of Columbia Supreme Court, who yesterday took under advisement pleas of the two traction companies for increased fares.

Action of Justice Bailey followed four and a half days of arguments for and against petitions of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. for a review of the Public Utilities Commission's ruling in denying them a 10-cent fare.

Justice Bailey also took under advisement a motion of Peoples Counsel Richmond B. Keech for a revaluation of the properties of the two companies.

Review Procedure Elected.

At the outset of the hearing, Justice Bailey asked counsel for the traction companies to elect whether they would proceed under the statute giving the Supreme Court an appellate jurisdiction over the orders of the Public Utilities Commission, or as an original equity proceeding under the court's general equity powers.

The counsel decided to proceed under the statute, which made the proceedings in the nature of a review of the commission's action.

Attorney George T. Dunlop appeared on behalf of the Traction company, while Attorney S. Russell Bowen represented the other company. The Utilities Commission was represented by Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, while Mr. Keech appeared in his capacity as people's counsel.

Old Arguments Presented.

Arguments of the opposing counsel were in substance similar to those offered last December at a hearing on a temporary injunction to restrain the Utilities Commission from interfering with the companies in putting into effect increased fare rates. At that time Justice Alfred A. Wheat refused to issue a temporary injunction declaring that the case should be heard on its merits. Counsel for the two companies contended that the present fare is insufficient to bring a fair return on the value of the property and amounts to confiscation of property rights.

No intimation was forthcoming as to when Justice Bailey will render his decision. It was understood, however, that, regardless of his decision, the losing side will appeal.

THIRD CONFERENCE ON STREET SAFETY ADOPTS NEW CODES

Amendments Are Favored as Delegates Adjourn Capital Meeting.

NOTE OF APPRECIATION FORWARDED TO HOOVER

Lamont Says States Must Attempt to Carry Out Recommendations.

Adoption of minor changes in phrasing of the uniform vehicle code and the model municipal ordinance together with specific recommendations for the protection of railway grade crossings, maintenance of motor vehicles and remedies for the relief of traffic congestion occupied the final session of the third National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, which adjourned yesterday.

At the conclusion of its deliberations, the conference adopted a message of appreciation to President Hoover, which read:

"Under the inspiration of your appeal to this conference at its opening meeting to promulgate effective measures for the reduction of traffic accidents and congestion," the message read, "the conference has considered and adopted reports covering every phase of this vital and complex problem, and the members thereof, representing nearly every State and important civil or business group in the Nation, return to their communities and to their official, professional and business responsibilities inspired with a deep determination to make the recommendations of this conference effective, so that your confidence in us may not have been misplaced."

Lamont Favors State Action.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont, chairman of the conference, in a closing address declared the relief of the Nation's traffic ills is a matter for State action.

"It is not for the Federal Government to undertake to carry out your recommendations," he said. "That can not be done without violence to our fundamental political principles. It is the proper function and desire of the Federal Government to assist the States and municipalities in carrying out the purposes of the conference, but not to encroach upon the authority which rightfully belongs to them. I think the deliberations of the conference are a convincing guaranty that they will have the earnest support of the organizations and associations which have been represented here."

Concurrence was voted in the proposal by Harold S. Buttenheim, editor of the American City Magazine, for continued cooperation between the Federal Government and the States and municipalities in solving the traffic problem. In acting on this proposal, the delegates recommended to Congress that necessary legislation be provided to permit such governmental agencies as the Bureau of Public Roads, the Department of Commerce and other units of the Government to conduct research in important traffic problems.

National Foundation Seen.

Secretary Lamont was requested to appoint a committee to consider the establishment of a national foundation, nongovernmental in character, which would be equipped to conduct comprehensive studies of problems of congestion affecting public safety, the stability of property values and the orderly development of urban communities.

Both the uniform vehicle code and the model municipal ordinance, the former designed for State traffic regulation and the latter for regulation in cities, were approved by the conference virtually as they were presented.

Prof. A. W. Whitney, chairman of the education committee, declared safety as taught in the schools is far more than drilling, but represents an endeavor to have children face the danger frankly and intelligently. That 30 per cent of all fatal accidents involve children of school age and under, a toll of nearly 6,000 children killed last year, was reported. Adequate playgrounds were advocated as a preventive measure.

Radio Safety Campaign.

Alderman T. J. Bowler, of Chicago, called upon the conference to utilize radio and motion pictures in a Nation-wide safety education campaign and his motion was approved. Lloyd Blanchard, secretary to the governor's traffic committee in Massachusetts, described the effectiveness of organized educational efforts in that State.

The report of the drafting committee was presented by its chairman, George B. Young, of Montpelier, Vt., who was a delegate for the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. This report asserted that violation of right of way is one of the most pronounced causes of accidents, and viewed this fact as demonstrating the need for adopting definite regulations as set forth in the uniform code. Study of traffic accident records and the establishment of adequate agencies for the administration and enforcement of the traffic laws and regulations was recommended.

On motion of W. N. Doak, national legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, it was agreed to broaden the language of the code relating to signaling devices and warning signs at crossings so as not to hamper future development of these contrivances.

Woman Pedestrian Injured.

While crossing Ninth and B streets northwest yesterday afternoon, Annie M. Bohrer, 56 years old, of 101 U street northwest, suffered a possible fractured ankle, when she was struck by an automobile. Her injury was treated at Emergency Hospital. The car was operated by Paul Boone, of 1728 Eighth street northwest.

$792,025 IS ASKED AS DISTRICT COURT FUND DURING 1932

Supreme and Appeals Judges Want $633,095 of Total for Their Work.

ADDITIONAL JURORS WILL INCREASE COST.

Shortage of Clerical Help Delays Proceedings of Juvenile Bench.

Operation of District courts will require a total of $792,025, according to estimates submitted to the District Commissioners for 1932 by the various judges.

The District Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals will require $633,095 of this amount without making allowances for additional sums which will be needed if the bill providing for two more judges, now pending in Congress, is enacted at this session.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt, presiding judge of Police Court, told the Commissioners that an increase of $12,000 over the $30,000 carried in the 1931 appropriation bill as reported to the Senate was needed to provide for the pay of an additional jury.

Jury Cases Only Congestion.

With twelve additional jurors, Judge Schuldt said, the "Police Court could dispose of approximately 50 per cent more jury cases a year," adding that jury cases represented the only congestion in the Police Court. At present, Judge Schuldt explained, one branch of Police Court hears jury cases during the full day while another hears such cases only after it has completed hearing of other business.

The total asked for the Police Court in 1932 was $158,540 and $12,000 of this amount represents the increase asked for an additional jury. The total for salaries for employes of Police Court was $104,840, an increase of $300, to provide for an increase in pay for the presiding judge. Witness fees were estimated at $15,000 for the year, the same amount provided in the 1931 appropriation bill as reported to the Senate.

Nonsupport cases have declined in number before the Juvenile Court, Judge Kathryn Sellers reported. They numbered 983 between July 3, 1926, and June 30, 1927; 812 between July 1, 1927, and June 30, 1928; and 628 between July 1, 1928, and June 30, 1929, Judge Sellers reported.

Needs More Clerks.

Clerical work in the Juvenile Court is not and can not be handled properly with the present staff, the report said, and much needed work is not accomplished because of the lack of clerical help to relieve other officers for the work of the court. Judge Sellers asked for a total of $71,760 for 1932, of which $2,000 was for pay of jurors and $65,510 was for salaries and personal services. This latter figure compares with $59,490 carried in the 1931 bill.

The Municipal Court estimates totaled $87,170, the only increase over 1931 being to provide for the step-ups in salaries provided for by law.

The increase asked by the Supreme Court were to provide $60 a year increases in pay for 25 employes who have not been given their annual step-up since 1928, and for the repair and improvement of the court building. For this $18,485 was asked for 1932 as compared with $7,000. Other items included $32,000 for witness fees, $85,000 for jurors, $49,940 for bailiffs, $10,380 for the probation system, and $37,700 for operation of the courthouse and $88,700 for the salaries of the seven judges and their seven stenographers.

Pointing out that there is pending before Congress a deficiency appropriation of $45,000, the judges asked for $100,000 for the improvement of the Supreme Court building as against $80,000 carried in the 1931 appropriation bill. The Court of Appeals asked for no increases over the 1931 Senate appropriation bill items. These include $67,510 for salaries, and $110,000 for utilization by the District attorney in prosecutions.

IRREGULARITY HALTS TRIAL IN FRAUD CASE

Mistrial Declared After Talk of Juror and Defendant Is Reported.

JUDGE WITHDRAWS JURY

A reported conversation between a juror and one of the defendants in a bankruptcy fraud case yesterday caused Justice William Hitz to withdraw a Supreme Court jury and declare a mistrial.

The case on trial involved T. Oliver Probey, Milton Probey, Marion T. Edwards and John H. Frankeberger. All were indicted more than three years ago on a charge of conspiracy to violate the bankruptcy laws in connection with the bankruptcy of the Probey Tire Stores. Harry L. Elkins was jointly indicted with the quartet, but obtained a severance due to the illness of his attorney, Lucian Vandoren.

Action of Justice Hitz in withdrawing the jury and declaring a mistrial came as a surprise, and no explanation was given at the time. Later it was learned that the justice had been told by one of the jurors that he had seen another juryman talking with one of the defendants.

The case had been on trial for more than a week and the Government closed its case Wednesday afternoon. The mistrial was declared before the defense had offered any testimony.

Assistant United States Attorneys William H. Collins and Walter M. Shea appeared for the Government, while the Probeys were represented by Samuel Hawken, Frankeberger by Attorney J. Robert Esher, and Edwards by Attorney Frank J. Kelly.

It was understood that the case will be set for trial within the next week or two.

Wife's Zeal for Lodge Causes Divorce Suit

The age-old excuse: "I've been to a lodge meeting," figures in a divorce suit filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. This time, however, the situation is reversed, and the husband complains that the wife was the one who offered the time-worn excuse.

Louis Naples, of E street near North Capitol, is the husband and complainant, and the suit is directed against Mrs. Edna Estelle Naples, of Kentucky avenue southeast near Pennsylvania avenue. Naples names a corespondent and seeks an absolute divorce.

The husband, through Attorney M. J. Lane, tells the court that he and his wife were married June 8, 1921, and that he was forced to leave her last February when she insisted on remaining away from home until all hours of the night and morning. He charges his wife with many intimacies with the corespondent and alleges that when he questioned her as to where she had been she almost invariably told him she had been attending a lodge meeting.

Third Defendant Acquitted on Charge of Slaying Police Informer.

FACE OTHER INDICTMENT

Charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of Edward Smith, Negro informer, Theodore Smith, colored, was acquitted and Leon Thomas Brown and Lawrence Bias, also Negroes, were found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in District Supreme Court yesterday. The jury was out less than four hours.

Brown, who on the stand, admitted that he fired several shots at two men who were armed, told a straightforward story that Government attorneys were unable to shake and in his case the jury recommended mercy "because of mitigating circumstances."

The trial had been under way for more than a week. The trio was accused of having wilfully slain Edward Smith on the night of May 13, 1929, in the Southwest section. A companion of Smith, Clarence Harvey, Negro, was killed at the same time and the trio also is under indictment on a charge of first degree murder in connection with his death. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover declined yesterday to state whether he would nolle prosse that indictment.

Assistant United States Attorneys Irving Goldstein and James A. Kirkland appeared for the Government, while the defendants were represented by Attorneys James A. O'Shea, John H. Burnett, William R. Ives and John H. Wilson.

William Bradley, colored, who was jointly indicted with the three men who were tried, was wounded in the melee and died several months ago at the jail as a result of his wounds.

League Off for Summer Camp.

The League for the Larger Life left the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon to open its summer camp at Calvert Beach, Md., on Chesapeake Bay. The members will return tomorrow and Sunday.

BOARD RULE CHANGE IS URGED BY BALLOU

Gilligan Is Unsatisfied With Answer to Charge of "Gagging" Teacher.

SCHOOL HEAD EXPLAINS

Sweeping changes in the rules of the Board of Education pertaining to the participation of teachers in legislative activities and to the manner in which they are permitted to appear before the board were forecast yesterday in District school circles.

Henry Gilligan, board member, who charged Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou with refusing to allow a teacher to appear before the board in the interest of kindergarten legislation, remained unsatisfied yesterday with the explanation of Dr. Ballou concerning the nonappearance of the teacher in question at a board meeting.

Amplifying his denial of the charge brought by Mr. Gilligan, Dr. Ballou said yesterday that the teacher, Miss Catherine Watkins, head of the kindergarten department, had asked "his approval" of her coming before the board to discuss the kindergarten issue. Dr. Ballou said that he advised Miss Watkins not to appear because the kindergarten legislation was before the Senate at the time and in controversy. Dr. Ballou added that a rule of the board frowns on legislative matters that are in controversy in Congress being discussed at a board meeting.

Killing of Rule Sought.

Mr. Gilligan said yesterday that this policy should be abolished. He also expressed disapproval of the board rule forbidding teachers and other employes to appear at congressional hearings without permission of the Board of Education unless they are summoned by senators or representatives.

Mr. Gilligan plans an attack on these rules. He also will seek revision and clarification of another rule of the board which provides that "all communications to the Board of Education from any of its employes shall be transmitted in regular order to the superintendent of schools, who shall present the same to the board with or without his approval."

Mr. Gilligan charges that Superintendent Ballou violated this rule in advising Miss Watkins not to appear before the board. Dr. Ballou contends that the letter from Miss Watkins was not addressed to the board, but to him, asking his personal opinion.

Letter Shown to Carusi.

Dr. Ballou said yesterday that he showed this letter to Dr. Charles F. Carusi, president of the board, together with one Miss Watkins asked Dr. Ballou to forward to Dr. Carusi, before writing an answer.

A further effort was made by Miss Watkins to appear before the board, Mr. Gilligan learned yesterday. On this occasion she was kept waiting outside the board room for nearly two hours and was never admitted, though Dr. Ballou knew she was waiting, according to the information which Mr. Gilligan said he received.

Miss Watkins, desiring not to be drawn further into the controversy, would not verify the reports last night. The entire matter is expected to receive further airing at the board meeting next Wednesday.

COMMUNITY GROUPS PRESENT PROGRAMS

Columbia Heights, Thomson Centers Give Season's Last Entertainments.

PLAYS, DANCING FEATURE

Closing community entertainment programs of the season, with children of various ages and adults participating, were presented before substantial crowds last night by the Columbia Heights Community Center at the Wilson Normal School, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest, and by the Thomson Community Center, at Twelfth and L streets northwest.

A one-act play, "Finders Keepers," under the direction of Mrs. Aurora M. Poston, and having in its cast Miss Helen Burton, Miss Iva Minor and A. E. Dubber, jr., was the feature of the Columbia Heights program.

Two dancing acts were presented under the direction of Miss Frances Brightwell and well received.

Mrs. Arthur Sevin, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. M. Mannaway, sang a group of songs.

At the short business meeting Alton B. Carty and H. C. Phillips were chosen to serve as members of the advisory committee of the Columbia Heights Community Center for the ensuing year.

Mrs. John Hunter, secretary, had charge of the affair.

A varied program at Thomson Center was marked by numerous musical numbers. Vocal selections were rendered by O. E. Barber and Mrs. Katherine Passerro. A one-act play was presented by Elizabeth Hunter, Perry Allen and John Zeller, with a reading by Babett Leavy, a reading by Mrs. Sarah Deeds, a specialty by Frances Berry, a reading by Gertrude Leavy, a sketch by Mrs. Oliver McMurray, and a one-act play by H. P. Connor, C. F. Tierney and Ivy Randall.

Tap dancing numbers were staged by Bettie Gerhold, Mary Gerhold, Bettie Hoffman, Ruth Jacobs and Maribeuler Warder, and by another group numbering Helen Stafford Smith, Pauline Collier, Helen Collier, Amy Rand Norton, Caroline Cliff, Amaury Silva, Frances Berry and Corita Hunter, directed by Loretto Murphy.

A feature of the program by the Kazoo Band, under direction of Jake Heidenheimer.

$18,500 FOR POLICE RADIO SETS SOUGHT

President Asks Congress for Appropriation to Lower Installation Cost.

OTHER AMOUNTS URGED

A supplemental appropriation estimate of $18,500 for establishment of a radio broadcasting station for the local Police Department was sent to Congress yesterday by President Hoover.

The money would be used, not only on construction of the radio station, but for purchase of radio receiving sets for sixteen police automobiles.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, had planned to ask that the appropriation be carried in the 1932 District appropriation bill, but the Commissioners now have asked that it be carried in the second deficiency bill this year.

In a message accompanying the request for the money, Director of the Budget J. Clawson Roop said:

"A study of experiences of other cities in employment of radio methods for prevention and detection of crimes and other offenses has convinced the Commissioners that it would be desirable to apply such methods in the District of Columbia."

The Federal Radio Commission, he said, already has allocated a short-wave length to the Police Department.

Other supplemental estimates recommended for the District yesterday brought the total to $46,472. The others were as follows: For the repair of Columbia Hospital, $20,000; for writs of lunacy, $2,100, and for payment of judgments against the District, $5,872.

Knights Templar March to Service

600 in Full Dress Attend Ascension Day Rites in Georgetown.

Approximately 600 Knights Templar of Washington in full dress uniform paraded from the Masonic Temple, at Thirteenth street and New York avenue northwest, last night to the Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church in Georgetown to attend the annual Ascension Day service.

Two newly organized bands, formed under the direction of Grand Commander Joseph H. Milans, and the Grotto band played as the Knights marched with police escort.

The Rev. Hirl H. Kester, pastor, preached the sermon, and the church choir sang. The service was under the auspices of the grand commandery.

"Platoon" Is Dropped From Name of School

The word "platoon" will be dropped from the name of the new Charles Young Platoon School, Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou announced yesterday following action of the Board of Education.

The school was one of several named by the Board of Education last week. It is not customary to apply the word "platoon" in the names of schools of this character in this District, Superintendent Ballou pointed out.

Man Sentenced for Year On Mann Act Violation

Convicted by a District Supreme Court jury on a Mann act charge, Thomas Elson Robertson was sentenced yesterday by Justice William Hitt to serve a year and a day in jail.

Robertson was convicted of having transported Gertrude Epstein from the District to Staten Island, N. Y., where they are alleged to have lived as man and wife for several days. Testimony was to the effect that Robertson, who was a former rooomer in the home of the girl's mother, sent the girl a money order for her railroad fare to Staten Island. Assistant United States Attorney James F Hughes appeared for the Government while Attorney Abner Siegal represented the defendant.

Debate Club Rum Sale Charge Fails

Two Demand Jury Trials on Possession and Nuisance Count.

Charges of sale of liquor were dropped yesterday in Police Court against Ignacio Olivetti and John Rosetto, who were arrested Wednesday at a "debating club" on I street northwest between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. Both men, however, were arraigned on charges of maintaining a nuisance and possession of liquor. They pleaded not guilty and demanded jury trials. Judge Gus A Schuldt reduced their bonds from the $2,500, assessed by the police, to $1,000 each.

The raid was staged by Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and his vice squad on a Commissioner's warrant sworn to by an informer who alleged that he had purchased whisky at the place from Rosetto.

In addition to finding a quantity of liquor, the police seized the club roster, said to contain names of several prominent Washingtonians, and the club charter, they testified. Attorney Phillip W. Austin appeared for the two men, while Assistant United States Attorney Julian I. Richards represented the Government.

Snell Named Head Of Citizens' Group

Conduit Road Association Asks Better Street Car Service.

W. A. Snell was elected president of the Conduit Road Citizens Association last night at the Potomac Heights Community Church to succeed Clyde S. Bailey. Other officers chosen were:

E. S. Hobbs, first vice president; Mrs. H. P. Steimer, second vice president; Albert Lyman, recording secretary; Linn C. Drake, corresponding secretary; C. J. Peterson, treasurer; William A. Roberts and Mrs. R. C. Rittue, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Reports were made by retiring officers and chairmen of committees. A resolution asking better street car service for the community was adopted. The association will not meet again until next September.

Grand Larceny Suspect Brought Back to Capital

Thomas S. Spun, 27 years old, of Ingraham street near Seventh street northwest, was brought back to Washington from New York City last night in the custody of Detective Sergt. Curtis Trammel. He was charged with grand larceny.

Police say the charge grew out of the alleged theft of a $1,500 ring from James W. Orme, of Georgia avenue near Van Buren street northwest.

Girl, 4, Severely Hurt In Tumble From Auto

Tumbling to the pavement at Fifth and East Capitol streets from the running board of an automobile, 4-year-old Edith Callaway, of 325 East Capitol street, received severe injuries to the head and abrasions of the face early last night. She was treated at Casualty Hospital and taken home by her parents. Her condition was reported as undetermined.

Fifth Precinct police said the machine was operated by Ray Giles, of the East Capitol street address, who had driven the machine from the residence without knowing the child had hopped to the running board.

Policeman Who Went To Halt Holdup Lauded

Policeman J. P. Comiskey, of the Fourth Precinct, who left his home Tuesday night and went to the aid of Bernard E. Thaxton, who was being held up on Delaware avenue south of B street southwest, was formally commended yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

Private Comiskey pursued and arrested James Rhone, colored, who was one of the men Thaxton said had attempted to hold him up. Rhone resisted arrest and was shot in the leg and was taken to the hospital.

Customs Man Regains Old Position at London

Bernard Walt, deputy commissioner of customs in charge of the customs agency service, the investigating branch of the customs service, yesterday was transferred to the post of Treasury attache in charge at London, effective July 1. He formerly held the same position.

Thomas J. Gorman, assistant deputy commissioner of customs, was appointed to the vacancy. Charles L. Turrill, present Treasury attache in London, will be brought here for assignment.

Employe at Gasoline Station Robbed of $70

Paul A. Barbot, employe of a gasoline filling station at Sixth and K streets northwest, was robbed of $70 by two armed men last night. After they had taken his money, the men locked Barbot in the rest room and departed.

Barbot told police of the Second Precinct that the men worked so quickley he had little chance to see what they looked like. He could not give the police a description of the pair.

Protest Directed At Paving Charge

Prospective Hotel Builder Asks Cancelation of Assessment.

Joseph J. Moebs, of the Dupont Circle Building, who states that he plans to build a hotel on his Dupont Circle property formed by the junction of Nineteenth street and Connecticut avenue, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to cancel a paving assessment based on the front-foot basis. The suit is directed against the District Commissioners.

Moebs tells the court that the property is now improved and that in the recent widening and resurfacing of the avenue an assessment of $3,865.06 was levied. He declares that the widening and paving has not increased the value of his property and declares that his constitutional rights are violated by the assessment.

Moebs also tells the court that his application for a permit to construct a hotel on the lot is now before the building inspector, and states that he desires to begin work on the proposed hostelry as soon as the inspector acts. He adds, however, that he wants the assessment matter settled so that the District will not sell his property after the hotel is constructed. Attorney Charles T. Diggs appears for Moebs.

Grave of School Head Visited by Students

Establishing a new custom for Washington schools, the student council of the Paul Junior High School made a pilgrimage yesterday afternoon to the grave of Edward A. Paul, after whom the school is named.

Taking flowers, the council decorated the grave and stood in silent prayer for several minutes. Mr. Paul was the first principal of Central High School. This is the first time that a Washington school has conducted a ceremony of this character, according to school officials.

Georgetown Law Class Holds Annual Banquet

Members of the night senior law class of Georgetown University held its annual banquet last night at the Hamilton Hotel, with Judge Michael Doyle and Daniel O'Donohue, members of the faculty, as honor guests.

William J. O'Neill is president and Leo D'Orsey is vice president of the class. A. J. Loda, Jack Lewis and Paul Albus comprised the entertainment committee for the affair.

Police Rule Nearly Costs Girls Memorial Day Outing

Traffic Bureau Refuses to Part With Recovered Suitcase Lost From Running Board of Car After Identification Is Made.

Police red tape in the form of a trivial though unwavering regulation almost cost four Washington girls a curtailed Memorial Day outing at Atlantic City.

A very prosaic suitcase caused all the trouble and after a series of adventures of its own finally spent the night at the Traffic Bureau, while its owner, bereft temporarily of her holiday wardrobe, finally embarked on her trip with her three companions, sadder but wiser in the whys and wherefores of official rules.

It all happened when Miss Louise Eckstein, of 1801 Columbia road northwest, set forth yesterday afternoon with Miss Evelyn Collins, Miss Teresa Collins and Miss Mary Winston, in two automobiles. In a brief pause on G street near Eleventh street northwest, while shifting traveling bags Miss Eckstein's suitcase was placed on the running board of one of the machines.

On reaching Riverdale, Md., they discovered that the article was missing. A lengthy search led to the First Precinct station, where they were told that Traffic Policeman V. Mitten had turned it in to the Traffic Bureau. Complete identification of the bag and its contents brought only the reiterated explanation that regulations specified in unalterable terms that lost or stolen goods must go through the property clerk's office.

It was after closing time in the District Building, but their combined entreaties availed not. Miss Eckstein finally packed up another bag and ventured away, disdaining a wait until this morning to retrieve the suitcase and an abbreviated outing.

BIBLE WORLD'S BEST SELLER

It is remarkable that the world's oldest book should also be the best seller year after year. Dr. Abram Simon, the brilliant and beloved rabbi of the largest flock of the Jewish people in Washington, has written a wonderful article for The Post on this literary fact.

A Baltimore artist, who knew Cardinal Gibbons intimately for more than thirty years, has just completed a portrait of his eminence that is creating a sensation in religious and art circles. You will be interested in her picture and her friendship. The story is in The Post.

Washington has at the great Presbyterian General Assembly at Cincinnati a lay commissioner who has organized a number of churches here and whose religious life is an inspiration to laymen and ministers of every denomination. His story has never been told before.

These are some of the features you will find on The Post's Church Page, which starts Saturday.
